SHIP CARRYING 320 CHILDREN TORPEDOED, BUT ALL ARE SAVED BY RESCUE STEAMERS

Bloody Revolts against Hungarians Sweep Rumania

Violent Demonstrations Protesting Axis Awards Reported at Key Points

Bucharest and Cluj Troops Kept Busy Trying to Quel Revolts of Angry Citizens

By ROBERT ST. JOHN

BUCHAREST, RUMANIA, Sept. 2—(Monday)—(AP)—A mob broke into the German consulte at Brasov early today, ripped down pictures of Adolf Hitler and ground them to bits underfoot as bloody demonstrations swept all Rumania and pitchfork - brandishing peasants lined the border of old Transylvania, determined not to yield to Hungary under Axis compulsion.

Famous Statesman Jailed

A famous statesman was jailed in Bucharest, thousands of reserve gendarmes were called out and warnings were broadcast over the radio in the Rumanian government's unavailing effort to end the rioting against the ceding half of Transylvania.

Damage was widespread and there were countless injuries.

At Grasov, home of a large German group, Nazi flags in the German consulate were torn down and reviled and a Nazi sportsman named Hehnline, who had gone there for an automobile race, was attacked.

Swastika Torn Down

A swastika was snatched from his car and replaced by the Rumanian standard.

A former minister to Rome and a former cabinet member were among those jailed in Bucharest for leading demonstrations.

The Royal palace of King Carol was surrounded by large squads of troops and gendarmes with fixed bayonets. They used tear gas to hold the crows back and on at least one occasion broke up demonstrations by spraying the mob with water sprinklers.

Armored cars patrolled around palace, and the capital streets rumbled with their passing, machine guns bristling from every turret.

Grave Measures Planned

The Bucharest radio announced the public had been allowed three days in which to express its feeling over the German-Italian decision that Rumania give Hungary half of Transylvania, but it said this period now was over and grave measures would be taken against demonstrators.

However, the wave of popular

Engines of Big Airliner Wide Open when Ship Hits Ground

LOVETTSVILLE, Va., Sept. 1 (AP)—A Pennsylvania central airline official said today the airplane that crashed twenty-five persons to instantaneous death in the nation's worst commercial aviation disaster apparently struck the ground with the throttles of both engines wide open.

But as haggard ambulance crews assembled the torn bodies, among them that of Senator Ernest Lundeen (FL-Minn) there was found no clue as to what sent the giant airliner plummeting to the foot of the Blue Ridge mountains during a cloudburst yesterday afternoon.

Willkie Promises To Halt Federal Control of Unions

Wants Collective Bargaining upon the Basis of Good Will

DECLARES LABOR MUST FIGHT DICTATORSHIPS

Plans To Confer with Many Republican Leaders Thursday

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

Rushville, Ind., Sept. 1 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie said in a Labor Day statement today that if he were elected president he would "arrest the present trend toward placing labor unions under government control."

In a labor-industry relationship? he asserted, "we must rely on the compulsion of the law only as a last extremity."

"I shall lend every influence" the the Republican nominee continued, "to establish forthright collective bargaining between management and men upon a basis of good will, conciliation, and economic voluntarism and free from interference."

After issuing his Labor Day statement, Willkie disclosed that a meeting Thursday with midwest Republican leaders would be expanded to include representatives from New England and other eastern states.

Plans Extensive Campaign

Willkie's aides said that the meeting would be preliminary to an extensive Republican campaign. They explained that the nominee wanted to talk with party officials from states where he will do little or no campaigning on his forthcoming 7,000-mile western tour.

In his labor day comment, Willkie said that American labor "is determined to do everything to pre-

Willkie Accused Of Giving Out Secret Report

Roosevelt's Secretary Says Candidate Secured U. S. Document

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN EN ROUTE TO CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 1 (AP)—A high White House official tonight criticized Wendell L. Willkie on the grounds that, as a private citizen, he had made public sections of a confidential government document.

In support of his opposition to a provision in the conscription bill permitting the government to take over plants needed for defense contracts the Republican presidential nominee released at Rushville, Ind., yesterday what he described as portions of a report by the war resources board headed by Edward R. Stettinius, now a member of the Defense Commission.

Report Never Given Out

The report handed to President Roosevelt several months ago, never had been made public.

Stephen T. Early, presidential secretary, told reporters on a special train taking the president into the south on a speaking trip:

"I merely will say to you that the Stettinius report is a confidential government document. Willkie is still a private citizen and has released excerpts from a confidential government report."

Furious Fighting Marks Sunday in Parts of England

German Planes Swarm up the Thames and Bombard Croydon

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 2, (Monday) — German warplanes swarming up the Thames estuary penetrated as far as Croydon, London's great airport, in a series of savage Sunday assults, the British air ministry and ministry of home security acknowledged today.

The object of raids on the southeast of England "may have been to attack our airdromes in this area, but only very slight damage was done," said the communique.

Results of the Sabbath air fighting were tallied by the ministries with the statement that twenty-five enemy aircraft were destroyed, with fifteen British planes lost, the British planes were saved.

"The first raid in two waves and although our fighters intercepted and broke up the enemy formations, a few of his bombers penetrated as far as Croydon," the communique said.

"The second wave was turned back by our fighters and anti-aircraft defenses and did not penetrate beyond the coast. During this

Roosevelt Calls Out 60,000 Guardsmen for One Year of Training

Sept. 16 Set for Start of Service and Units To Be Trained Are Named by the President

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

ABOARD ROOSEVELT Train Enroute to Chattanoga, Tenn., Sept. 1 (AP) — President Roosevelt today summoned 60,000 national guardsmen to a year's federal military service starting Sept. 16.

The order was released aboard a special train carrying the president south for Labor Day addresses dedicating Chickamauga dam, on the Tennessee river near Chattanooga, and the great Smoky Mountains National Park.

White House officials called it a "non-political trip," on which Mr. Roosevelt started out this morning from his home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Like the order on the national guard, it did have its national defense angles.

Legion Protects American Ideals, Johnson Asserts

Former Commander Addresses West Virginia State Convention

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 1 (AP)—Louis A. Johnson told a convention assembly of American Legionnaires today that as long as they remain loyal to the ideals of their organization "the forces of bigotry and intolerance will never succeed in America."

Johnson, former assistant secretary of war and one time national commander of the Legion, asserted "The American Legion is and always must remain Democratic."

"In the democracy of its membership lies the great strength of the American Legion," he continued. "While apostles of unDemocratic institutions and of reactionary philosophies make every effort to smuggle into American life the false, foreign gods of Communism, Fascism and Nazism, the solid phalanx of the American Legion stands on guard, thwarts their schemes and prevents the spread of their pernicious doctrines."

Reviewing the history of the organization, Johnson, who practiced law at Clarksburg and served as a state commander of the Legion, declared the veterans' group at the outset disavowed alien doctrines, adding "in the loyalty of the American Legion to the established institutions of our government, it has won the faith and support of a grateful republic."

British Refugee Ship Remains Afloat; Vessel's Purser Is only Casualty; Orderliness of Children in Leaving Ship Praised by Officers; Some of Them Landed at Northern British Port

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP) — Torpedoing of a British refugee ship taking 320 children to Canada was announced by the ministry of information tonight but it said all the children were saved.

The ship remained afloat the announcement said, but gave no indication of when or where it was hit and also kept secret its identity.

The only casualty was the vessel's purser.

As they took to the lifeboats, the children sang, "Oh Johnnie, Oh Johnnie" and "Roll Out the Barrel."

When more than seventy of the children had been landed at a northern British port early today most still were clad only in pajamas. A member of the crew said that "the children behaved splendidly and there was no panic."

Drills Saved Lives

The fact that all the children were saved was credited to their arduous lifeboat drill before the submarine struck.

They filed onto the slanting decks of the ship, marched to their lifeboat stations and were helped into the waiting boats with hardly a whimper, it was said.

The announcement, by the British ministry of information, said that although full details of the "mishap are not yet available it is known that the ship in which the children were traveling did not sink, that the transfer of the little evacuees from her to the rescue ships was carried out in perfect order and that the children's kits were undamaged."

The announcement said that seventy-four of the children were from Scotland. The group was one of a number selected for transfer overseas by the Children's Overseas Reception Board, and were "almost entirely" from state aid schools of England and Scotland.

Rescue Ships at Hand

Rescue ships, the announcement said, were fortunately at hand, so the necessity of exposure in open boats in rough waters was eliminated.

One of the ship's officers said, "I have never seen anything so brave in my thirty years at sea. The children took their danger with chins up."

The torpedoing came at night, it

German authorities minimized the effects of the first raid and said that on the second the enemy was driven off before reaching this capital.

The Sunday morning alarm lasted an hour and thirty-six minutes; this morning it was forty-seven minutes. Sunday's raiders dropped three bombs in open fields near the city and a number of incendiary bombs which fizzled out in a western suburb, police declared.

The German high command on the other hand claimed new blows in the war against Britain—destruction of 133 British planes yesterday, 100,000 tons of shipping by a submarine on a three-day prowl, as well as damage to British airfields in Kent and Sussex counties and

Workers Urged To Rededicate Their Activities to Democracy Today

By The Associated Press

American Workers, celebrating their annual holiday in the midst of a great national rearmament effort, were urged by government and labor leaders today to rededicate themselves to Democracy.

President Roosevelt sounded this keynote in his labor day statement asking cooperation of all to strengthen and defend the American way of life.

"In its accomplishment," he said, "wage earners, well aware of the great economic and social gains they made in the last seven years, may be assured that their contribution will not be at the cost of forced labor standards or impairment of social advances."

From John L. Lewis, CIO leader came a declaration that his organization "stands second to none in determination to defend this country and its Democratic way of

Lewis Sees No Conflict

Labor believes," Lewis added in a statement, "that there is no conflict between effective national defense and labor's program of complete security and full employment."

Lewis declared, too, that labor believed democracy could be defended "without the creation of an arms economy."

In a review of its activities since last Labor Day, the wage-hour administration estimated that as a result of the labor standards law 1,000,000 workers had received wage increases and the working hours of 2,000,000 had been shortened.

Machine - Age Industry of U. S. Near New Production Records

All Branches Being Speeded Up as Part of Defense Program

By FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—Entering the second year of the European war, America's prolific machine-age industry is reaching for new production records under the lift of multi-billion dollar arms spending.

Shipbuilding, aircraft, tool and engine manufacturing, electric power and certain newer industries, like synthetic textiles, have emerged from the first war year at or near peak performances.

Steel, backbone of booming war industry, has made a running start toward a new output record for the final half of the year. Operating schedules last week climbed above ninety-one per cent of capacity, close to the high attained for a brief period on the initial war-inspired business upturn last autumn.

Many mills will pause for the Labor Day suspension of activity to give workers a breathing spell before the autumn drive for more production begins. Trade sources forecast another spurt in steel and allied industries after the Labor Day interruption, barring unforeseen developments in the war or at home.

Two Drown, Damage Is Heavy To Many Roads in Western Maryland

By The Associated Press

Swirling floodwaters sent out of narrow streams by Saturday's torrential rain receded under a bright sun yesterday (Sunday) and practically all roads in western Maryland, section hardest hit, were opened last night.

But Frederick county was still mopping up and counting the damage of what residents termed the worst flood since the historic Johnstown flood of 1899.

Two persons drowned, homes and stores were damaged and streets flooded. William Ramsburg, 16, of Dublin, about eight miles north of Frederick, was drowned when he attempted to wade the Monocacy river yesterday a Biggs ford. Three companions had a narrow escape, one being rescued after holding to an overhanging tree limb for an hour.

Swept from Boat

At Ocean City Charles Munro, 48, of Washington, drowned when he was swept from an excursion boat returning from a fishing party.

In Frederick county, Clarence Kelly Nogle, 23, a member of the medical corps at the Walter Reed hospital, Washington, was injured when a car in which he and four companions went through a bridge which had been swept away, plunging the automobile into 20 feet of water. The others escaped with slight injuries.

Two thousand feet of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks were washed out near Point of Rocks, tying up some of the line's crack trains. The west-bound line still was out late yesterday, but the east line was in service.

State police at Frederick said only one road—route 26 from Frederick south to Liberty—was blocked last night by water which covered the highway at Isreal creek about three miles from the city.

Heavy rains during the past week had filled streams nearly bank-full, and Saturday's near-cloudburst sent them out with a rush.

Atlantic seaboard cities from Cape Hatteras to Boston battened down last (Sunday) night for fear the tropic-born hurricane moving northeasterly 100 miles offshore might sweep in and repeat the $500,000,000 devastation wrought by the great storm of two years ago.

Gale warnings were posted from the Virginia capes to Nantucket as the fringe of the hurricane touched North Carolina, Virginia and Southern New Jersey points, sent thousands of residents scampering to high ground and disrupted heavy coast holiday travel by ship, train and highway.

Floods, high tides and torrential rains, accompanied by lusty winds, were felt in various sections as far north as Camden, N. J., causing several deaths and damage estimated at more than $1,000,000 in that state alone.

Swirling high waters in Delaware took at least one life and did $50,000 property damage.

Blows Out to Sea

Although the storm originally bore down toward Cape Hatteras and the Virginia coasts—"graveyard of the Atlantic"—it blew out to sea early Sunday and left only roughened waters and brisk but subdued winds in its wake.

A weather report from Washington placed the storm at 1:30 p. m., as about 150 miles east of Virginia capes and moving north-northeastward about twelve miles an hour.

"Indications are that the storm will continue to move north-northeastward or northeastward next twelve to twenty-four hours with center probably passing a short distance south of Nantucket island Monday morning accompanied by strong east to northeast winds on Long Island and southern New England coasts," the report said.

Southern Jersey Hit

Southern New Jersey apparently bore the brunt of the storm fringe, with the entire village of Lumberton inundated by a swollen creek, leaving 2,000 persons homeless, and all railroad service between Philadelphia, Camden and South Jersey shore resorts suspended all afternoon because of washed out tracks.

In New York and New England, police and coast guard officials prepared for emergency work should the storm strike Long Island and Rhode Island—scenes of some of the worst damage in the 1938 hurricane.

Fashionable West Hampton, Long Island, virtually destroyed by that storm, was the scene of a mass evacuation and all along the island's north shore dwellers in some 10,000 bungalows and homes left or prepared to leave.

Fasten Down Planes

Army officers at Mitchel Field canceled all leaves. The field personnel worked to fasten down 100 airplanes there. Lack of hangar space causes many medium-size bombers ranging in cost from $75,000 to $250,000 to be left outside.

State officials in both Massachusetts and Rhode Island closely watched the storm's progress and said that if New England fell in the hurricane's path the situation would be complicated by the thousands of summer and holiday visitors.

Police and firemen cleared a fifty-mile stretch of Rhode Island coastline of bathers and evacuated waterfront cottages to prevent a possible repetition of that state's death toll of 312 from the last storm.

The Boston weather bureau, however, estimated that if the storm continued its present northeasterly direction it would pass 250 miles east of Nantucket and spare New England.

Roosevelt Calls

ing power now for vital defense plants.

Conservation of America's material and cultural resources and the preservation of the nations way of life have been stressed by the president as elements in the broader aspects of defense. And he could use the address tomorrow afternoon, at Newfound Gap in the Great Smokies, to present that view again.

Inspecting Projects

Mr. Roosevelt is resuming his inspection of actual defense projects tuesday with a visit to the naval gun and armor plant at South Charleston, W. Va.

Four complete guard divisions, with the exception of their tank companies, will start active training Sept. 16.

In adition, Mr. Roosevelt called out seven anti-aircraft, eight harbor defense and three 155-millimeter gun units of the coast artillery and four squadrons of observation aviation.

The present authorized strength of all units is 60,000, White House officials said, but it is planned to raise them to full peace time strength of 76,689 officers and men by voluntary enlistments, as soon as possible after their induction into active military service.

There was no indication how soon the rest of the National Guard and the organized reserves would be mobilized for active duty. Eventually, nearly 400,000 civilian-soldiers are expected to be called out.

Selects Guard Units

Using for the first time the power he received last Tuesday under an act of Congress the chief executive selected these units as the initial complement of guardsmen to receive intensive instruction in the technique of modern warfare:

Forty-fourth, Thirtieth, Forty-fifth and Forty-first divisions, less Forty-fourth, Thirtieth, Forty-fifth, and Forty-first tank companies.

One hundred and ninety-seventh, One hundred and ninety-eight, Two hundred and second, Two hundred and third, Two hundred and eleventh, Two hundred and thirteenth and Two hundred and fifty-first coast artillery (anti-aircraft.)

Two hundred and forty-fourth, Two hundred and fifty-second coast artillery (155-millimeter guns.)

Two hundred and fortieth, Two hundred and forty-first, Two hundred and forty-second, Two hundred and forty-third, Two hundred and forty-fifth, Two hundred and forty-sixth, Two hundred and forty-eighth, Two hundred and forty-ninth coast artillery (harbor defense).

The president's order did not disclose home location of the units.

Commissioned and warrant officers appointed in the National Guard, but commissioned or holding warrants in the United States army, were merely ordered to active duty with the army.

Such officers who have been federally recognized or have qualified for federal recognition but who do not hold appointments in the United States National Guard and commissions or warrants in the army, theo rder said, "are hereby tendered such appointments in the same grade and arm of service which they respectively hold in the National Guard."

President Roosevelt's Labor Day speeches will be the first of a formal nature since the chief executive accepted a third nomination in an address by radio to the Democratic convention in Chicago.

The president mentioned politics in an extemporaneous talk yesterday to some of his politically friendly neighbors of Dutchess county, New York. But the climax of the address was his announcement that he would nominate Frank C. Walker of New York to succeed James A. Farley as postmaster general.

Crown Princess Martha of Norway, who has been a guest at the Roosevelt home, rode the special train as far as New York.

The train picked up there Secretary Ickes, Chairman James L. Flynn of the federal comunications commission, and Bernard M. Baruch, World war chairman of the War Industries Board, for the trip to the south.

Mrs. Roosevelt is accompanying her husband on the journey to the south.

Frederick To Seek Government Business

FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 1 (AP)—Frederick is going after government business.

Asserting that such towns as Hagerstown and York, Pa., have obtained contracts for government business, city officials in cooperation with businessmen have organized a "business development committee" to establish a permanent government market for goods manufactured in Frederick.

A questionnaire will be sent to local industries asking what materials they can furnish, their output and capacity. From this survey will be outlined the bill of goods from which the town hopes to supply some of Uncle Sam's needs, especially during development of the National Defense Program.

576 Quail Hatched From 617 Eggs

SALISBURY, Md., Sept. 1, (AP). A record hatch of 576 quail from a single setting of 617 eggs was reported by Brady C. Bounds, manager of the state game farm here.

The hatch was the seventeenth and the largest of the season which begun with the year's first pick-up of eggs from the 155 pair of Broodstock at the farm.

Between 500 and 600 eggs are placed in the incubators weekly. Bounds said four or five more hatches were expected this year. The incubation period is twenty-three days and the temperature must be carefully maintained at ninty-nine degrees during that period.

The farm has a record for economy in bird production, with an average cost of 73½ cents each.

many factories going at full speed for months.

In normal peace-time activity, industry after Labor day feels the stimulus of the farm harvest, movement of crops into export channels, and the upswing in retail trade as vacation crowds return to cities and the farmer spends his harvest cash.

Added to the usual seasonal impulses this year, analysts point out, is the war industry boom—destined to become a more potent force if defense spending plans unfold as expected.

Production Rate Climbs

From around $200,000,000 monthly now, th rate of arms outlay by the United States may climb to more than $500,000,000 next spring, some analysts calculate.

The climb in business of concerns feeling the impact of arms spending has made the busiest summer since 1929 for industry generally.

Wall street markets, becalmed most of the summer in the smallest trading in twenty-two years, finally caught some of the climbing spirit industry has exhibited for months. Stocks and bonds advanced with a sprightlier step just before the Labor day recess, ending the week with a gain of 1.3 points in the Associated Press composite price of sixty stocks.

Violent

feeling was reported throughout Rumania, with greatest outbreaks here, at Brasov and at Cluj, where the Italian counsul was beaten.

In the affected northern section of the province, peasants with farm tools, shotguns and long knives were reported taking up trench positions abandoned by some Rumanian military forces.

Promise to Die Fighting

The commander of one Rumanian army division announced that his soldiers would die to the last man rather than abandon the old frontier.

As the night wore on, the streets of Bucharest reechoed to the constant pound of hobnailed boots as more and more gendarmes and soldiers were pressed into service.

Scores of persons were injured and widespread damage was inflicted on property, chiefly that belonging to Hungarians, as indignation mounted.

Priests, army officers, government officials, students and rugged mountaineers rubbed shoulders in the milling throngs. The commander of one Rumanian army division announced his men would die to the last man rather than abandon their present frontier and peasants armed with pitchforks, knives and shotguns were reported taking up positions in trenches vacated by some frontier forces.

(The German radio carried reports from Bucharest that rumors were rife in Bucharest of cabinet resignations. However, there was no immediate confirmation.)

Outbreaks in Cluj

The most serious outbreaks occurred in Cluj, which was cut off from the outside world when communications, including airplane travel, were suspended.

In Bucharest itself simultaneous protest meetings began amid scenes of great disorder at the status of Rumanian patriots opposite Bucharest University.

The crowds of men and women were joined by armed police squads in singing national anthems and shouting "not an inch for the Magyars."

Soldiers quickly appeared, covers from machine guns and with fixed bayonets tried to disperse the crowds.

Screams of women who joined their menfolk in angrily shouted protests could be heard above the commands of the officers trying to restore order.

For almost an hour the crowds swarmed through Bucharest streets and finally started a dash toward King Carol's palace. Every street leading to the palace was packed with massed soldiers who charged into them and forced a retreat.

Fiery Resistance Speech

The screaming crowds, including priests, army officers and government officials, then went to the apartment of Juliu Maniu, Transylvanian peasant leader, where one of his aides delivered a fiery resistance speech.

"We want to fight the Hungarians," the crowd shouted.

Meanwhile a solid mass of troops was thrown around Carol's palace and no vehicles were permitted within a quarter of a mile. Pedestrians were prodded along in the opposite direction.

As the evening wore on a second surge was made toward the palace despite the troop reinforcements. Soldiers whipped out gas masks, fired a few gas bombs, then scattered the demonstrators with huge motor sprinklers.

Drenched to the skin, the defiant crowd re-formed in front of the Hungarian legation to continue its shouted disapproval of the German-Italian dictated award giving northern Transylvania to Hungary.

While all of this was going on a mixed Hungarian and Rumanian commission met at the frontier city of Oradia to arrange removal of the Rumanian population as directed by the decision handed down by the axis powers.

Want Territory Back

In Cluj, a "committee of resistance" was formed to begin a fight for the return of the territory even before its cession to Hungary has been completed.

Aroused peasents, carrying pitchforks, hunting knives and shotguns were said to have taken up positions in some of the trenches vacated by the retiring Rumanian army, insisting they would fight any Hungarian setting foot across the border.

Trains leaving northern Transylvania were so jammed that passengers had to leave and enter through windows. All were running hours behind schedule.

The cars were filled not only with fleeing Transylvanians but with ducks, chickens and other possessions the emigres were trying to take to their new homes somewhere in the old kingdom of Rumania.

Taxis, Cars Commandered

Taxis and private automobiles disappeared from Cluj streets during the night. They were commandeered to transport groups of Rumanian peasants known as "mots" down from their remote farms on the slopes of the bare-topped, snow-capped mountains. Long caravans arrived during the early evening, filled with hundreds of these wide-eyed, primitive mountaineers. Their appearance was the signal for a new outbreak of demonstrations.

Thousands assembled in the city square and listened to students who mounted boxes and delivered fiery speeches. Spontaneous parades were organized with the marchers chanting "we prefer war."

In response to an appeal from the Hungarian consulate at Cluj soldiers were posted around the building with machine guns stripped for action. Other troops with fixed bayonets lay hidden in the deep grass of the consulate garden.

The threatening crowd marched to the statue of Romulus and Remus and its plaque bearing the name of Premier Mussolini, where anti-Italian demonstrations were held.

Hiss Mussolini

Transylvanians, who charged Il Duce "sold us out," hissed every mention of his name.

On numerous occasions the harried troops were forced to charge the crowd with bayonets.

In some sections near Cluj, homes of Hungarian peasants were reported attacked and many of the occupants injured. Doors and windows were smashed in the largest Clum theater, which is Hungarian-owned.

Ion Lagajanu, member of parliament, former minister to Rome and editor of "Universul," leading Bucharest daily, and his wife were arrested as ringleaders in the capital demonstration.

Among numerous other persons arrested was Mrs. Robert St. John, wife of the Associated Press correspondent. She was taken into custody as she drove past the Italian and German legations in a taxi. Mrs. St. John said she was manhandled and injured and held incommunicado until finally released.

Late this evening a parade of armored cars, machine guns in their turrets, and army trucks and special military mob-dispersing sprinklers began patrolling the streets.

Probe Crash

chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, said that public hearings, to be held in Washington or nearby Leesburg, Va., would be ordered in a day or two in an attempt to determine the cause of the accident.)

Today a bright sun beating down on the crash-scared clover field disclosed a picture of incomparable horror. Virtually all of the bodies appeared to have been severed. Unofficial observers said the passengers apparently were buckled in their seats and were literally cut in two by the impact.

J. H. Carmichael, vice-president of Pennsylvania Central and a former pilot on the same route, said apparently both engines were "wide open," but he would not estimate the speed of the plane when it crashed a few minutes after leaving Washington enroute to Pittsburgh.

No Sign of Explosion

There was no indication of an explosion before the plane hit, he said, and the distance some portions of the bodies and debris were thrown might have been due to impact velocity alone. The mangled bodies were scattered over a 25-acre area.

Carmichael, investigating the crash with civil aeronautics board authorities, the FBI and local officials, said signs of fire about the plane might have been due "to the atomization of 400 gallons of gasoline." Any fire, he added, would have been squelched by the rain, pouring onto the soaked field.

Col. Donald Connolly, administrator of the CAA who took personal charge of the agency's investigation, and other officials inspecting the wreckage agreed there was "nothing definite" on which to hang the cause of the disaster.

No Official Comment

None would make official comment on speculation that lightning struck the big ship.

County officials altered their previous stand at about 3 a. m., and granted permission for the collection and removal of the bodies to nearby Leesburg, Va.

For three hours before dawn in the glare of floodlights generated by an emergency unit set up in the field, undertaker assistants carried the mangled bodies to three hearses. They labored through ankle deep mud.

Among the scattered remains of victims lay clothing, shoes, hats, handbags, money, personal effects, and hundreds of bits of metal from the plane's fuselage and wings spread about like confetti.

Almost in the center of the field stood the tail assembly, bent and twisted and up-ended as if it had rolled over and over after breaking loose from the ship's main section.

To the right and left was the shattered wing portions, and all about lay other pieces of the deluxe $129,000 Douglas airliner. At the base of the slight hill over which Pilot Lowell Scroggins vainly fought to lift the big ship was a huge crater, the spot it was believed to have struck first.

By mid afternon relatives had identified from personal effects about half the victims. Lundeen's body was identified by Martin W. Hysong, a personal friend. FBI fingerprint experts were enlisted to aid in identifying others.

Ground crews of the airline began piling up wreckage and planned to saturate it with gasoline and set it ablaze. Carmichael said there was no salvage.

Attempting to reconstruct events, Carmichael, from conflicting reports, fixed the time of the crack-up at about 2:41 p. m. (EST.) He said Scroggins, a pilot of eleven years' service with the company, had given a report over Herndon, Va., at 2:31, about eleven minutes after leaving Washington, and indicating he was climbing to his flight altitude of 6,000 feet.

Carmichael said he had canvassed the area and found no one who saw the plane actually crash.

Airline officials discredited reports that a note had been dropped by Stewardess Margaret Carson of Pittsburgh, just before the plane struck. Persons first on the scene who reported the note said it asked that the line's Pittsburgh office be notified.

Defense Force To Replace National Guard Advocated

Senate Military Committee Members in Favor of Home Units

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. (AP)—A "home defense" force to replace national guardsmen called into federal training was urged today by some members of the Senate Military Committee.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) said chief executives of several states, including Governors Herbert H. Lehman of New York and W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas, had asked the military committee to authorize state defense units.

It was indicated that the necessary legislation would be handled separately, rather than as an amendment to the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory training bill.

Considerable favor was manifested, meanwhile, for an amendment to the conscription bill, drafted by Representative Smith (D-Conn) which would permit employers, if they desired, to continue paying salaries to their employes who were drafted for training.

Smith said he understood that some employers had offered to make up the difference between army pay—to be raised from $21 to $30 monthly in the conscription bill—and trainees' wages at the time they are called.

May Change Law

Present law forbids members of the military establishment to receive remuneration from private concerns. This law was designed especially to prevent military men connected with army purchasing from drawing any gratuities from companies doing business with the army.

Youngsters

was said, complicating the rescue task.

The children had gone to bed at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Within three and a half minutes after the torpedo struck and the alarm bell had sounded, every child was at his lifeboat station wearing his life jacket.

Two of the ship's holds were filling and the children were ordered into the lifeboats. Four boats pulled away. Officers noticed then that the ship had stopped settling and an attempt was made to recall the boats.

The third hold began filling then and the order to take to the boats was repeated. All got off safely except the purser who slipped as he was entering a boat.

In the darkness the boats kept together by signalling with flashlights.

"There was no crying or whimpering," said one of the chaperons. "The sea was roughish, but those who were not ill sang 'Roll Out the Barrel' as they had never sung it before".

Some of the children sang loudly, the chaperon said, to smother the sound of other children who were ill.

"And there was one youngster of eight in my boat who said, 'we don't want Hitler to think he can beat us that easy,'" the chaperon added.

"Our boat was finally brought alongside a ship and with a banana basket slung from derricks we sent the children up three at a time.

"The ship had limited accommodations and suddenly having to accommodate many extra men, women and children somewhat taxed the accommodations. But with the grub we had brought the boats managed to feed the youngsters. Water had to be rationed pretty strictly and washing was barred."

Workers Urged

wages and overtime to employes.

"We have done this in the Democratic way and it works," Col. Philip Fleming, administrator said of the agency's accomplishments.

"Today we celebrate the fact that we have not abdicated our sovereignty and our freedom in order to do those' things and that we face the tests to come a stronger, more secure and a happier people than on Labor Day, 1939."

The National Labor Relations Board issued a summary of its activities since its creation five years ago. This listed settlement of 2,128 strikes and prevention of 857 others.

Strike settlements, the board said, sent 277,286 workers back to their jobs, and action averting other strikes prevented loss of employment for 199,086 workers.

C. E. Borror Is Jailed on Two Serious Charges

Find Man's Body

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 1 (AP). A peach-picker found the body of Bert Lafferty, 52, along the Chesapeake & Ohio railway tracks today and coroner F. X. Schuller, who said he was apparently killed by a train, termed the death accidental.

Lafferty, a carpenter, is survived by his widow and two daughters.

Furious Fighting

raid bombs were dropped in Kent and Surrey, causing some damage and a number of casualties, including some persons killed.

"Two small formations of enemy bombers followed this raid and entered the Thames estuary. These formations were quickly dispersed, without, so far as is known at present, causing any damage or casualties."

The British official version of the day's sharp air fighting was a story of repeated attacks on the United Kingdom beaten off by vigilant defenders in RAF fighting craft and by anti-aircraft gunners blasting at the invaders from the ground.

Attack German Positions

The Royal Air Force and the fleet air arm, carring their own air offensive to Germany, lashed Saturday night at objectives in Berlin and German-occupied Netherlands, the air ministry declared.

At Berlin an airdrome, an airplane engine factory and "lighting installations," were bombed, said the ministry, adding a list of military objectives bombed in other parts of Germany.

The air ministry news service gave a specific account of "successful attacks" on oil tanks at Vlaardingen, near Rotterdam.

The attack, it said, was "made by swordfish aircraft of the fleet air arm, cooperating with the coastal command, and by a squadron of Blen Heims.

"Pilots had to fly through an intense barrage of anti-aircraft fire and many searchlights.

"They found their targets easily and sticks of bombs from the leading aircraft started fires which lit up the scene for those who came later. When the last British aircraft was on its way home the fires were burning fiercely."

Bomb Munitions Factory

The announcement declared that other sections of British bombers attacked the union Rheinsche Braunkohlen Kraftestoff at Wessling and Cologne and the Bayer explosives and filling factory at Lverkusen near Cologne also was bombed while at Spich the bombing of an ammunition factory resulted in several fires."

The amplification concluded that "two hours after midnight the enemy's long range gun emplacements, which are sighted in the cap Gris Nez area were surprised by a gliding attack carried out by a small force of medium bombers."

Thus the Sunday saw no letup in the battle of Britain — a war blazing in its full sense of aerial attritional combat.

The ministry of information in a tabulation for the week ended Saturday night said the Germans had lost 293 planes and about 700 men while the British lost 128 planes and 110 men.

For seventy enemy raiders destroyed Saturday, it said, the British lost thirty-seven machines, but twenty-five British pilots were safe.

Nazi planes droned over Wales, the Midlands and two southern England towns again tonight.

A big formation of Nazi bombers which tried to break through the defenses at the Thames estuary were turned back by anti-aircraft fire and fighter planes.

Use New Technique

The bombers used what was thought to be a new technique. When their formation split up four dived below the barrage and made a dive-bombing attack. Some of the bombs fell of waste ground, but most fell across the heart of a town and several houses were damaged.

The plight of a British pilot who bailed out of his crippled fighter during a dog fight on the outskirts of London came to light today. The man was mistaken for a Nazi airman by angry civilians and narrowly escaped manhandling. A bus driver saved him.

Raids Commonplace

Exchanges of raids on British and German capitals, such as today, are approaching the commonplace. Much of Britain and Germany has been raked with bombs. Just how much and how badly are censorship secrets.

Thus, the scream and rumble of bombs, in suburban London and Berlin, the drumming of anti-aircraft fire, the chatter of machine-guns and aerial cannon, the tortured drone of planes in twisting combat and the sickening crash of stricken craft marked the first anniversary of the second great European war.

On Sept. 1, 1939, German motorized, mechanized legions swept into Poland. Today Britain is fighting for time—time to gain strength to deliver her own offensive blow.

The war itself or signs of war were at hand for every Briton today. London had three air alarms by late afternoon, nine in twenty-four hours. Bombs fell within greater London. There were "some" casualties, as British officialdom expressed it. Service on a section of London's transport network was interrupted.

Raiders Driven Back

In all, there were four stabs at London by late afternoon, three of which brought air raid alarms. The other was beaten back.

Several Messerschmitt escort fighters were reported shot down on the southeast coast in connection with a frustrated mid-morning bomber trust toward the British capital. Earlier a Messerschmidt of the "yellow nose" squadron, shot down two barrage balloons to clear the way for bomber formations.

While Messerschmidts attacked a southeast coast town, just as church services were starting, a formation of bombers passed inland and was engaged by RAF fighters.

As the stained glass windows of the town's churches rattled to machine-gun and anti-aircraft fire, the bomber formation, Heinkel III's headed westward toward London. But within less than a half hour they returned, with four planes missing.

The Heinkels had run into a Horinet's nest of Spitfires and Hurricanes which dived on them from high altitude.

At another southeast town four bombers out of a formation swooped down and dropped bombs on an old, densely populated quarter. The extent of casualties and damage was not at once reported. It was learned, however, that three fires started by the bombers had been extinguished.

Commenting on German losses in yesterday's fighting—eighty-five planes by British count—an authoritative source stressed the cost in German personnel.

"In terms of highly trained airmen this means a loss to Germany of about 212 fighter pilots and bomber crewman against twelve British pilots lost," this source said. "—a discrepancy of enormous importance in view of Germany's growing difficulty in replacing skilled personnel."

The British acknowledged loss of thirty-seven fighting planes yesterday but said all but 12 pilots saved themselves.

dock facilities at the mouth of the Thames yesterday and last night.

Among the vessels listed as sunk by the U-boat was the 15,000-ton "modern British auxiliary cruiser" Dunvegan Castle.

(The British admiralty acknowledged the loss of this ship last night. The admiralty said thirty in the crew were reported missing.)

The high command's communique said "air and armament factories in middle England all were bombed" Saturday and during the night and that numerous fires were seen by Nazi pilots.

The communique listed British losses as follows: 116 planes in air fights, fourteen on the ground and three by anti-aircraft fire; and seventy - four barrage balloons. Thirty-two German planes are missing, the high command said.

Source of News Mystery

He said the implication of Willkie's release of excerpts was that the copy came from Stettinius. But, he added, Stettinius had only one copy which "is locked in his vault and has been right along."

Several copies were in the hands of high army and navy officials, Early asserted.

Summary of War News

By The Associated Press

Rumania erupted in a series of wild anti-axis riots yesterday and today (Monday), all but out-roaring the fury of Germany's air siege against Britain in the year-old war which the Nazis declare is near its "decisive hour."

Demonstrating their angry disgust with the cession of half Transylvania to Hungary, as ordered by Germany and Italy, Rumanian mobs sacked a German consulate to destroy portraits of Adolf Hitler. An Italian consul was beaten.

Several prominent Rumanians were arrested for leading demonstrators in Bucharest; peasants with pitchforks and knives moved up to the border to defend their farms from the Hungarians; and Bucharest echoed with the rumble of tanks and the tread of thousands of gendarmes struggling to quell the crowds who cried, "fight the Hungarians!"

Thus incidents aplenty were provided—if incidents were required—for Germany to hurry troops into the troubled Balkan kingdom which she already has promised to "protect."

Palace Under Siege

King Carol's palace was virtually under siege. Picked men guarded it was armored cars, machine guns, tear gas and water sprinklers.

Hungary, with 80,000 soldiers ready to march, was reported threatening to move into Transylvania without delay, despite an agreed waiting period.

More important, but following a routine that has become familiar in the past devastating six weeks, was the battle of Britain.

Germany reported one U-boat had sunk 100,000 tons of British shipping in a three-day prowl. The British acknowledged loss of a Canada-bound refugee ship but said the 320 children aboard were all rescued.

German planes, shuttling constantly across the narrow English channel, struck at nearly every part of the island, but Britain's dogged defenders said they had shot down twenty-five Nazi planes while losing fifteen of their own.

British Raid Germany

The British themselves continued wide raids on Germany and on German-held territory with blows at Berlin and at German industries and airdromes.

Speaking scornfully of Britain in an address in conquered Poland, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels declared, "the decisive hour is inexorably near . . . recently many Britons have left the impression that they are impatient for a showdown. These impatient gentlemen will not want for an answer from the German armed forces."

The score in Saturday's air fighting was, according to the British, eighty-five German planes downed and thirty-seven British; according to the Germans, 133 British planes destroyed and thirty-two Nazi.

"Decisive Hour Inexorably Near," Goebbels Asserts

Nazi Propaganda Minister Says British Will Soon Face Showdown

BERLIN, Sept. 1 (AP) — The "decisive hour is inexorably near' for Britain, German Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels declared today.

Speaking at Katowice, in German-occupied Poland on the first anniversary of the German-Polish conflict, the minister told Silesians that "developments of the past year must have convinced even Englishmen that the Fuhrer acts when the right hour arrives.

"Recently many Britons left the impression that they are impatient for a showdown. These impatient gentlemen will not want for an answer from the German armed forces.

"The Fuhrer sets a decisive hour and that means he can depend on his people."

Goebbels recalled Adolf Hitler's "outstretched hand' offer of peace on Oct. 6, 1939, and his reiterated offer of peace or destruction after the collapse of France.

"Churchill (British prime minister) and the plutocrats won't and can't understand the New World", he said and asserted that British hopes for aid from "general hunger" had been blasted by German trade on the continent.

Touching on the Polish campaign, he said that German forces crossed the Polish borders after provocations which he asserted were fanned by the British, "but in the eighteen-day campaign the blaze was stamped out and in less than three weeks Poland fell."

vent the spread of dictatorship in this country."

He added:

"Labor Day should also cause every friend of American labor to remember that in the totalitarian dictatorships of Europe they have liquidated free trade unions, and have imprisoned, or in some cases, murdered union leaders."

Willkie said that if he were elected, he would "enlist the wholehearted cooperation of labor, industry, agriculture and every other group in the task of overcoming our present economic stagnation and wiping out unemployment."

Confers with Vetera

Following a conference yesterday with Harry W. Colmery, former American Legion commander and now chairman of the Willkie Veterans National Committee, Willkie said today that the formation of the latter organization "confirms their (veterans') interest in the presenvation of this government as one representative of the people.

"I pledge to them now," he said, "my belief in the American system as we, who have defended it, understand it."

Willkie talked by telephone last night with his running mate, Senator Charles L. McNary, who is in Salem, Ore., and learned that the latter would be unable to attend the Thursday conference. It was agreed however, that McNary would come here to confer with Willkie before the presidential nominee leaves on his western trip Sept. 14. The Thursday meeting will be attended by national committeemen, committee-women and state chairmen from the following states:

Hurricane Sweeps Near Coast, May Hit New England

But Weather Bureau Is Hopeful It Will Pass Out to Sea

By The Associated Press

Atlantic seaboard cities from Cape Hatteras to Boston battened down last (Sunday) night for fear the tropic-born hurricane moving northeasterly 100 miles offshore might sweep in and repeat the $500,000,000 devastation wrought by the great storm of two years ago.

Gale warnings were posted from the Virginia capes to Nantucket as the fringe of the hurricane touched North Carolina. Virginia and Southern New Jersey points sent thousands of residents scampering to high ground and disrupted heavy coast holiday travel by ship, train and highway.

Floods, high tides and torrential rains, accompanied by lusty winds, were felt in various sections as far north as Camden, N. J., causing several deaths and damage estimated at more than $1,000,000 in that state alone.

Swirling high waters in Delaware took at least one life and did $50,000 property damage.

Blows Out to Sea

Although the storm originally bore down toward Cape Hatteras and the Virginia coasts—"graveyard of the Atlantic"—it blew out to sea early Sunday and left only roughened waters and brisk but subdued winds in its wake.

A weather report from Washington placed the storm at 1:30 p. m., as about 150 miles east of Virginia capes and moving north-northeastward about twelve miles an hour.

"Indications are that the storm will continue to move north-northeastward or northeastward next twelve to twenty-four hours with center probably passing a short distance south of Nantucket Island Monday morning accompanied by strong east to northeast winds on Long Island and southern New England coasts," the report said.

Southern Jersey Hit

Southern New Jersey apparently bore the brunt of the storm fringe, with the entire village of Lumberton inundated by a swollen creek, leaving 2,000 persons homeless, and all railroad service between Philadelphia, Camden and South Jersey shore resorts suspended all afternoon because of washed out tracks.

In New York and New England, police and coast guard officials prepared for emergency work should the storm strike Long Island and Rhode Island—scenes of some of the worst damage in the 1938 hurricane.

Fashionable West Hampton, Long Island, virtually destroyed by that storm, was the scene of a mass evacuation and all along the island's north shore dwellers in some 10,000 bungalows and homes left or prepared to leave.

Fasten Down Planes

Army officers at Mitchel Field canceled all leaves. The field personnel worked to fasten down 100 airplanes there. Lack of hangar space causes many medium-size bombers ranging in cost from $75,000 to $250,000 to be left outside.

State officials in both Massachusetts and Rhode Island closely watched the storm's progress and said that if New England fell in the hurricane's path the situation would be complicated by the thousands of summer and holiday visitors.

Police and firemen cleared a fifty-mile stretch of Rhode Island coastline of bathers and evacuated waterfront cottages to prevent a possible repetition of that state's death toll of 312 from the last storm.

The Boston weather bureau, however, estimated that if the storm continued its present northeasterly direction it would pass 250 miles east of Nantucket and spare New England.

Roosevelt Calls

ing power now for vital defense plants.

Conservation of America's material and cultural resources and the preservation of the nations way of life have been stressed by the president as elements in the broader aspects of defense. And he could use the address tomorrow afternoon, at Newfound Gap in the Great Smokies, to present that view again.

Inspecting Projects

Mr. Roosevelt is resuming his inspection of actual defense projects Tuesday with a visit to the naval gun and armor plant at South Charleston, W. Va.

Four complete guard divisions, with the exception of their tank companies, will start active training Sept. 16.

In addition, Mr. Roosevelt called out seven anti-aircraft, eight harbor defense and three 155-millimeter gun units of the coast artillery and four squadrons of observation aviation.

The present authorized strength of all units is 60,000, White House officials said, but it is planned to raise them to full peace time strength of 76,689 officers and men by voluntary enlistments, as soon as possible after their induction into active military service.

There was no indication how soon the rest of the National Guard and the organized reserves would be mobilized for active duty. Eventually, nearly 400,000 civilian-soldiers are expected to be called out.

Selects Guard Units

Using for the first time the power he received last Tuesday under an act of Congress the chief executive selected these units as the initial complement of guardsmen to receive intensive instruction in the technique of modern warfare:

Forty-fourth, Thirtieth, Forty-fifth and Forty-first divisions, less Forty-fourth, Thirtieth, Forty-fifth, and Forty-first tank companies.

One hundred and ninety-seventh, One hundred and ninety-eight, Two hundred and second, Two hundred and third, Two hundred and eleventh, Two hundred and thirteenth and Two hundred and fifty-first coast artillery (anti-aircraft.)

Two hundred and forty-fourth, Two hundred and fifty-second coast artillery (155-millimeter guns.)

Two hundred and fortieth, Two hundred and forty-first, Two hundred and forty-second, Two hundred and forty-third, Two hundred and forty-fifth, Two hundred and forty-sixth, Two hundred and forty-eighth, Two hundred and forty-ninth coast artillery (harbor defense).

One hundred and fifth, One hundred and nineteenth, One hundred and fifty-fourth, One hundred and sixteenth observation squadrons.

The president's order did not disclose home location of the units.

Commissioned and warrant officers appointed in the National Guard, but commissioned or holding warrants in the United States army, were merely ordered to active duty with the army.

Such officers who have been federally recognized or have qualified for federal recognition but who do not hold appointments in the United States National Guard and commissions or warrants in the army, the order said, "are hereby tendered such appointments in the same grade and arm of service which they respectively hold in the National Guard."

President Roosevelt's Labor Day speeches will be the first of a formal nature since the chief executive accepted a third nomination in an address by radio to the Democratic convention in Chicago.

The president mentioned politics in an extemporaneous talk yesterday to some of his politically friendly neighbors of Dutchess county, New York. But the climax of the address was his announcement that he would nominate Frank C. Walker of New York to succeed James A. Farley as postmaster general.

Crown Princess Martha of Norway, who has been a guest at the Roosevelt home, rode the special train as far as New York.

The train picked up there Secretary Ickes, Chairman James L. Flynn of the federal communications commission, and Bernard M. Baruch, World war chairman of the War Industries Board, for the trip to the south.

Mrs. Roosevelt is accompanying her husband on the journey to the south.

Frederick To Seek Government Business

FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 1 (AP)—Frederick is going after government business.

Asserting that such towns as Hagerstown and York, Pa., have obtained contracts for government business, city officials in cooperation with businessmen have organized a "business development committee" to establish a permanent government market for goods manufactured in Frederick.

A questionnaire will be sent to local industries asking what materials they can furnish, their output and capacity. From this survey will be outlined the bill of goods from which the town hopes to supply some of Uncle Sam's needs, especially during development of the National Defense Program.

576 Quail Hatched From 617 Eggs

SALISBURY, Md., Sept. 1. (AP)—A record hatch of 576 quail from a single setting of 617 eggs was reported by Brady C. Bounds, manager of the state game farm here.

The hatch was the seventeenth and the largest of the season which begun with the year's first pick-up of eggs from the 155 pair of Broodstock at the farm.

Between 500 and 600 eggs are placed in the incubators weekly, Bounds said four or five more hatches were expected this year. The incubation period is twenty-three days and the temperature must be carefully maintained at ninty-nine degrees during that period.

The farm has a record for economy in bird production, with an average cost of 73½ cents each.

Machine-Age

many factories going at full speed for months.

In normal peace-time activity, industry after Labor day feels the stimulus of the farm harvest, movement of crops into export channels, and the upswing in retail trade as vacation crowds return to cities and the farmer spends his harvest cash.

Added to the usual seasonal impulses this year, analysts point out, is the war industry boom—destined to become a more potent force if defense spending plans unfold as expected.

Production Rate Climbs

From around $200,000,000 monthly now, th rate of arms outlay by the United States may climb to more than $500,000,000 next spring, some analysts calculate.

The climb in business of concerns feeling the impact of arms spending has made the busiest summer since 1929 for industry generally.

Wall street markets, becalmed most of the summer in the smallest trading in twenty-two years, finally caught some of the climbing spirit industry has exhibited for months. Stocks and bonds advanced with a sprightlier step just before the Labor day recess, ending the week with a gain of 1.3 points in the Associated Press composite price of sixty stocks.

Violent

feeling was reported throughout Rumania, with greatest outbreaks here, at Brasov and at Cluj, where the Italian counsul was beaten.

In the affected northern section of the province, peasants with farm tools, shotguns and long knives were reported taking up trench positions abandoned by some Rumanian military forces.

Promise to Die Fighting

The commander of one Rumanian army division announced that his soldiers would die to the last man rather than abandon the old frontier.

As the night wore on, the streets of Bucharest reechoed to the constant pound of hobnailed boots as more and more gendarmes and soldiers were pressed into service.

Scores of persons were injured and widespread damage was inflicted on property, chiefly that belonging to Hungarians, as indignation mounted.

Priests, army officers, government officials, students and rugged mountaineers rubbed shoulders in the milling throngs. The commander of one Rumanian army division announced his men would die to the last man rather than abandon their present frontier and peasants armed with pitchforks, knives and shotguns were reported taking up positions in trenches vacated by some frontier forces.

(The German radio carried reports from Bucharest that rumors were rife in Bucharest of cabinet resignations. However, there was no immediate confirmation.)

Outbreaks in Cluj

The most serious outbreaks occurred in Cluj, which was cut off from the outside world when communications, including airplane travel, were suspended.

In Bucharest itself simultaneous protest meetings began amid scenes of great disorder at the status of Rumanian patriots opposite Bucharest University.

The crowds of men and women were joined by armed police squads in singing national anthems and shouting "not an inch for the Magyars."

Soldiers quickly appeared, covers from machine guns and with fixed bayonets tried to disperse the crowds.

Screams of women who joined their menfolk in angrily shouted protests could be heard above the commands of the officers trying to restore order.

For almost an hour the crowds swarmed through Bucharest streets and finally started a dash toward King Carol's palace. Every street leading to the palace was packed with massed soldiers who charged into them and forced a retreat.

Fiery Resistance Speech

The screaming crowds, including priests, army officers and government officials, then went to the apartment of Juliu Maniu, Transylvanian peasant leader, where one of his aides delivered a fiery resistance speech.

"We want to fight the Hungarians," the crowd shouted.

Meanwhile a solid mass of troops was thrown around Carol's palace and no vehicles were permitted within a quarter of a mile. Pedestrians were prodded along in the opposite direction.

As the evening wore on a second surge was made toward the palace despite the troop reinforcements. Soldiers whipped out gas masks, fired a few gas bombs, then scattered the demonstrators with huge motor sprinklers.

Drenched to the skin, the defiant crowd re-formed in front of the Hungarian legation to continue its shouted disapproval of the German-Italian dictated award giving northern Transylvania to Hungary.

While all of this was going on a mixed Hungarian and Rumanian commission met at the frontier city of Oradia to arrange removal of the Rumanian population as directed by the decision handed down by the axis powers.

Want Territory Back

In Cluj, a "committee of resistance" was formed to begin a fight for the return of the territory even before its cession to Hungary has been completed.

Aroused peasants, carrying pitchforks, hunting knives and shotguns were said to have taken up positions in some of the trenches vacated by the retiring Rumanian army, insisting they would fight any Hungarian setting foot across the border.

Trains leaving northern Transylvania were so jammed that passengers had to leave and enter through windows. All were running hours behind schedule.

The cars were filled not only with fleeing Transylvanians but with ducks, chickens and other possessions the emigres were trying to take to their new homes somewhere in the old kingdom of Rumania.

Taxis, Cars Commandered

Taxis and private automobiles disappeared from Cluj streets during the night. They were commandeered to transport groups of Rumanian peasants known as "mots" down from their remote farms on the slopes of the bare-topped, snow-capped mountains. Long caravans arrived during the early evening, filled with hundreds of these wide-eyed, primitive mountaineers. Their appearance was the signal for a new outbreak of demonstrations.

Thousands assembled in the city square and listened to students who mounted boxes and delivered fiery speeches. Spontaneous parades were organized with the marchers chanting "we prefer war."

In response to an appeal from the Hungarian consulate at Cluj soldiers were posted around the building with machine guns stripped for action. Other troops with fixed bayonets lay hidden in the deep grass of the consulate garden.

The threatening crowd marched to the statue of Romulus and Remus and its plaque boaring the name of Premier Mussolini, where anti-Italian demonstrations were held.

Hiss Mussolini

Transylvanians, who charged Il Duce "sold us out," hissed every mention of his name.

On numerous occasions the harried troops were forced to charge the crowd with bayonets.

In some sections near Cluj, homes of Hungarian peasants were reported attacked and many of the occupants injured. Doors and windows were smashed in the largest Clum theater, which is Hungarian-owned.

Ion Lagajanu, member of parliament, former minister to Rome and editor of "Universul," leading Bucharest daily, and his wife were arrested as ringleaders in the capital demonstration.

Among numerous other persons arrested was Mrs. Robert St. John, wife of the Associated Press correspondent. She was taken into custody as she drove past the Italian and German legations in a taxi. Mrs. St. John said she was manhandled and injured and held incommunicado until finally released.

Late this evening a parade of armored cars, machine guns in their turrets, and army trucks and special military mob-dispersing sprinklers began patrolling the streets.

chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, said that public hearings, to be held in Washington or nearby Leesburg, Va., would be ordered in a day or two in an attempt to determine the cause of the accident.)

Today a bright sun beating down on the crash-scared clover field disclosed a picture of incomparable horror. Virtually all of the bodies appeared to have been severed. Unofficial observers said the passengers apparently were buckled in their seats and were literally cut in two by the impact.

J. H. Carmichael, vice-president of Pennsylvania Central and a former pilot on the same route, said apparently both engines were "wide open," but he would not estimate the speed of the plane when it crashed a few minutes after leaving Washington enroute to Pittsburgh.

No Sign of Explosion

There was no indication of an explosion before the plane hit, he said, and the distance some portions of the bodies and debris were thrown might have been due to impact velocity alone. The mangled bodies were scattered over a 25-acre area.

Carmichael, investigating the crash with civil aeronautics board authorities, the FBI and local officials, said signs of fire about the plane might have been due "to the atomization of 400 gallons of gasoline." Any fire, he added, would have been squelched by the rain, pouring onto the soaked field.

Col. Donald Connolly, administrator of the CAA who took personal charge of the agency's investigation, and other officials inspecting the wreckage agreed there was "nothing definite" on which to hang the cause of the disaster.

No Official Comment

None would make official comment on speculation that lightning struck the big ship.

County officials altered their previous stand at about 3 a. m., and granted permission for the collection and removal of the bodies to nearby Leesburg, Va.

For three hours before dawn in the glare of floodlights generated by an emergency unit set up in the field, undertaker assistants carried the mangled bodies to three hearses.

They labored through ankle deep mud.

Among the scattered remains of victims lay clothing, shoes, hats, handbags, money, personal effects, and hundreds of bits of metal from the plane's fuselage and wings spread about like confetti.

Almost in the center of the field stood the tail assembly, bent and twisted and up-ended as if it had rolled over and over after breaking loose from the ship's main section.

To the right and left was the shattered wing portions, and all about lay other pieces of the deluxe $129,000 Douglas airliner. At the base of the slight hill over which Pilot Lowell Scroggins vainly fought to lift the big ship was a huge crater, the spot it was believed to have struck first.

By mid afternoon relatives had identified from personal effects about half the victims. Lundeen's body was identified by Martin W. Hysong, a personal friend. FBI fingerprint experts were enlisted to aid in identifying others.

Ground crews of the airline began piling up wreckage and planned to saturate it with gasoline and set it ablaze. Carmichael said there was no salvage.

Attempting to reconstruct events, Carmichael, from conflicting reports, fixed the time of the crack-up at about 2:41 p. m. (EST.) He said Scroggins, a pilot of eleven years' service with the company, had given a report over Herndon, Va., at 2:31, about eleven minutes after leaving Washington, and indicating he was climbing to his flight altitude of 6,000 feet.

Carmichael said he had canvassed the area and found no one who saw the plane actually crash.

Airline officials discredited reports that a note had been dropped by Stewardess Margaret Carson of Pittsburgh, just before the plane struck. Persons first on the scene who reported the note said it asked that the line's Pittsburgh office be notified.

Defense Force To Replace National Guard Advocated

Senate Military Committee Members in Favor of Home Units

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. (AP)—A "home defense" force to replace national guardsmen called into federal training was urged today by some members of the Senate Military Committee.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) said chief executives of several states, including Governors Herbert H. Lehman of New York and W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas, had asked the military committee to authorize state defense units.

It was indicated that the necessary legislation would be handled separately, rather than as an amendment to the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory training bill.

Considerable favor was manifested, meanwhile, for an amendment to the conscription bill, drafted by Representative Smith (D-Conn) which would permit employers, if they desired, to continue paying salaries to their employes who were drafted for training.

Smith said he understood that some employers had offered to make up the difference between army pay—to be raised from $21 to $30 monthly in the conscription bill—and trainees' wages at the time they are called.

May Change Law

Present law forbids members of the military establishment to receive remuneration from private concerns. This law was designed especially to prevent military men connected with army purchasing from drawing any gratuities from companies doing business with the army.

Youngsters

was said, complicating the rescue task.

The children had gone to bed at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Within three and a half minutes after the torpedo struck and the alarm bell had sounded, every child was at his lifeboat station wearing his life jacket.

Two of the ship's holds were filling and the children were ordered into the lifeboats. Four boats pulled away. Officers noticed then that the ship had stopped settling and an attempt was made to recall the boats.

The third hold began filling then and the order to take to the boats was repeated. All got off safely except the purser who slipped as he was entering a boat.

In the darkness the boats kept together by signalling with flashlights.

"There was no crying or whimpering," said one of the chaperons. "The sea was roughish, but those who were not ill sang 'Roll Out the Barrel' as they had never sung it before".

Some of the children sang loudly, the chaperon said, to smother the sound of other children who were ill.

"And there was one youngster of eight in my boat who said, 'we don't want Hitler to think he can beat us that easy,'" the chaperon added.

"Our boat was finally brought alongside a ship and with a banana basket slung from derricks we sent the children up three at a time.

"The ship had limited accommodations and suddenly having to accommodate many extra men, women and children somewhat taxed the accommodations. But with the grub we had brought the boats managed to feed the youngsters. Water had to be rationed pretty strictly and washing was barred."

Workers Urged

wages and overtime to employes.

"We have done this in the Democratic way and it works," Col. Philip Fleming, administrator said of the agency's accomplishments.

"Today we celebrate the fact that we have not abdicated our sovereignty and our freedom in order to do those things and that we face the tests to come a stronger, more secure and a happier people than on Labor Day, 1939."

The National Labor Relations Board issued a summary of its activities since its creation five years ago. This listed settlement of 2,128 strikes and prevention of 857 others.

Strike settlements, the board said, sent 277,286 workers back to their jobs, and action averting other strikes prevented loss of employment for 199,086 workers.

C. E. Borror Is Jailed on Two Serious Charges

Clarence E. Borror, 318 Maryland avenue, was arrested and jailed on two serious motor charges early yesterday morning.

He was arrested on Baltimore street by Officer B. F. Hotchkiss and F. O. Daum.

Find Man's Body

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 1. (AP)—A peach-picker found the body of Bert Lafferty, 52, along the Chesapeake & Ohio railway tracks today and coroner F. X. Schuller, who said he was apparently killed by a train, termed the death accidental.

Lafferty, a carpenter, is survived by his widow and two daughters.

raid bombs were dropped in Kent and Surrey, causing some damage and a number of casualties, including some persons killed.

"Two small formations of enemy bombers followed this raid and entered the Thames estuary. These formations were quickly dispersed, without, so far as is known at present, causing any damage or casualties."

The British official version of the day's sharp air fighting was a story of repeated attacks on the United Kingdom beaten off by vigilant defenders in RAF fighting craft and by anti-aircraft gunners blasting at the invaders from the ground.

Attack German Positions

The Royal Air Force and the fleet air arm, carring their own air offensive to Germany, lashed Saturday night at objectives in Berlin and German-occupied Netherlands, the air ministry declared.

At Berlin an airdrome, an airplane engine factory and "lighting installations," were bombed, said the ministry, adding a list of military objectives bombed in other parts of Germany.

The air ministry news service gave a specific account of "successful attacks" on oil tanks at Vlaardingen, near Rotterdam.

The attack, it said, was "made by swordfish aircraft of the fleet air arm, cooperating with the coastal command, and by a squadron of Blen Heims.

"Pilots had to fly through an intense barrage of anti-aircraft fire and many searchlights.

"They found their targets easily and sticks of bombs from the leading aircraft started fires which lit up the scene for those who came later. When the last British aircraft was on its way home the fires were burning fiercely."

Bomb Munitions Factory

The announcement declared that other sections of British bombers attacked the union Rheinsche Braunkohlen Kraftestoff at Wessling and Cologne and the Bayer explosives and filling factory at Lverkusen near Cologne also was bombed while at Spich the bombing of an ammunition factory resulted in several fires."

The amplification concluded that "two hours after midnight the enemy's long range gun emplacements, which are sighted in the cap Gris Nez area were surprised by a gliding attack carried out by a small force of medium bombers."

Thus the Sunday saw no letup in the battle of Britain — a war blazing in its full sense of aerial attritional combat.

The ministry of information in a tabulation for the week ended Saturday night said the Germans had lost 293 planes and about 700 men while the British lost 128 planes and 110 men.

For seventy enemy raiders destroyed Saturday, it said, the British lost thirty-seven machines, but twenty-five British pilots were safe.

Nazi planes droned over Wales, the Midlands and two southern England towns again tonight.

A big formation of Nazi bombers which tried to break through the defenses at the Thames estuary were turned back by anti-aircraft fire and fighter planes.

Use New Technique

The bombers used what was thought to be a new technique. When their formation split up four dived below the barrage and made a dive-bombing attack. Some of the bombs fell of waste ground, but most fell across the heart of a town and several houses were damaged.

The plight of a British pilot who bailed out of his crippled fighter during a dog fight on the outskirts of London came to light today. The man was mistaken for a Nazi airman by angry civilians and narrowly escaped manhandling. A bus driver saved him.

Raids Commonplace

Exchanges of raids on British and German capitals, such as today, are approaching the commonplace. Much of Britain and Germany has been raked with bombs. Just how muen and how badly are censorship secrets.

Thus, the scream and rumble of bombs, in suburban London and Berlin, the drumming of anti-aircraft fire, the chatter of machine-guns and aerial cannon, the tortured drone of planes in twisting combat and the sickening crash of stricken craft marked the first anniversary of the second great European war.

On Sept. 1, 1939, German motorized, mechanized legions swept into Poland. Today Britain is fighting for time—time to gain strength to deliver her own offensive blow.

The war itself or signs of war were at hand for every Briton today. London had three air alarms by late afternoon, nine in twenty-four hours. Bombs fell within greater London. There were "some" casualties, as British officialdom expressed it. Service on a section of London's transport network was interrupted.

Raiders Driven Back

In all, there were four stabs at London by late afternoon, three of which brought air raid alarms. The other was beaten back.

Several Messerschmitt escort fighters were reported shot down on the southeast coast in connection with a frustrated mid-morning bomber trust toward the British capital. Earlier a Messerschmidt of the "yellow nose" squadron, shot down two barrage balloons to clear the way for bomber formations.

While Messerschmidts attacked a southeast coast town, just as church services were starting, a formation of bombers passed inland and was engaged by RAF fighters.

As the stained glass windows of the town's churches rattled to machine-gun and anti-aircraft fire, the bomber formation, Heinkel III's headed westward toward London. But within less than a half hour they returned, with four planes missing.

The Heinkels had run into a Horinet's nest of Spitfires and Hurricanes which dived on them from high altitude.

At another southeast town four bombers out of a formation swooped down and dropped bombs on an old, densely populated quarter. The extent of casualties and damage was not at once reported. It was learned, however, that three fires started by the bombers had been extinguished.

Commenting on German losses in yesterday's fighting—eighty-five planes by British count—an authoritative source stressed the cost in German personnel.

"In terms of highly trained airmen this means a loss to Germany of about 212 fighter pilots and bomber crewman against twelve British pilots lost," this source said. "—a discrepancy of enormous importance in view of Germany's growing difficulty in replacing skilled personnel."

The British acknowledged loss of thirty-seven fighting planes yesterday but said all but 12 pilots saved themselves.

dock facilities at the mouth of the Thames yesterday and last night.

Among the vessels listed as sunk by the U-boat was the 15,000-ton "modern British auxiliary cruiser" Dunvegan Castle.

(The British admiralty acknowledged the loss of this ship last night. The admiralty said thirty in the crew were reported missing.)

The high command's communique said "air and armament factories in middle England all were bombed" Saturday and during the night and that numerous fires were seen by Nazi pilots.

The communique listed British losses as follows: 116 planes in air fights, fourteen on the ground and three by anti-aircraft fire; and seventy-four barrage balloons. Thirty-two German planes are missing, the high command said.

Source of News Mystery

He said the implication of Willkie's release of excerpts was that the copy came from Stettinius. But, he added, Stettinius had only one copy which "is locked in his vault and has been right along."

Several copies were in the hands of high army and navy officials, Early asserted.

Summary of War News

By The Associated Press

Rumania erupted in a series of wild anti-axis riots yesterday and today (Monday), all but out-roaring the fury of Germany's air siege against Britain in the year-old war which the Nazis declare is near its "decisive hour."

Demonstrating their angry disgust with the cession of half Transylvania to Hungary, as ordered by Germany and Italy, Rumanian mobs sacked a German consulate to destroy portraits of Adolf Hitler. An Italian consul was beaten.

Several prominent Rumanians were arrested for leading demonstrators in Bucharest; peasants with pitchforks and knives moved up to the border to defend their farms from the Hungarians; and Bucharest echoed with the rumble of tanks and the tread of thousands of gendarmes struggling to quell the crowds who cried, "fight the Hungarians!"

Thus incidents aplenty were provided—if incidents were required—for Germany to hurry troops into the troubled Balkan kingdom which she already has promised to "protect."

Palace Under Siege

King Carol's palace was virtually under siege. Picked men guarded it was armored cars, machine guns, tear gas and water sprinklers.

Hungary, with 80,000 soldiers ready to march, was reported threatening to move into Transylvania without delay, despite an agreed waiting period.

More important, but following a routine that has become familiar in the past devastating six weeks, was the battle of Britain.

Germany reported one U-boat had sunk 100,000 tons of British shipping in a three-day prowl. The British acknowledged loss of a Canada-bound refugee ship but said the 320 children aboard were all rescued.

German planes, shuttling constantly across the narrow English channel, struck at nearly every part of the island, but Britain's dogged defenders said they had shot down twenty-five Nazi planes while losing fifteen of their own.

British Raid Germany

The British themselves continued wide raids on Germany and on German-held territory with blows at Berlin and at German industries and airdromes.

Speaking scornfully of Britain in an address in conquered Poland, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels declared, "the decisive hour is inexorably near . . . recently many Britons have left the impression that they are impatient for a showdown. These impatient gentlemen will not want for an answer from the German armed forces."

The score in Saturday's air fighting was, according to the British, eighty-five German planes downed and thirty-seven British; according to the Germans, 133 British planes destroyed and thirty-two Nazi.

"Decisive Hour Inexorably Near," Goebbels Asserts

Nazi Propaganda Minister Says British Will Soon Face Showdown

BERLIN, Sept. 1 (AP) — The "decisive hour is inexorably near' for Britain, German Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels declared today.

Speaking at Katowice, in German-occupied Poland on the first anniversary of the German-Polish conflict, the minister told Silesians that "developments of the past year must have convinced even Englishmen that the Fuhrer acts when the right hour arrives.

"Recently many Britons left the impression that they are impatient for a showdown. These impatient gentlemen will not want for an answer from the German armed forces.

"The Fuhrer sets a decisive hour and that means he can depend on his people."

Goebbels recalled Adolf Hitler's "outstretched hand' offer of peace on Oct. 6, 1939, and his reiterated offer of peace or destruction after the collapse of France.

"Churchill (British prime minister) and the plutocrats won't and can't understand the New World", he said and asserted that British hopes for aid from "general hunger" had been blasted by German trade on the continent.

Touching on the Polish campaign, he said that German forces crossed the Polish borders after provocations which he asserted were fanned by the British, "but in the eighteen-day campaign the blaze was stamped out and in less than three weeks Poland fell."

vent the spread of dictatorship in this country."

He added:

"Labor Day should also cause every friend of American labor to remember that in the totalitarian dictatorships of Europe they have liquidated free trade unions, and have imprisoned, or in some cases, murdered union leaders."

Willkie said that if he were elected, he would "enlist the wholehearted cooperation of labor, industry, agriculture and every other group in the task of overcoming our present economic stagnation and wiping out unemployment."

Confers with Vetera

Following a conference yesterday with Harry W. Colmery, former American Legion commander and now chairman of the Willkie Veterans National Committee, Willkie said today that the formation of the latter organization "confirms their (veterans') interest in the preservation of this government as one representative of the people.

"I pledge to them now," he said, "my belief in the American system as we, who have defended it, understand it."

Willkie talked by telephone last night with his running mate, Senator Charles L. McNary, who is in Salem, Ore., and learned that the latter would be unable to attend the Thursday conference. It was agreed however, that McNary would come here to confer with Willkie before the presidential nominee leaves on his western trip Sept. 14. The Thursday meeting will be attended by national committeemen, committee-women and state chairmen from the following states:

auxiliary gathered for today's opening sessions, which included an appearance by Governor Homer A. Holt, who extended greetings to the group.

The affiliated Forty and Eight Society, concluding its phase of the convention program with a business session, adopted a resolution pledging its "one hundred percent support to the nation in time of stress."

Kenneth Heyl of Charleston, was elected chef de gare succeeding Ralph Heatherington of Clarksburg.

H. T. Grahame Is Fined $5 in Court

Henry T. Grahame, of Williams road, was fined $5 and costs yesterday in trial magistrates court on a charge of failing to assign title on purchase and delivery of a motor vehicle.

State Trooper John H. Doud made the arrest and Howard P. Arnold was the prosecuting witness.

Dedication Talks by Roosevelt Are Scheduled on Two Radio Networks

Various Other Labor Day Speeches Are Listed

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—President Roosevelt will make two Labor Day speeches. At 11 a. m. he is to dedicate Chickamauga dam, near Chattanooga, Tenn., latest addition to TVA, and at 5 p. m. he will be chief speaker at dedication ceremonies for Great Smoky National Park.

Columbia and MBS scheduled both speeches for broadcast. WJZ-NBC is to air the morning ceremonies and WEAF-NBC the afternoon program.

Other Labor day schedules:

Green and Lewis

3 p. m., WJZ-NBC and MBS—William Green, president of American Federation of Labor, from Denver.

4 p. m. WJZ-NBC—John L. Lewis, president of CIO, from Washington

4:30 p. m., CBS—A. F. Whitney, president of Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, from Chicago.

6:15 p. m., CBS—Sen. Davis (R-Pa), secretary of labor in Harding, Coolidge and Hoover cabinets, from Philadelphia.

6:45 p. m., WJZ-NBC—J. M. Ornburn, AFL, Union Labor Department, from Washington.

7 p. m., CBS—Secretary of Labor Perkins, from Boston.

Two New Series

MBS opens two new series—Yankee Doodle Goes to Town at 2:30 p. m., and Wake Up, America at 8 p. m. Monday's first installment of Yankee Doodle brings "Whaling Ports of New England," a story of a fading American industry.

The first Wake Up America program, with Lowell Thomas as commentator, carries a labor theme, "Labor's Position in National Defense." James B. Carey, secretary of the CIO is guest discussion leader.

MBS observes the first anniversary of the European war with a special broadcast at 9 p. m. Monday.

Tuesday Specials

Tuesday, CBS will bring its listeners impressions from William L. Shirer in Berlin and Edward R. Murrow in London of these cities "today and a year ago." The broadcast, from 9:30 to 10 p. m., will also bring a review of American official thought and action from Albert Warner in Washington and an outline of the military situation from Maj. George Fielding Eliot in New York.

Elmer Davis closes the program with speculation as to the war's effects.

NBC has two broadcasts scheduled. The first, from 9 to 10 p. m. on the WJZ network, will bring a dramatization of stirring events of the war—the scuttling of the Graf Spee, collapse of France and invasion of the lowlands. At 10:30 the WEAF network comes on with a roundtable hook-up between New York and Washington.

Other Features

Four "male housewives," unemployed men whose wives work, will uphold the masculine side of WEAF-NBC's Battle of the Sexes at 8 p. m.

A lady freight boat captain, Miss D'Arcy Grant, is a guest on We, the People (CBS, 8 p. m.).

Comedienne Mabel Todd is back with Laugh and Swing on MBS at 8:30.

Lanny Ross will sing the air premiere of his own work, "On Guard, America," on Musical America on WJZ-NBC at 8.

"One Mystery, Coming Up" on CBS' Little Theater at 7:30.

Helen Menken, stage star, has the feminine lead in "Second Husband," a drama on CBS at 6:30.

Marian Martin

You'll need lots of gay "home companions" for the long busy days to come. Here's a real prize-winner, Pattern 9263 by Marian Martin. The long front and back seams . . . the placing of the pockets . . . the neat waistline darts . . . the attractive yokes, darted below for ease—all combine to give slim-and-trim appearance. Printed cotton looks gay. Or use a striped fabric and cut the entire frock on the bias, leaving just the yokes, sleeves and pockets in straight contrast—so striking. Band-finish the sleeves or comfortably flare them. The open diagram shows you how easy it is to stitch up this style.

Pattern 9263 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards 35 inch; 2⅝ yards ric-rac.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Your Fashion Future is in the new Marian Martin pattern book . . . just off the press. A brilliant forecast of Fall and Winter, with stunning costumes for every age and type. There are pages of "good black dresses" . . . gay "party lines" for evening . . . a college wardrobe line-up . . . youngster school and dress-up modes. You'll see slimming forty-plus frocks, North and South sports clothes, and many tailored suits and dresses. Order your copy now. Book fifteen cents. Pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Send your order to Cumberland News, Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York, N. Y.

Before Colorado territory was organized it was called "The Territory of Jefferson."

You'll need lots of gay "home companions" for the long busy days to come. Here's a real prize-winner, Pattern 9263 by Marian Martin. The long front and back seams . . . the placing of the pockets . . . the neat waistline darts . . . the attractive yokes, darted below for ease—all combine to give slim-and-trim appearance. Printed cotton looks gay. Or use a striped fabric and cut the entire frock on the bias, leaving just the yokes, sleeves and pockets in straight contrast—so striking. Band-finish the sleeves or comfortably flare them. The open diagram shows you how easy it is to stitch up this style.

Pattern 9263 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards 35 inch; 2⅝ yards ric-rac.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Your Fashion Future is in the new Marian Martin pattern book . . . just off the press. A brilliant forecast of Fall and Winter, with stunning costumes for every age and type. There are pages of "good black dresses" . . . gay "party lines" for evening . . . a college wardrobe line-up . . . youngster school and dress-up modes. You'll see slimming forty-plus frocks, North and South sports clothes and many tailored suits and dresses. Order your copy now. Book fifteen cents. Pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Send your order to Cumberland News, Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York, N. Y.

Before Colorado territory was organized it was called "The Territory of Jefferson."

No Excuse Obtains For This Proposal

EFFORTS of Mr. Roosevelt and his New Dealers to arrogate more power to help perpetuate themselves in office is again marked by the unnecessary and unwarranted Overton-Russell industrial conscription amendment to the selective military service bill; and Mr. Willkie has done quite the proper thing in directing attention of the people to the dangers involved in the thing and demanding its defeat. This he has done promptly and in no uncertain manner.

The proverbial man in the woodpile here is that Mr. Roosevelt is seeking to obtain a peacetime power and privilege under the guise of a war emergency; and the over-reach for authority is easily discerned when it is noted that under the National Defense act of 1916, which is still in effect, the president already has the authority to take over productive establishments "in time of war or when war is imminent."

The amendment not only would give the president absolute and arbitrary control of virtually the entire economic system of the country, but, what is particularly indefensible, it would lodge solely in him the discretion to determine when and whether there is any disagreement between the administration and any "plant or facility," a phrase which covers about every phase of business or industry extant.

As Mr. Willkie so vehemently says, this is a "stupendous, a startling and staggering proposition" for time of peace; and, as he also declares, it contains the prime elements of "potential dictatorship," tending to "socialize" or "sovietize" American enterprise. But it is just another of the many steps the New Dealers have taken toward the regimentation of the nation.

Contrast Is Presented By Our Labor Day

THERE WAS FINE SENTIMENT in dedicating a holiday to be called Labor day. All right-thinking people always have respected labor.

This year, particularly, Americans are challenged by the contrast of the lot of the worker in this country with that of workers in many other countries. To be faced with constant uncertainty; to go to work each morning under the threat that before night a bomb may descend upon the factory or to live like a slave under the heel of the conqueror must be distressing conditions.

In this frame of mind, a great many workers in this country will be disposed to make this Labor day a day of thanksgiving also. In spite of the fact that times are not so good as might be desired, that many have lacked employment, the fact remains that the American wage earner has a degree of freedom hardly known in other lands.

Such is the condition for the present. On this Labor day, at least, the worker may take his day off, go where he pleases and celebrate as he likes.

A New Season Having Elements of Charm

INTERESTED OBSERVERS of the changing seasons have almost of one accord during years been impressed by the generally improved performance given by autumn. In fact, there is a disposition to give the season a somewhat higher rating than has been granted spring, whose traditional delights have not been measuring up to expectations.

Spring this year was attended by disappointments. It was not distinguished by that gradual transformation from winter to summer that has awakened the lyre of the poet throughout the ages and also has inspired pleasant emotions ... the heart of the most prosaic.

Autumn is now a much more reliable and pleasant season, as it is hoped September will prove to the satisfaction of all. Summer lingers and is welcome, but at the same time there is a suggestion of change. The outdoors holds all of its customary allurement while at the same time the comforts of home become a little more appealing.

September, which marks the beginning of a season which is not without its sombre aspects, has its own elements of charm and they are strikingly manifest at present. It is the hope of all citizens, young and old, that the autumn which it inaugurates will compare favorably with those of other years and that it will be prolonged to within easy reaching distance of the Christmas holidays.

Negroes Are Deserting The Roosevelt Camp

HISTORY has recorded that Roosevelt won the negro vote in the North, which had long been a Republican asset, by means of the successful exploitation of his political nostrums among them. But it appears that the negroes are reaching the conclusion that in following Roosevelt for one thing were chasing a will-o'-the-wisp and that for another thing they were used merely as selfish political pawns.

Evidence of this change of heart is marked by the switch of the Pittsburgh Courier, a weekly newspaper devoted to the interests of the negro race and circulated over a wide area, from Roosevelt to support of Willkie.

"For some time," states its editor, Robert Vann, one of the most influential men of the colored race, in a recent issue of the paper, "we have had our doubts about the sincerity of Mr. Franklin Delano Roosevelt with respect to some of his declarations, his preachments, his stated philosophies and even some of his promises."

After reviewing the career of the president through two terms, Vann declares that Roosevelt has changed radically.

"We supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1932," the Courier editorial states. "We supported him with less enthusiasm in 1936, but as we said in the beginning of this article, he is a far different man today from what he was in 1932 and 1936. And because of his changes and because of the subtle way he has shifted his position toward the American people and because of his willingness to frighten 130,000,000 people into believing this country is going to be at war by Christmas if he is not elected; because of this type of deception and because of his refusal to say a word in behalf of the 13,000,000 negroes in the United States during his seven years in the White House we cannot suuport him in 1940."

"In short we are not leaving Mr. Roosevelt. He has left us. In view of the foregoing and in view of the courageous and all-American statement made by Mr. Wendell Willkie at Elwood, Ind., last Saturday, the Courier states boldly that it will support Mr. Willkie for the presidency of the United States this year of our Lord 1940."

The position taken by Robert Vann cannot but have its influence on the swing of negroes back to the Republican fold. There is a firm conviction the backward swing will be in full force this campaign. They, like their champion, Mr. Vann, have lost their faith in Mr. Roosevelt.

These Are America Of the Future

"HEIGH-HO, heigh-ho,
It's back to school we go—"

This week youngsters will be sprinting along well-beaten paths to their respective institutions, chanting, in effect, the above ditty. They'll be cheerful and gay, as only unencumbered youth can be. With sights set high, they will march forward, along the free, open road to individual achievement. They are taking the American way.

For quite a sizeable number it will be their first experience with chalk, blackboards and teachers. Others, more experienced, look forward with varying emotions to another season of fun or hardship, according to the way they look upon things. None will seem greatly depressed.

From now until next summer, the thousands of pupils will take their accepted places in the halls of learning. They will attempt to master the business of reading, writing and arithmetic. They will learn how to spell, to trace the course of rivers, to experiment with the mysteries of science. They are the America of the future.

A Good Source Of Copy Gone

THE DUC DE GUISE is dead, and he will be missed by editorial writers in America. The Duc, as he was familiarly dubbed a thousand times, was always good for a snappy, if not always respectful, paragraph to even up a column.

The Duc was a bearded gentleman who lived in Morocco because he persisted in pretending that he was King of France and the French, under the Third Republic, didn't wish to be annoyed. The Duc issued proclamations and the like at regular intervals, and these were always received gleefully by the American press.

The Duc left a male offspring, 32-year-old Henri de Guise, Prince d'Orleans and Comte de Paris, who now takes up where his old man left off as claimant to the French "throne", and three daughters who are married to a miscellaneous assortment of royalty.

Well, goodbye, Duc. Though you did not achieve your main ambition, you got your name in the papers.

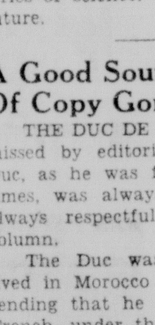
The war, says an editorial, already has added a great many new words to the dictionary. But we wouldn't swap one word for all of them—and that's "peace."

Britons are doing their best to prove that he who takes up the bombing plane will perish by the bombing plane.

White Roses in a Green Jar

By MARSHALL MASLIN

On the wall is a fine print of a painting nearly fifty years old.



Marshall Maslin

It is only a mass of white roses in a crooked green jar. . . and some men and women come into the room and look at it and say nothing and turn away . . . It means little to them. They have seen millions of white roses, many mishapen jugs, and what do they care if a man trouble himself to paint white roses in a green jar?

I am not criticizing them. I'm not feeling superior. . . I don't care so much, myself, for some of the things I see in art galleries. I look at them and wonder why they were painted.

But behind and in and a part of that white and green paint within its silver frame is a man I would almost surely have not liked in the flesh but whose life I love to remember and think upon. . . That life was sad and desperate, the man alternated unhappy sanity and wild madness. . . But he loved the earth and the sunshine and tried desperately to recreate the beauty that he saw.

He painted everything. . . boats and bridges, fields and farmhouses, miners and plowmen, cottages and old hotels, a passing postman, his old landlord, a soldier, a friend, himself, a bright yellow chair, a billiard hall, a peasant woman sitting at a table, and sunflowers, sunflowers, sunflowers. . . And he painted those white roses many times.

There was something in life that he loved, something he wanted to grip for an instant with his mind and his blobs of apint and set free forever on his dearly bought canvas. . . The white roses on my wall faded long ago and rotted and became mulch for more white roses. . . but they are immortally fixed within this frame that Vincent Van Gogh made for them.

He did love life! . . . Almost all other men say that they, too, love life—and they cling to it as if it were precious to them. But few of them love it as unselfishly, as grandly, as Van Gogh. They love it selfishly, meanly, without ever being brave enough to embrace it as he did. . . And because he was what he was and did what he did, his white roses in their crooked green jar bloom forever for me.

Highfalutin Words Are Not So Good, Edwin Hill Says

By EDWIN C. HILL

We're for the old, dependable, used word rather than the snappy, new 1940 model, especially when it happens to mean exactly the same thing. Without getting etymological about it, what we mean is that this "material" importation from France is a lot of pretentious nonsense, and has no more business in an honest spot news story than crab-grass on a golf green.

Edwin C. Hill

Italicize it and get that jigger over the first E properly slanted to the right, and you get a dash of sophistication which may fool the unwary. But the fact is that the gent with the limber writing-wrist is referring to material, and nothing else.

Meaning Is the Same

You can run both words through a wringer, a chemist's retort and a rock-crusher and they'll come out exactly the same, so far as meaning is concerned. It is an occupational weakness of the trade which, in times long gone used to be shocked out of reporters by hard-boiled and profane city editors.

But why do the war scribes do it? I believe the answer lies in the suggestion of close-in intimacy and technical familiarity, speciously built up by filching the alien word. It's as tricky as one of those Coney Island mirrors, and in some instances a device of much more subtle distortion.

One doesn't mind the boys showing off a bit, but, more than ever before, words are both tools and munitions, and standard practice is demanded if they are to serve their honest purpose of conveying meaning. That is especially and emphatically true with regard to straight news reporting.

Nothing New Offered

I do not believe there is a single word or expression in the current journalistic and literary lingo that covers any new salient of precise meaning. That might rate study and report by an official board of lexicographers.

If we are to think our way through the prevailing confusion, it is imperative that we write and speak with words that are not the flat of demagogues or doctrinaries—words that are not depreciated or alloyed currency. We grab the newly minted or printed word eagerly, and with the illusion that we thereby get more understanding.

First Recorded Instance

Fifth column, for instance, Sumaria, about 700 B. C., provided the first recorded historical instance of the use of traitors, spies and subversionists in another country, to ready it for conquest. The expression serves no useful purpose. It conveys no new meaning. But it does give a lot of people the jitters. With its baleful associations it becomes, like other hated and feared words, a stick to beat a dog.

Certain congressmen, exercising their congressional immunity, have indulged in some unseemly spectacles by calling somebody a fifth columnist, when they didn't like what he said or did. When a word degenerates into an epithet, it is time to assay it carefully and use it warily. I would vote to swear off entirely on the use of the expression "fifth column." We have several substitute forty-four calibre words which we have long known how to use with more accuracy, fairness and effect.

Just Tyranny

Totalitarianism is another bugaboo word which isn't good for anything in particular except to scare people. You can figure it seven ways from the jack and it means tyranny and nothing else, as do fascism, naziism and communism. I believe that if all such new words could be boiled down to their net content of meaning, or else booted out, there would be a great improvement in our national morale. Hob-goblin words ride the tempest like the Valkyries and we will have a better chance to keep our mind on our work—which is saving this country—if we see them and understand them as the ghost words which they are. There's scripture for that—"Let your speech be Yea, Yea and Nay, Nay."

Johnson Recalled

Old Sam Johnson was a man of parts, but a good city editor would have batted his ears back. Taking a round-house swing at a literary rival, Sam wrote about the latter's essay, "It lacks the wit to keep it sweet." That didn't look so good, so Sam went to work on it. It finally came out, "It is wanting in sufficient savour to preserve it from putrefaction." This "materiel" gag made me thing of that. Snap out of it boys.—Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOME FROM THE SEVEN YEARS HUNTING TRIP

Sullivan Says Parliamentary System Is Working in Conscription Measure

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—The heart of the conscription bill, as passed by the Senate August 28, is this: Every male "between the ages 21 and 31" is required to register. The number thus registered "shall be liable for training and service in the land and naval forces of the United States." Out of the total twelve million registered and liable, up to 900,000, about one out of thirteen, will be selected. These 900,000 will actually be "inducted into the land or naval forces (including aviation units) of the United States."

Mark Sullivan

The bill (with some variations from the Senate version) goes now before the House. The House consideration is expected to consume a week to ten days. If the Houses passes the bill, there will be conference between committees of House and Senate, to adjust differences between the two versions. Thereafter comes final action by the two bodies, on the agreed-upon measure. The concluding step is action by the president, who undoubtedly would sign the bill.

All this is on the assumption the House passes the bill. If the House does not pass it, conscription will be "out."

Debate Very Thorough

The debate in the Senate—it consumed fourteen days—has been followed by the writer of this column. By "followed" I mean that every page of the record has been scanned much of it read carefully. The debate included many extracts from testimony of army offficers and others, given before the Senate Military Affairs committee—some of the extracts used by advocates of the bill, to prove their argument; others by opponents to prove their side. The debate was very thorough, and was of high quality. It was in the judgment of this writer, the American form of government—that is, government by representatives, democratically chosen-functioning admirably; functioning as well as any American Congress ever functioned, as well as any parliamentary body ever functioned anywhere.

This judgment is emphasized, just because it runs counter to much that has been printed and said. This judgment is important because the very existence of government by Congress or other parliamentary body is in peril everywhere—in country after country, parliamentary government is succumbing to one man government, thoughtless, sometimes subtly and malevolently intended — imperils the existence, of the constitution functioning, of our own representative government, feeds the tendency toward dictatorship.

Universal Tendency

Every generation criticizes its current Congress, says that Congress has degenerated points nostalgically to Congresses of the past—points to Webster, Clay, Calhoun, and asks why have we none like them now. There is an Irish proverb, "far-away cattle have long horns." So do long-ago Senators have great minds. We accept the elevation of a Webster, because we meet him in a $3 book of history; we miss the elevation of a present Senator because we see him in the headlines of a three-cent newspaper. This is a universal human tendency. Antony and Cleopatra is an exalted drama, because we meet it in classic literature and history. But every newspaper-reader and radio-listener has witnessed, in our own time, a drama analogous in interest, and as much greater in proportion as the British Empire is broader than Rome—the abdiction of a British king to marry a young woman from Baltimore.

My own impression is that the average of any one Senate is about as high as the average of any other. Any group of men, such as the Senate, is like a whisthand or a deck of cards. It contains a certain number of aces and kings—and a certain number of two-spots and trays, together with a complement of fives, sixes, nines and so on. In history, the aces survive, the mediocre are forgotten. But for each Webster and Clay, there were corresponding two-spots.

Strutters for the Day

Though the two-spots lose out in history, they strut conspicuosly in contemporary print. In the public accounts of the Senate debate on conscription, more attention was paid to about three two-spots, than to some of the aces and other high cards. If there is fault here, the fault is not in the Senate but in imperfect sense of value on the part of newspapers and commentators. We should not let this obscure our judgment about the supreme value of representative government, and the especial present need to cherish and preserve it.

Groups of men, such as Congresses, average about the same. What sometimes seems differences in Congresses may be due to difference in the presidents, who bring pressure upon them, or whom Congresses tend to support. Individual presidents, like all other individuals, differ greatly. In other countries, dictators differ greatly. Government by a succession of dictators, over a series of years, is likely to be the worst possible government. Government by representatives, by groups, is better.

Change Needed, Editor Declares

South Dakota Paper Deserts New Deal

The Sioux City, Ia., Tribune, edited by Eugene Kelly, exerts wide influence in the Northwest as an independent Democratic newspaper. It supported Woodrow Wilson, Al Smith, and Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936. It now opposes Roosevelt, and in the subjoined editorial, reproduced in part, gives its reasons for supporting Wendell Willkie.

"A new element has crept into the situation this year," it says. "The party that 'drafted' Roosevelt in 1940 is not the same party that nominated Roosevelt in 1932 and in 1936. Nor is Roosevelt the same man that he was when he ran for the presidency in 1932.

"Around Mr. Roosevelt there has grown up—largely with his aid and approval—a sinister, self-seeking, undemocratic horde of office-holders whose primary interest in life is to retain their jobs and the power that goes with their jobs.

"When Mr. Roosevelt employed these elements to engineer the so-called 'draft' and he did just that by killing off all rival candidates, dictated to them what they should do and how and when it should be done, forced them to select Wallace as his running mate on a threat that he would not run at all if they did not, this newspaper's faith in Mr. Roosevelt fled. * * *

"The Tribune knows, as every person who has read history knows, that the manner in which the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt was accomplished is identical with the tactics employed by men of all ages who have risen to places of dictatorial power. The same methods were used in Athens and in Rome centuries ago. Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin rose to power and maintain themselves in power by the very same methods.

"Such processes are inimical to the cause of democracy and subversive of good government.

"Much as The Tribune admires the good works of Franklin D. Roosevelt—and we shall be eternally grateful to him for what he accomplished in his first term—realism and regard for the eternal verities compels us to part company with him and the motely crew that now surrounds him. * * *

"Wendell L. Willkie is a real American who has fought his way from obscurity to the top in the best American tradition.

"The Republican convention in Phidelphia produced the best agricultural plank that has ever been written by any party of any time. Its pronouncements on other matters as well as foreign policy are sound and thoroughly American. * * *

"We believe that if the United States shall avoid the fate of other nations, which have cast aside the principles of popular government and embraced those of totalitarians, a change in administration is absolutely essential."

Johnson Scores Dirty Politics On Social Gains

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—It seems to be a part of Democratic campaign strategy to assure labor that, no matter what may come in this war situation, workers will lose none of the "social advances" of the past few years. It is also a part of extreme New Deal strategy to tell labor that the Republican party intends to use war crisis that may come to deprive labor of all its hard-gotten gains.

Hugh Johnson

This is pretty dirty politics. Labor day is as good a time as any to talk about it. As a matter of cold fact, the discussion is probably academic. The greatest gain that labor could have would be full and continuous employment at good wages and much increased income.

If we get into full war effort and industrial mobilization, the thing that happened in 1918 is very likely to happen again. There will be such a demand for labor and especially the skilled variety that is represented in most of the unions that labor will enjoy a boom.

Boom Carries Risks

There is a great danger there. Labor itself should hope that it will not be the kind of boom that happened in early 1918. Then employers working on helter-skelter cost-plus-a-profit contracts didn't care what their output was costing this country. They took no risk. Production was all that counted with them. So they went out and bid up the wages of labor—sometimes to fantastic figures that could not possibly be maintained in a peacetime economy.

This reckless process, perhaps more than any other, was responsible for an almost vertical, inflationary rise in the cost of everything. Not merely war industries but normal peacetime production was caught in the reckless upward spiral. The cost of living rose faster than the wages of labor. The process from first to last increased the general average of prices in the United States to 213 per cent.

Produced Stagnation

It resulted in a terrific post-war stagnation of production and employment, then in a further little flurry of price inflation in post-war financing, and finally in the collapse of 1921 and the beginning of the real unemployment problem in America.

There isn't a factor on either side in this political contest that has any idea of de-humanizing the social legislation that began with the elimination of child labor, the regulation of minimum wages and maximum hours, and the fight for the rights of collective bargaining and independent labor representation in N.R.A.

But if any politician attempts to tell any American that, if we are dragged into this war, it isn't going to mean harder work, greater sacrifice, heavier burdens and less real income to enjoy—that American had better turn his back, or perhaps better, kick the orator in the shins.

Sacrifice General

If we are so foolish as to become involved, it is going to mean exactly that for every mother's son and daughter of us. It will mean much worse than that for the men who have to fight. Any man who escapes that duty and perhaps that death will blush at any politician's suggestion that he could be spared any sacrifice whatever.

Every American is entitled to equality and fairness in the distribution of duties and the sharing of sacrifice. He is entitled to nothing else whatever unless we are prepared to go down the road that led France to the dump heap.

All the contrary kind of political buncombe is a deliberate incitation to class hatred, suspicion and national disunity, and no man who indulges it is fit for leadership of this nation under war or threat of war.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Rural Growth Marked in Ohio

From The Parkersburg, W. Va., Sentinel

Our neighboring state of Ohio will have a population of close to seven million souls when the 1940 census is completed, according to an estimate made by the bureau based on complete returns from seventy-two of the state's eighty-eight counties. That estimate gives a population of 6,921,000. Thus it is evident that the Buckeye state is about three and one half times as large as West Virginia from a population standpoint. Ohio's growth during the past decade has not been large, about a quarter of a million.

Ohio is pretty fairly developed in every way although there is no question that the state would be able to support a much larger population if industry and even agriculture were developed to the highest degree that it would be practical for them to be expanded.

All but two of the counties thus far tabulated, Hancock and Hardin, showed gains in population. That is a pretty good indication that the growth of the state is general and not limited to a few industrial communities. It is interesting too to note that Ohio's gains have been in the rural areas, suburbs and villages. It looks like it might be an exodus from the metropolitan centers to the wide open spaces.

No Excuse Obtains For This Proposal

EFFORTS of Mr. Roosevelt and his New Dealers to arrogate more power to help perpetuate themselves in office is again marked by the unnecessary and unwarranted Overton-Russell industrial conscription amendment to the selective military service bill; and Mr. Willkie has done quite the proper thing in directing attention of the people to the dangers involved in the thing and demanding its defeat. This he has done promptly and in no uncertain manner.

The proverbial man in the woodpile here is that Mr. Roosevelt is seeking to obtain a peacetime power and privilege under the guise of a war emergency; and the over-reach for authority is easily discerned when it is noted that under the National Defense act of 1916, which is still in effect, the president already has the authority to take over productive establishments "in time of war or when war is imminent."

The amendment not only would give the president absolute and arbitrary control of virtually the entire economic system of the country, but, what is particularly indefensible, it would lodge solely in him the discretion to determine when and whether there is any disagreement between the administration and any "plant or facility," a phrase which covers about every phase of business or industry extant.

As Mr. Willkie so vehemently says, this is a "stupendous, a startling and staggering proposition" for time of peace; and, as he also declares, it contains the prime elements of "potential dictatorship," tending to "socialize" or "sovietize" American enterprise. But it is just another of the many steps the New Dealers have taken toward the regimentation of the nation.

Contrast Is Presented By Our Labor Day

THERE WAS FINE SENTIMENT in dedicating a holiday to be called Labor day. All right-thinking people always have respected labor.

This year, particularly, Americans are challenged by the contrast of the lot of the worker in this country with that of workers in many other countries. To be faced with constant uncertainty, to go to work each morning under the threat that before night a bomb may descend upon the factory or to live like a slave under the heel of the conqueror must be distressing conditions.

In this frame of mind, a great many workers in this country will be disposed to make this Labor day a day of thanksgiving also. In spite of the fact that times are not so good as might be desired, that many have lacked employment, the fact remains that the American wage earner has a degree of freedom hardly known in other lands.

Such is the condition for the present. On this Labor day, at least, the worker may take his day off, go where he pleases and celebrate as he likes.

A New Season Having Elements of Charm

INTERESTED OBSERVERS of the changing seasons have almost of one accord during years been impressed by the generally improved performance given by autumn. In fact, there is a disposition to give the season a somewhat higher rating than has been granted spring, whose traditional delights have not been measuring up to expectations.

Spring this year was attended by disappointments. It was not distinguished by that gradual transformation from winter to summer that has awakened the lyre of the poet throughout the ages and also has inspired pleasant emotions in the heart of the most prosaic.

Autumn is now a much more reliable and pleasant season, as it is hoped September will prove to the satisfaction of all. Summer lingers and is welcome, but at the same time there is a suggestion of change. The outdoors holds all of its customary allurement while at the same time the comforts of home become a little more appealing.

September, which marks the beginning of a season which is not without its sombre aspects, has its own elements of charm and they are strikingly manifest at present. It is the hope of all citizens, young and old, that the autumn which it inaugurates will compare favorably with those of other years and that it will be prolonged to within easy reaching distance of the Christmas holidays.

Negroes Are Deserting The Roosevelt Camp

HISTORY has recorded that Roosevelt won the negro vote in the North, which had long been a Republican asset, by means of the successful exploitation of his political nostrums among them. But it appears that the negroes are reaching the conclusion that in following Roosevelt for one thing were chasing a will-o'-the-wisp and that for another thing they were used merely as selfish political pawns.

Evidence of this change of heart is marked by the switch of the Pittsburgh Courier, a weekly newspaper devoted to the interests of the negro race and circulated over a wide area, from Roosevelt to support of Willkie.

"For some time," states its editor, Robert Vann, one of the most influential men of the colored race, in a recent issue of the paper, "we have had our doubts about the sincerity of Mr. Franklin Delano Roosevelt with respect to some of his declarations, his preachments, his stated philosophies and even some of his promises."

After reviewing the career of the president through two terms, Vann declares that Roosevelt has changed radically.

"We supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1932," the Courier editorial states. "We supported him with less enthusiasm in 1936, but as we said in the beginning of this article, he is a far different man today from what he was in 1932 and 1936. And because of his changes and because of the subtle way he has shifted his position toward the American people and because of his willingness to frighten 130,000,000 people into believing this country is going to be at war by Christmas if he is not elected; because of this type of deception and because of his refusal to say a word in behalf of the 13,000,000 negroes in the United States during his seven years in the White House we cannot suuport him in 1940."

"In short we are not leaving Mr. Roosevelt. He has left us. In view of the foregoing and in view of the courageous and all-American statement made by Mr. Wendell Willkie at Elwood, Ind., last Saturday, the Courier states boldly that it will support Mr. Willkie for the presidency of the United States this year of our Lord 1940."

The position taken by Robert Vann cannot but have its influence on the swing of negroes back to the Republican fold. There is a firm conviction the backward swing will be in full force this campaign. They, like their champion, Mr. Vann, have lost their faith in Mr. Roosevelt.

These Are America Of the Future

"HEIGH-HO, heigh-ho,
It's back to school we go—"

This week youngsters will be sprinting along well-beaten paths to their respective institutions, chanting, in effect, the above ditty. They'll be cheerful and gay, as only unencumbered youth can be. With sights set high, they will march forward, along the free, open road to individual achievement. They are taking the American way.

For quite a sizeable number it will be their first experience with chalk, blackboards and teachers. Others, more experienced, look forward with varying emotions to another season of fun or hardship, according to the way they look upon things. None will seem greatly depressed.

From now until next summer, the thousands of pupils will take their accepted places in the halls of learning. They will attempt to master the business of reading, writing and arithmetic. They will learn how to spell, to trace the course of rivers, to experiment with the mysteries of science. They are the America of the future.

A Good Source Of Copy Gone

THE DUC DE GUISE is dead, and he will be missed by editorial writers in America. The Duc, as he was familiarly dubbed a thousand times, was always good for a snappy, if not always respectful, paragraph to even up a column.

The Duc was a bearded gentleman who lived in Morocco because he persisted in pretending that he was King of France and the French, under the Third Republic, didn't wish to be annoyed. The Duc issued proclamations and the like at regular intervals, and these were always received gleefully by the American press.

The Duc left a male offspring, 32-year-old Henri de Guise, Prince d'Orleans and Comte de Paris, who now takes up where his old man left off as claimant to the French "throne", and three daughters who are married to a miscellaneous assortment of royalty.

Well, goodbye, Duc. Though you did not achieve your main ambition, you got your name in the papers.

The war, says an editorial, already has added a great many new words to the dictionary. But we wouldn't swap one word for all of them—and that's "peace."

Britons are doing their best to prove that he who takes up the bombing plane will perish by the bombing plane.

Certain congressmen, exercising their congressional immunity, have indulged in some unseemly spectacles by calling somebody a fifth columnist, when they didn't like what he said or did. When a word degenerates into an epithet, it is time to assay it carefully and use it warily. I would vote to swear off entirely on the use of the expression "fifth column." We have several substitute forty-four calibre words which we have long known how to use with more accuracy, fairness and effect.

Just Tyranny

Totalitarianism is another bugaboo word which isn't good for anything in particular except to scare people. You can figure it seven ways from the jack and it means tyranny and nothing else, as do fascism, naziism and communism. I believe that if all such new words could be boiled down to their net content of meaning, or else booted out, there would be a great improvement in our national morale. Hob-goblin words ride the tempest like the Valkyries and we will have a better chance to keep our mind on our work—which is saving this country—if we see them and understand them as the ghost words which they are. There's scripture for that—"Let your speech be Yea, Yea and Nay, Nay."

Johnson Recalled

Old Sam Johnson was a man of parts, but a good city editor would have batted his ears back. Taking a round-house swing at a literary rival, Sam wrote about the latter's essay, "It lacks the wit to keep it sweet." That didn't look so good, so Sam went to work on it. It finally came out, "It is wanting in sufficient savour to preserve it from putrefaction." This "materiel" gag made me thing of that. Snap out of it boys.—Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOME FROM THE SEVEN YEARS HUNTING TRIP

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—The heart of the conscription bill, as passed by the Senate August 28, is this: Every male "between the ages 21 and 31" is required to register. The number thus registered "shall be liable for training and service in the land and naval forces of the United States." Out of the total twelve million registered and liable, up to 900,000, about one out of thirteen, will be selected. These 900,000 will actually be "inducted into the land or naval forces (including aviation units) of the United States."

Mark Sullivan

The bill (with some variations from the Senate version) goes now before the House. The House consideration is expected to consume a week to ten days. If the Houses passes the bill, there will be conference between committees of House and Senate, to adjust differences between the two versions. Thereafter comes final action by the two bodies, on the agreed-upon measure. The concluding step is action by the president, who undoubtedly would sign the bill.

All this is on the assumption the House passes the bill. If the House does not pass it, conscription will be "out."

Debate Very Thorough

The debate in the Senate—it consumed fourteen days—has been followed by the writer of this column. By "followed" I mean that every page of the record has been scanned much of it read carefully. The debate included many extracts from testimony of army offficers and others, given before the Senate Military Affairs committee—some of the extracts used by advocates of the bill, to prove their argument; others by opponents to prove their side. The debate was very thorough, and was of high quality. It was in the judgment of this writer, the American form of government—that is, government by representatives, democratically chosen-functioning admirably; functioning as well as any American Congress ever functioned, as well as any parliamentary body ever functioned anywhere.

This judgment is emphasized, just because it runs counter to much that has been printed and said. This judgment is important because the very existence of government by Congress or other parliamentary body is in peril everywhere—in country after country, parliamentary government is succumbing to one man government, thoughtless, sometimes subtly and malevolently intended — imperils the existence, of the constitution functioning, of our own representative government, feeds the tendency toward dictatorship.

Universal Tendency

Every generation criticizes its current Congress, says that Congress has degenerated points nostalgically to Congresses of the past—points to Webster, Clay, Calhoun, and asks why have we none like them now. There is an Irish proverb, "far-away cattle have long horns." So do long-ago Senators have great minds. We accept the elevation of a Webster, because we meet him in a $3 book of history; we miss the elevation of a present Senator because we see him in the headlines of a three-cent newspaper. This is a universal human tendency. Antony and Cleopatra is an exalted drama, because we meet it in classic literature and history. But every newspaper-reader and radio-listener has witnessed, in our own time, a drama analogous in interest, and as much greater in proportion as the British Empire is broader than Rome—the abdiction of a British king to marry a young woman from Baltimore.

My own impression is that the average of any one Senate is about as high as the average of any other. Any group of men, such as the Senate, is like a whisthand or a deck of cards. It contains a certain number of aces and kings—and a certain number of two-spots and trays, together with a complement of fives, sixes, nines and so on. In history, the aces survive, the mediocre are forgotten. But for each Webster and Clay, there were corresponding two-spots.

Though the two-spots lose out in history, they strut conspicuosly in contemporary print. In the public accounts of the Senate debate on conscription, more attention was paid to about three two-spots, than to some of the aces and other high cards. If there is fault here, the fault is not in the Senate but in imperfect sense of value on the part of newspapers and commentators. We should not let this obscure our judgment about the supreme value of representative government, and the especial present need to cherish and preserve it.

Groups of men, such as Congresses, average about the same. What sometimes seems differences in Congresses may be due to difference in the presidents, who bring pressure upon them, or whom Congresses tend to support. Individual presidents, like all other individuals, differ greatly. In other countries, dictators differ greatly. Government by a succession of dictators, over a series of years, is likely to be the worst possible government. Government by representatives, by groups, is better.

Change Needed, Editor Declares

South Dakota Paper Deserts New Deal

The Sioux City, Ia., Tribune, edited by Eugene Kelly, exerts wide influence in the Northwest as an independent Democratic newspaper. It supported Woodrow Wilson, Al Smith, and Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936. It now opposes Roosevelt, and in the subjoined editorial, reproduced in part, gives its reasons for supporting Wendell Willkie.

"A new element has crept into the situation this year," it says. "The party that 'drafted' Roosevelt in 1940 is not the same party that nominated Roosevelt in 1932 and in 1936. Nor is Roosevelt the same man that he was when he ran for the presidency in 1932.

"Around Mr. Roosevelt there has grown up—largely with his aid and approval—a sinister, self-seeking, undemocratic horde of office-holders whose primary interest in life is to retain their jobs and the power that goes with their jobs.

"When Mr. Roosevelt employed these elements to engineer the so-called 'draft' and he did just that by killing off all rival candidates, dictated to them what they should do and how and when it should be done, forced them to select Wallace as his running mate on a threat that he would not run at all if they did not, this newspaper's faith in Mr. Roosevelt fled. • • •

"The Tribune knows, as every person who has read history knows, that the manner in which the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt was accomplished is identical with the tactics employed by men of all ages who have risen to places of dictatorial power. The same methods were used in Athens and in Rome centuries ago. Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin rose to power and maintain themselves in power by the very same methods.

"Such processes are inimical to the cause of democracy and subversive of good government.

"Much as The Tribune admires the good works of Franklin D. Roosevelt—and we shall be eternally grateful to him for what he accomplished in his first term—realism and regard for the eternal verities compels us to part company with him and the motely crew that now surrounds him. • • •

"Wendell L. Willkie is a real American who has fought his way from obscurity to the top in the best American tradition.

"The Republican convention in Phidelphia produced the best agricultural plank that has ever been written by any party of any time. Its pronouncements on other matters as well as foreign policy are sound and thoroughly American. • • •

"We believe that if the United States shall avoid the fate of other nations, which have cast aside the principles of popular government and embraced those of totalitarians, a change in administration is absolutely essential."

Johnson Scores Dirty Politics On Social Gains

Hugh Johnson

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—It seems to be a part of Democratic campaign strategy to assure labor that, no matter what may come in this war situation, workers will lose none of the "social advances" of the past few years. It is also a part of extreme New Deal strategy to tell labor that the Republican party intends to use war crisis that may come to deprive labor of all its hard-gotten gains.

This is pretty dirty politics. Labor day is as good a time as any to talk about it. As a matter of cold fact, the discussion is probably academic. The greatest gain that labor could have would be full and continuous employment at good wages and much increased income.

If we get into full war effort and industrial mobilization, the thing that happened in 1918 is very likely to happen again. There will be such a demand for labor and especially the skilled variety that is represented in most of the unions that labor will enjoy a boom.

Boom Carries Risks

There is a great danger there. Labor itself should hope that it will not be the kind of boom that happened in early 1918. Then employers working on helter-skelter cost-plus-a-profit contracts didn't care what their output was costing this country. They took no risk. Production was all that counted with them. So they went out and bid up the wages of labor—sometimes to fantastic figures that could not possibly be maintained in a peacetime economy.

This reckless process, perhaps more than any other, was responsible for an almost vertical, inflationary rise in the cost of everything. Not merely war industries but normal peacetime production was caught in the reckless upward spiral. The cost of living rose faster than the wages of labor. The process from first to last increased the general average of prices in the United States to 213 per cent.

Produced Stagnation

It resulted in a terrific post-war stagnation of production and employment, then in a further little flurry of price inflation in post-war financing, and finally in the collapse of 1921 and the beginning of the real unemployment problem in America.

There isn't a factor on either side in this political contest that has any idea of de-humanizing the social legislation that began with the elimination of child labor, the regulation of minimum wages and maximum hours, and the fight for the rights of collective bargaining and independent labor representation in N.R.A.

But if any politician attempts to tell any American that, if we are dragged into this war, it isn't going to mean harder work, greater sacrifice, heavier burdens and less real income to enjoy—that American had better turn his back, or perhaps better, kick the orator in the shins.

Sacrifice General

If we are so foolish as to become involved, it is going to mean exactly that for every mother's son and daughter of us. It will mean much worse than that for the men who have to fight. Any man who escapes that duty and perhaps that death will blush at any politician's suggestion that he could be spared any sacrifice whatever.

Every American is entitled to equality and fairness in the distribution of duties and the sharing of sacrifice. He is entitled to nothing else whatever unless we are prepared to go down the road that led France to the dump heap.

All the contrary kind of political buncombe is a deliberate incitation to class hatred, suspicion and national disunity, and no man who indulges it is fit for leadership of this nation under war or threat of war.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Rural Growth Marked in Ohio

From The Parkersburg, W. Va., Sentinel

Our neighboring state of Ohio will have a population of close to seven million souls when the 1940 census is completed, according to an estimate made by the bureau based on complete returns from seventy-two of the state's eighty-eight counties. That estimate gives a population of 6,921,000. Thus it is evident that the Buckeye state is about three and one half times as large as West Virginia from a population standpoint. Ohio's growth during the past decade has not been large, about a quarter of a million.

Ohio is pretty fairly developed in every way although there is no question that the state would be able to support a much larger population if industry and even agriculture were developed to the highest degree that it would be practical for them to be expanded.

All but two of the counties thus far tabulated, Hancock and Hardin, showed gains in population. That is a pretty good indication that the growth of the state is general and not limited to a few industrial communities. It is interesting too to note that Ohio's gains have been in the rural areas, suburbs and villages. It looks like it might be an exodus from the metropolitan centers to the wide open spaces.

Puppy Love and Violin Lessons, and an Old Man Who Had a Way of Reading the Stars.

By ROBERT A. SENSER

I hoped that Mike wouldn't see Pat and Aileen walking down the street hand in hand, and I tried to divert his attention by picking up my violin case. But the wise old Irish janitor was nobody's fool. He had noticed my concerned glance out of the class-room window, and he looked out too. It frightened me that Mike wasn't a bit surprised —as if this wasn't the first time he had seen my girl walking home from school with that guy McCarthy.

"Martin, me lad, go to your violin lesson," he told me, and pointed at my fiddle case, which I held idly in my left hand. Then he walked slowly to the other side of the room to get a broom. "Better it is to drown yourself in music than in worry."

I didn't care for any violin lesson. I wanted to talk to philosophical old Mike about Aileen. I wanted to tell him that people with names like Aileen Brady and Pat McCarthy ought to stick together, but for gosh sakes they certainly ought to give a guy named Martin Schultz a chance.

"You want a little more confidence, me lad," Mike said from the other side of the room. He had a lot of work to do, so he turned and left me.

Confidence, yes—he had told me about that many times before. But I felt disappointment now, for I wanted to talk to Mike about something very important.

You see, Mike had been a tradition at Newport High school years and years before. The sage Irish janitor knew every student in the school, frequently better than many of them knew themselves. About seven or eight years ago a student had misplaced the senior class prophecy on class day, and, everybody else being too excited, Mike ghosted a new one for them. He did such a good job that the next class asked him to write theirs for them—and now it was his annual assignment, which he handled gladly.

Mike had a remarkable record chalked up for himself—especially in the matter of marriage. Of the five marital guesses he made in the first prophecy, four came out the way he had written.

So you can see why Mike's prediction sounded important to me. Backed by Mike's word that Aileen and I would be one, why this fellow McCarthy wouldn't be any obstackle at all. It'd give me the confidence I needed.

But I never did get myself to tell Mike how I felt about it. I hoped he knew. Now I am sure he did.

I was selected to read the class prophecy. Let me tell you I was plenty scared—even before the day itself.

As I sat on the stage all dolled up in cap and gown for the big occasion, I clutched the white sheets of the prophecy in my hand. One of the teachers had typed out Mike's scribbling. I wasn't supposed to read it ahead of time, and I didn't, much as I was tempted to.

Suddenly I heard everyone applauding and saw the class president look at me as if she had just finished introducing me. I got up shakily and started reading in the same manner.

"Nobody graduating here from Newport is going to take a back seat any place." I glanced up to make the thing sound impressive, and noticed Mike smiling a little as he sat off on the side of the auditorium. It was so quiet I could almost hear everybody listening.

I began with the individuals then. One bright girl was probably going to become head of a bookkeeping department. One husky fellow with a rich voice, after playing college football, would most likely turn to sportscasting. There were more predictions like that, many of them expected, some of them startling.

Then I bumped into my name. "Martin Schultz——" I took a breath, "Martin Schultz, even with his bashfulness, won't be just scratching fiddles a decade from now. The whole musical world will know his name."

I felt my face grow hot suddenly, and a few girls in the back of the hall giggled. But I cleared my throat and continued.

Two or three names later I came to Pat McCarthy. It only said that Pat, assistant editor of the school paper, might end up writing short stories or novels. It didn't mention anything about the poem I knew he had written about Aileen.

I raced through the list pretty fast, I think. About two thirds through I saw the name I had been looking for. "Aileen Brady——" I took a deep breath, hoping I would not flush—"will probably be the pretty inspiration of a young man doing big things in the writing field."

I don't know if I hesitated very long. At least I don't remember very clearly reading the rest. Something had grabbed me in the stomach as Mike's meaning became clearer and clearer. He meant McCarthy, of course. Everything seemed to tumble. I was jinxed.

They applauded when I was finished, I am sure, but I didn't hear them. All that rang in my ear was Mike's prophecy about Aileen.

All at once, though, I got a new thought that seemed to tense all my muscles. I felt that the whole thing was crazy. Aileen was too swell a girl to lose just for a silly class prophecy. It was stupid of me to place so much stock in a few words written by Mike.

McCarthy or no McCarthy, prophecy or no prophecy, I made up my mind then and there. "Inspiration of a young man . . . in the writing field," the year-book repeated. Phooey!

It was a busy day at the oaffice. At 6 the telephone on my desk rang. It was my wife. "If you want us to get to that reunion on time, Marty, you'd better hurry up."

Yes, I knew. We'd talked about it hundreds of times. But she was a patient soul, so I asked again: "Darling, will you read our part of the class prophecy to me again."

I could see Aileen's smiling face at the other end of the wire as I stared happily at the sign on my office door which read, "Martin Schultz, music editor.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Physician Tells Why Children Are Afraid of Storms

Says Shock of Thunder Causes Child To Be Frightened

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Among children, particularly in rural places, there are needless dreadful fears in connection with electric storms. It's the shock of thunder that frightens the younger child, or the enxiety in his presence of his parent or older children.

If you yourself have fears during an electric storm, work first on yourself. Avoid standing in a draft in the house, or leaning against the walls of a chimney. It will increase your safety and feeling of security to wear rubbers or sit in these rubbers in a chair with each leg of a chair in a drinking glass, to insulate you. When out-of-doors, stay away from a tree or wire fence during an electric storm. The safest place is in an automobile, except during a severe wind storm.

You can help yourself or another person by watching a receding storm, especially at twilight or night, enjoying the beautiful play of lightning, and listening to the distant rumbling of thunder.

Fears Subside

In case your child, say of three or four, is awakened by a thunder clap at night, go to him. Induce him to look out the window, being ready to see the trees, fence, or automobiles during each flash, a very fascinating experience for this child. The greater his interest in such matters the more his fears will subside. By day, it is good to read to the young child from his favorite book during an electric storm, or talk to him of things that capture his attention. Despite your own strong fears, you can, by exercising enough effort, avoid betraying them in the child's presence.

This same principle is employed by British mothers during air raids over England. When the warning sirens sound, the young children are taught to scamper to cover under ground, clutching Mickey Mouse gas masks and singing, "Here we go down the steps again," to the tune of a familiar nursery song. Also the children are trained to clap their hanrs in "The Big Bang Game," so as to drown out the sound of the bursting bombs. For several million of these little children the sound of the bomber above them in a signal for several minutes or hours of entertainment. I hope such plans for little children are in practice in all parts of the warring world, that moreover, the young children are read to during long periods of such tenseness and during blackouts.

A grandmother once wrote me from Montana that she employed the same principle during an earthquake to calm two children, three and four, by shouting to them, "Watch the jumping, sliding sugar bowl!"

You may have a list of books for reading to the baby and young child; also a list of my pamphlets, one of which is on fears, by writing me at 234 East 45th Street, N. Y. City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My baby, two years old, hurts the dog by hitting him and pulling his tail and ears.

A. For each and every offense immediately give the baby physical pain, preferably a sound shacking on the bare bottom. Praise her heartily when she treats the dog kindly. Otherwise get rid of the dog. Nothing can do a little child much more harm than to have a pet he continues to mistreat.

McCarthy or no McCarthy, prophecy or no prophecy, I made up my mind then and there. "Inspiration of a young man . . . in the writing field," the year-book repeated. Phooey!

It was a busy day at the oaffice. At 6 the telephone on my desk rang. It was my wife. "If you want us to get to that reunion on time, Marty, you'd better hurry up."

Yes, I knew. We'd talked about it hundreds of times. But she was a patient soul, so I asked again: "Darling, will you read our part of the class prophecy to me again."

I could see Aileen's smiling face at the other end of the wire as I stared happily at the sign on my office door which read, "Martin Schultz, music editor.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Physician Tells Why Children Are Afraid of Storms

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Among children, particularly in rural places, there are needless dreadful fears in connection with electric storms. It's the shock of thunder that frightens the younger child, or the enxiety in his presence of his parent or older children.

If you yourself have fears during an electric storm, work first on yourself. Avoid standing in a draft in the house, or leaning against the walls of a chimney. It will increase your safety and feeling of security to wear rubbers or sit in these rubbers in a chair with each leg of a chair in a drinking glass, to insulate you. When out-of-doors, stay away from a tree or wire fence during an electric storm. The safest place is in an automobile, except during a severe wind storm.

You can help yourself or another person by watching a receding storm, especially at twilight or night, enjoying the beautiful play of lightning, and listening to the distant rumbling of thunder.

Fears Subside

In case your child, say of three or four, is awakened by a thunder clap at night, go to him. Induce him to look out the window, being ready to see the trees, fence, or automobiles during each flash, a very fascinating experience for this child. The greater his interest in such matters the more his fears will subside. By day, it is good to read to the young child from his favorite book during an electric storm, or talk to him of things that capture his attention. Despite your own strong fears, you can, by exercising enough effort, avoid betraying them in the child's presence.

This same principle is employed by British mothers during air raids over England. When the warning sirens sound, the young children are taught to scamper to cover under ground, clutching Mickey Mouse gas masks and singing, "Here we go down the steps again," to the tune of a familiar nursery song. Also the children are trained to clap their hanrs in "The Big Bang Game," so as to drown out the sound of the bursting bombs. For several million of these little children the sound of the bomber above them in a signal for several minutes or hours of entertainment. I hope such plans for little children are in practice in all parts of the warring world, that moreover, the young children are read to during long periods of such tenseness and during blackouts.

A grandmother once wrote me from Montana that she employed the same principle during an earthquake to calm two children, three and four, by shouting to them, "Watch the jumping, sliding sugar bowl!"

You may have a list of books for reading to the baby and young child; also a list of my pamphlets, one of which is on fears, by writing me at 234 East 45th Street, N. Y. City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My baby, two years old, hurts the dog by hitting him and pulling his tail and ears.

A. For each and every offense immediately give the baby physical pain, preferably a sound shacking on the bare bottom. Praise her heartily when she treats the dog kindly. Otherwise get rid of the dog. Nothing can do a little child much more harm than to have a pet he continues to mistreat.

Miss Elizabeth Baron and Dr. Saville Weisman Married by Bride's Father

Miss Elizabeth Frances Baron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Baron, was married yesterday afternoon to Dr. Saville Gabriel Weisman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Weisman, of New York city.

The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the brides parents, 555 Greene street, with the bride's father officiating.

Miss Baron chose to have a very simple wedding without any attendants and was attired in brown with brown accessories and carried tiger lillies.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany high school here and Mt. Sinai Hospital School of Nursing, New York City.

Dr. Weisman graduated from Harvard College, and New York University Medical school.

The living and dining rooms were elaborately decorated for the ceremony and a seven course dinner, prepared by Mrs. Chaffie Brickman, of the Coffee Spring Farm, Somerset, Pa., was served.

After a wedding trip east Dr. and Mrs. Weisman will reside at 119 West 106th street, New York city.

Golden Wedding Is Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Blume, 320 Bedford street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary yesterday. A family dinner was served at noon at the Golden Gate Tea Room, South Centre street, and a reception was held at the home from 3 to 9 o'clock.

The following children participated in the celebration: Lambert Blume, Frank Blume and Samuel Blume, of Cumberland; Mrs. May Beal, Ellerslie; Miss Ruth Blume, Elsworth Blume, of Bedford, Pa.; Mrs. Elizabeth Smiley, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Helen Hendrickson, of Frederick and Walton Blume, of Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Blume were married September 4, 1890, in Bedford. Mrs. Blume was Miss Emma Naus of Bedford. Mr. Blume is a native of Frederick county, Md., and is a former Western Maryland Railway employe.

Plans Made for Fall

The Executive Board of the Woman's Association of the First Presbyterian church, Washington street, have resumed the fall meetings.

At the meeting Wednesday at the church house it was decided to have the first association meeting tomorrow, instead of today. Plans were discussed for the Presbyterian Young Peoples District meeting to be held September the twenty-eighth, at the Frostburg Presbyterian church, and it was decided to have Miss Susan Schock, of the Ashville Farm School, Ashville, N. C. as guest speaker.

Miss Schock will present the work of the Presbyterian church among the Southern mountaineers. She will also appear before the Woman's Association September 30, in the lecture hall, Washington street.

General plans for fall and winter were also outlined.

BEFORE THE BLITZKRIEG

by RUPERT GRAYSON

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Returning from a nerve-wracking assignment, Gun Cotton, famous Scotland Yard agent, goes to Sleichtner's Egyptian Ray-Baths, where he becomes interested in a mysterious stranger named Pullinger, who is wearing a tattooed Egyptian symbol. Pullinger is met by a beautiful flame-haired girl at the swimming pool in the baths. Gun calls another agent, Coffin Prescott, to trail Pullinger. The agent sees Pullinger meet a flame-haired girl and trails them in a taxi.

X listened without comment but with close attention.

CHAPTER NINE

BESIDE Angel road, Brixton Prescott found that another road branched off from it. He looked at his watch and made a brief calculation, and then strolled some distance along the second one.

When the other taxi pulled up at almost the precise spot where he had paid his own off, and Pullinger and the girl got out, Prescott was strolling down the road toward them, his eyes on the ground, apparently lost in thought.

They walked briskly along Angel road, evidently with a definite destination in their mind. Prescott wondered what it was, but admitted later that he would never have guessed.

He had to move briskly to keep them well in sight, but he still managed to look unobtrusive and aimless.

They turned up a side street, and Prescott was compelled to quicken his pace, in case of accidents. It was as well he did so, for he arrived at the corner just in time to see them disappear into a house on the left.

Prescott immediately dropped his pace to a saunter again, and as he drew level with the place they had entered, he found, with some surprise, that it was a monumental mason's. He grinned to himself. That was about the last place on earth to which he would have imagined that these two young people, so full of life and health themselves, would have been making for. Perhaps that was why, he reflected.

It was a high-class, artistic, tombstone shop, he decided. Two private houses had been knocked into one, the lower windows wire screened, with the name on one, and "Office—Inquiries (Estimates Free)" on the other.

The two front gardens, now one, were occupied by a number of specimens of the firm's art—rough granite crosses; smooth and polished marble ones; oblong marble borders, filled with what looked rather like pieces of lump sugar; a rather impossible stone angel, bearing in its hand a scrip: "In Ever Loving Memory of . . ."

What the devil, Prescot' wondered, were that pair doing in a place like this? Unless, of course, it was a blind, the business. Still, it had all the appearance of having been there a long time, and a board over the front door read: "Established 1888."

An adjacent corner provided a good strategic position for watching the mason's, and Prescott took up his position there. Then he discovered he had run out of cigarets, and cursed with silent fluency. He was an inveterate cigaret smoker, and lost without one.

He had to wait some time, too. His watch recorded that they remained in that rather grim place for a full 20 minutes. He played with the idea of going inside on some excuse and having a look around. But he couldn't think of a good excuse—not requiring a tombstone at the moment—and also decided that he had better not bring himself to the notice of the two. All the same, he would like to have known what was going on inside there—and so, he bet, would Gun Cotton.

When they emerged at the end of the 20 minutes, Prescott noticed that the girl looked slightly worried, and the man angry and scowling. Apparently, whatever the subject of their interview with the monumental mason, it had not gone altogether well.

They walked rapidly back the way they had come, with Prescott sticking doggedly to their trail, back into the High road, and turned in the direction of Kennington.

A little way down, they crossed from the right to the left-hand side, and Prescott did the same thing. He was still inwardly cursing, with great vigor, because he had no cigarets.

And then he saw his chance!

The girl called Pullinger's attention to something in a shop window, and they paused to look. Prescott, pausing also, found himself outside a small tobacconist's. He took a quick glance up and down the road—no taxi in sight, and that meant he would have time. He had a sixpenny piece in his pocket, and drew it out, still watching the other two. They seemed to be arguing, there was time.

Prescott went and asked for his cigarets. The shopkeeper handed them, and Prescott, extending his hand with the sixpense between his fingers, accidentally knocked it against a fitting and dropped the sixpence on the floor.

"Sorry!" ejaculated Prescott.

"All right, sir. I'll find it."

The shopkeeper began to come around the counter, but Prescott said hastily:

"Don't worry—here, take this. I'm in a hurry!"

He tossed a florin, his only other coin in loose change, on to the counter, and almost ran out of the shop.

Outside he met with a shock!

The pair were no longer looking into the window, nor were they anywhere in sight.

"Hell!" gasped Prescott. Then: "What a damn fool I am. Of course they've gone into the shop."

He walked down to it, and got a still worse shock. The interior of the shop was plainly visible, and there were only two people in it—the girl behind the counter and an old lady customer.

At fault, Prescott stared up and down the road. Not a sign of the pair anywhere—and they couldn't have walked, or even run, out of sight in that time. Also there still was no taxi in sight, and he was prepared to swear that none had passed the shop. Only a tram, going in the opposite direction, and they would have had to cross the road to get it.

There were three adjacent turnings on that side. They must have gone down one of those. Prescott almost ran to the first one. It was a long, straight street, and not a soul to be seen in it. The next one was similar, but with two small boys, a single old gentleman, and a dog visible. But the third curved sharply only a few yards down, and Prescott, in something as near a panic as he was ever likely to attain, ran down it.

It twisted and turned in the most annoying manner, and he had to go quite a distance before he realized that once more he was on the wrong trail.

He stood and mopped his brow, and there dawned upon him the humiliating realization that he, Coffin Prescott, the expert trailer, had lost his quarry in the most idiotic way possible.

It was over an hour after his previous call before Gun was ushered into X's sanctum, and was greeted with a keen, curious glance.

"I didn't expect you back so soon. Take a chair, won't you?"

Gun sat down.

"Cigaret?"

"Thanks!"

"Well, what's on your mind? Anything happened?"

"I don't think so—yet," answered Gun. "But soon, I believe; that's why I've come to see you."

"Apropos of . . . ?"

"Well, the point is, are you at all interested in foreigners—or rather A foreigner—a special one of my own—who got into this country somehow without a passport?"

"Ah!" said X. His face was, as always, enigmatic, but his eyes quite plainly showed that he WAS interested.

"So you've happened onto something?"

"Yes!"

"Tell me about it."

Gun recounted the events of the morning, up to the fragments of conversation over the telephone which he had overheard, and X listened without comment, but with close attention.

"Yes," he remarked, when Gun paused. "As a matter of fact, that DOES interest me, very much! What have you done about it?"

"I realized that, actually, this might not be up our street at all, and should in the ordinary way be a matter for the Special Branch at the Yard. But, somehow, I thought that you might be interested. I managed to get Prescott on the telephone, and put him on the job of trailing the man, while I came along to see you."

Miss Elizabeth Baron and Dr. Saville Weisman Married by Bride's Father

Miss Elizabeth Frances Baron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Baron, was married yesterday afternoon to Dr. Saville Gabriel Weisman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Weisman, of New York city.

The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the brides parents, 555 Greene street, with the bride's father officiating.

Miss Baron chose to have a very simple wedding without any attendants and was attired in brown with brown accessories and carried tiger lillies.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany high school here and Mt. Sinai Hospital School of Nursing, New York City.

Dr. Weisman graduated from Harvard College, and New York University Medical school.

The living and dining rooms were elaborately decorated for the ceremony and a seven course dinner, prepared by Mrs. Chaffie Brickman, of the Coffee Spring Farm, Somerset, Pa., was served.

After a wedding trip east Dr. and Mrs. Weisman will reside at 119 West 106th street, New York city.

Golden Wedding Is Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Blume, 320 Bedford street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary yesterday. A family dinner was served at noon at the Golden Gate Tea Room, South Centre street, and a reception was held at the home from 3 to 9 o'clock.

The following children participated in the celebration: Lambert Blume, Frank Blume and Samuel Blume, of Cumberland; Mrs. May Beal, Ellersile; Miss Ruth Blume, Elsworth Blume, of Bedford, Pa.; Mrs. Elizabeth Smiley, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Helen Hendrickson, of Frederick and Walton Blume, of Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Blume were married September 4, 1890, in Bedford. Mrs. Blume was Miss Emma Naus of Bedford. Mr. Blume is a native of Frederick county, Md., and is a former Western Maryland Railway employe.

Plans Made for Fall

The Executive Board of the Woman's Association of the First Presbyterian church, Washington street, have resumed the fall meetings.

At the meeting Wednesday at the church house it was decided to have the first association meeting tomorrow, instead of today. Plans were discussed for the Presbyterian Young Peoples District meeting to be held September the twenty-eighth, at the Frostburg Presbyterian church, and it was decided to have Miss Susan Schock, of the Ashville Farm School, Ashville, N. C. as guest speaker.

Miss Schock will present the work of the Presbyterian church among the Southern mountaineers. She will also appear before the Woman's Association September 30, in the lecture hall, Washington street.

General plans for fall and winter were also outlined.

BEFORE THE BLITZKRIEG

by RUPERT GRAYSON

READ THIS FIRST:

Returning from a nerve-wracking assignment, Gun Cotton, famous Scotland Yard agent, goes to Sleichtner's Egyptian Ray-Baths, where he becomes interested in a mysterious stranger named Pullinger, who is wearing a tattooed Egyptian symbol. Pullinger is met by a beautiful flame-haired girl at the swimming pool in the baths. Gun calls another agent, Coffin Prescott, to trail Pullinger. The agent sees Pullinger meet a flame-haired girl and trails them in a taxi.

X listened without comment but with close attention.

CHAPTER NINE

BESIDE Angel road, Brixton Prescott found that another road branched off from it. He looked at his watch and made a brief calculation, and then strolled some distance along the second one.

When the other taxi pulled up at almost the precise spot where he had paid his own off, and Pullinger and the girl got out, Prescott was strolling down the road toward them, his eyes on the ground, apparently lost in thought.

They walked briskly along Angel road, evidently with a definite destination in their mind. Prescott wondered what it was, but admitted later that he would never have guessed.

He had to move briskly to keep them well in sight, but he still managed to look unobtrusive and aimless.

They turned up a side street, and Prescott was compelled to quicken his pace, in case of accidents. It was as well he did so, for he arrived at the corner just in time to see them disappear into a house on the left.

Prescott immediately dropped his pace to a saunter again, and as he drew level with the place they had entered, he found, with some surprise, that it was a monumental mason's. He grinned to himself. That was about the last place on earth to which he would have imagined that these two young people, so full of life and health themselves, would have been making for. Perhaps that was why, he reflected.

It was a high-class, artistic, tombstone shop, he decided. Two private houses had been knocked into one, the lower windows wire screened, with the name on one, and "Office—Inquiries (Estimates Free)" on the other.

The two front gardens, now one, were occupied by a number of specimens of the firm's art—rough granite crosses; smooth and polished marble ones; oblong marble borders, filled with what looked rather like pieces of lump sugar; a rather impossible stone angel, bearing in its hand a scrip: "In Ever Loving Memory of . . ."

What the devil, Prescot' wondered, were that pair doing in a place like this? Unless, of course, it was a blind, the business. Still, it had all the appearance of having been there a long time, and a board over the front door read: "Established 1888."

An adjacent corner provided a good strategic position for watching the mason's, and Prescott took up his position there. Then he discovered he had run out of cigarets, and cursed with silent fluency. He was an inveterate cigaret smoker, and lost without one.

He had to wait some time, too. His watch recorded that they remained in that rather grim place for a full 20 minutes. He played with the idea of going inside on some excuse and having a look around. But he couldn't think of a good excuse—not requiring a tombstone at the moment—and also decided that he had better not bring himself to the notice of the two. All the same, he would like to have known what was going on inside there—and so, he bet, would Gun Cotton.

When they emerged at the end of the 20 minutes, Prescott noticed that the girl looked slightly worried, and the man angry and scowling. Apparently, whatever the subject of their interview with the monumental mason, it had not gone altogether well.

They walked rapidly back the way they had come, with Prescott sticking doggedly to their trail, back into the High road, and turned in the direction of Kennington.

A little way down, they crossed from the right to the left-hand side, and Prescott did the same thing. He was still inwardly cursing, with great vigor, because he had no cigarets.

And then he saw his chance!

The girl called Pullinger's attention to something in a shop window, and they paused to look. Prescott, pausing also, found himself outside a small tobacconist's. He took a quick glance up and down the road—no taxi in sight, and that meant he would have time. He had a sixpenny piece in his pocket, and drew it out, still watching the other two. They seemed to be arguing, there was time.

Prescott went and asked for his cigarets. The shopkeeper handed them, and Prescott, extending his hand with the sixpense between his fingers, accidentally knocked it against a fitting and dropped the sixpence on the floor.

"Sorry!" ejaculated Prescott.

"All right, sir. I'll find it."

The shopkeeper began to come around the counter, but Prescott said hastily:

"Don't worry—here, take this. I'm in a hurry!"

He tossed a florin, his only other coin in loose change, on to the counter, and almost ran out of the shop.

Outside he met with a shock!

The pair were no longer looking into the window, nor were they anywhere in sight.

"Hell!" gasped Prescott. Then: "What a damn fool I am. Of course they've gone into the shop."

He walked down to it, and got a still worse shock. The interior of the shop was plainly visible, and there were only two people in it—the girl behind the counter and an old lady customer.

At fault, Prescott stared up and down the road. Not a sign of the pair anywhere—and they couldn't have walked, or even run, out of sight in that time. Also there still was no taxi in sight, and he was prepared to swear that none had passed the shop. Only a tram, going in the opposite direction, and they would have had to cross the road to get it.

There were three adjacent turnings on that side. They must have gone down one of those. Prescott almost ran to the first one. It was a long, straight street, and not a soul to be seen in it. The next one was similar, but with two small boys, a single old gentleman, and a dog visible. But the third curved sharply only a few yards down, and Prescott, in something as near a panic as he was ever likely to attain, ran down it.

It twisted and turned in the most annoying manner, and he had to go quite a distance before he realized that once more he was on the wrong trail.

He stood and mopped his brow, and there dawned upon him the humiliating realization that he, Coffin Prescott, the expert trailer, had lost his quarry in the most idiotic way possible.

It was over an hour after his previous call before Gun was ushered into X's sanctum, and was greeted with a keen, curious glance.

"I didn't expect you back so soon. Take a chair, won't you?"

Gun sat down.

"Cigaret?"

"Thanks!"

"Well, what's on your mind? Anything happened?"

"I don't think so—yet," answered Gun. "But soon, I believe; that's why I've come to see you."

"Apropos of . . . ?"

"Well, the point is, are you at all interested in foreigners—or rather A foreigner—a special one of my own—who got into this country somehow without a passport?"

"Ah!" said X. His face was, as always, enigmatic, but his eyes quite plainly showed that he WAS interested.

"So you've happened onto something?"

"Yes!"

"Tell me about it."

Gun recounted the events of the morning, up to the fragments of conversation over the telephone which he had overheard, and X listened without comment, but with close attention.

"Yes," he remarked, when Gun paused. "As a matter of fact, that DOES interest me, very much! What have you done about it?"

"I realized that, actually, this might not be up our street at all, and should in the ordinary way be a matter for the Special Branch at the Yard. But, somehow, I thought that you might be interested. I managed to get Prescott on the telephone, and put him on the job of trailing the man, while I came along to see you."

...ays Grid Sport Has De-generated into Stupid-est Sport

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I have just been sitting in on a conference between an orthopedic surgeon and a young, would-be foot-ball star. The young man is nine-teen years old and looks as husky as heavyweight champ. He has been ...ying football, but was slowed up ... something the matter with his ...ck.

The orthopedic surgeon said something like this to him: "I kon't know how much good it will do, but I am going to forbid you to play football next fall, and I don't know whether you will be able to play a year from now or not. To tell you the truth, I think you should never play football again.

"You are very typical of hundreds of young men I see. Your muscles have developed completely but your bony structure is still soft. From the outside, at a casual glance, you look fine. But actually any strain might permanently cripple you.

"I ought to know what I am talking about. I am the medical advisor to two high schools, and year after year I see the same thing. The only mistakes I make are when I get soft-hearted and am persuaded to allow some boy to play football when I really think he shouldn't. Every day in my office I see men permanently injured as a result of playing football in high school."

Football's a Punishing Game

It would be patronizing to say I agreed with this doctor. I believe football is too severe a game for anyone to play during the high school age. Last year about this time I argued to that effect in this column and I was the recipient of a sheaf of letters from football coaches telling me that I was all wet and that football had become a perfectly safe game. It was hardly two weeks later that I saw an item in the paper to the effect that a young man, in a college football team, had sustained an injury that necessitated the amputation of one leg. That doesn't sound as if they had made the game completely safe.

If fotball were even a mildly interesting game to watch any more, there might be that excuse for it. But it has now degenerated into the stupidist of outdoor games, not even excepting water polo. It's a referee's game. I saw a game of water polo once when the referee lost. He blew his whistle so much that one of the teams swarmed out of the water and beat him up. If there were any prospect of that happening in fotball I might be tempted to to to a game this season.

When Bones Are Pliable

High school football is more dangerous than college fotball in exact proportion to the difference in age of the players. With all the bones of the body still pliable at the ages of fourteen to eighteen, it is natural that permanent injury to the back and other joints may occur. No amount of protective equipment can prevent that. But another danger of high school fotball is that the players are not adequately protected, the athletic associations of high schools not being able to afford the expenditure that the more prosperous university associations can afford.

Questions and Answers

L. M. P.—"Please tell me what is the difference between Vitamin B, B1 and B2. Which is best for general building up and quick results?"

Answer—When Vitamin B was first discovered it was supposed to be one substance. It was later found to have several different ingredients with different properties. For instance, one part of the Vitamin B complex is destroyed by heat, while another one is resistant to heat. Vitamin B1 prevents development of certain forms of neuritis, while B2 prevents the appearance of the deficiency disease, pellagra. B1 is destroyed by high temperatures. Autoclaved yeast will not prevent neuritis but will prevent pellagra. Ordinary cooking temperatures probably do not destroy very much B1. Both B1 and B2 are necessary for growth and probably for what you call "general building up." Nuts, yolk of eggs, cereals, whole wheat bread, wheat germ and yeast contain both Vitamin B1 and Vitamin B2. A Vitamin B salad was given in this column last week.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 16 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, King Features Syndicate, Inc., East Forty-fifth street, New York, N. Y. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions of the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

Business at Standstill As Cumberlanders Mark Legal Holiday

Labor Day being a legal holiday in Maryland, all Cumberland business houses will be closed all day today.

Banks, federal, state, county and municipal offices and the library will remain closed over the holiday to reopen again Tuesday morning.

There will be no issue of the Cumberland News or Evening Times and no mail deliveries or window service at the post office. Letter and paper mails, however, will be distributed to postoffice boxes as usual.

Major observance of Labor Day will be in Lonaconing where the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council will hold an all-day picnic.

The annual North Branch community outing will be held at Golden's Grove, Uhl highway, three miles east of Cumberland with State Senator Robert Kimble as the principal speaker.

The Rev. A. M. Wright, of Salisbury, Pa., will be the orator for the rally of the Allegany County Christian Endeavor Union in the Salem Reformed church, Frostburg, while a picnic and dance will be held at St. Ann's church in Avilton, Garrett county, under direction of the priests of SS. Peter and Paul monastery.

A number of picnics will be held in Constitution park where the swimming pool will be open all day.

0 Students Attend the arrett Schools

Improvements to ols during Summer nonths, Rathbun Says

OAKLAND, Md., Sept. 1 — More han 4,900 elementary and high chool students will lay aside vacaions on Tuesday to return to their tudies in the Garrett county pubic schools which open for the 1940-41 term on that day. Of the 4,900 expected to be enrolled there will be among them approximately 1,200 igh school students in the six high chools of the county.

F. E. Rathbun, county superinendent, announced that during the summer many improvements had been made to school properties throughout the county. About $1,500 had been expended in painting buildings and many repairs were necesary to be made. Some school buildings had been enlarged and rooms added. The teaching staff this year totals 175 teachers, 42 of whom are high school instructors.

The children get an early holiday with the annual teachers' meeting to be held Friday, September 13. Elementary teachers in the northern unit of the county will meet at Grantsville and those in the southern unit will meet at Oakland in the elementary school building. All high school teachers will meet in the Oakland high school with James E. Spitznas, supervisor of high schools in Western Maryland, in charge.

Upon the same date Superintendent of Schools Rathbun, will attend a conference of county superintendents in Baltimore where they will discuss the recent school surveys made by a committee appointed for that purpose.

Methodist Church Group To Meet

The initial meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church, will meet at the Methodist church in Oakland on Thursday, September 5, at 2 o'clock.

The meeting climaxes the efforts of the members of the study committee who have been working for several weeks on the reorganization of the women's work of the church.

This organization was ordered by the General Conference of the Methodist church and is taking place all over Methodism. The Study Committee is composed of Rev. Minor Sprague, pastor; Mrs. G. C. Stemple, Mrs. F. E. Rathbun, Mrs. S. T. Naylor, Mrs. Joe Davis, Mrs. F. A. Thayer, Jr., and Mrs. William Naylor.

The nominating committee is composed of Mrs. F. C. White, Mrs. Ernest Liller, Mrs. Ray Jones, Mrs. Samuel Aronhalt Mrs. Jessee J. Jr., Mrs. Harold H. Harned, Mrs. Robert DeWitt, Mrs. Scott W. Shirer, Mrs. S. T. Naylor, (representing the study committee) Mrs. Paul Naylor, and Mrs. J. E. Harned.

The publicity for the charter meeting is being handled by Mrs. F. A. Trayer, Jr., of the study committee; and Mrs. Julius Littman, Mrs. Cheston M. Browning, Mrs. Melvin Kight, Mrs. Howard Naylor and Miss Susanna Porter.

All women attending this meeting have the privilege of becoming charter members, Mrs. Thayer said. Copies of the new constitution are being distributed to all women of thec hurch this week, the committee stated.

Farm Loan Association To Have Annual Meeting

Farmer-members and their wives will renew acquaintances with their friends and spend about three hours together in reviewing the activities of the Garrett County National Farm Loan association at the annual stockholders' meeting to be held on the second floor of the City Hall, Oakland, on Tuesday, September 10, at 10 a. m., Albert O. Riley, president, announced.

The operation and responsibilities of the association will be presented and discussed. Directors will be elected to the board and other business will be transacted. Invitations have been sent to representatives of various agricultural agencies. The association is hoping to make this one of the best meetings ever held, Mr. Riley said.

Red Cross Fund Report

Contributions to the Red Cross war relief fund have reached a total of $419.71 for the Garrett County Chapter, it was announced by J. M. Jarboe, treasurer. This is about 70 percent of the original quota of $600 and about thirty-five percent of the $1,200 quota assigned later. The money was raised by voluntary contributions and combined activities of organizations.

B. & O. Train Hits Car on Crossing

Howard Bodkins, Sr., Driver of Machine, Is Taken to Hospital

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 1 — A 62-year-old Maryland man was in Potomac Valley hospital here today, under treatment for injuries sustained when westbound B&O passenger train No. 11 struck his model T Ford roadster on the East street grade crossing shortly after 1 p. m. yesterday.

Howard Bodkin, Sr., who lives three miles north of Keyser on McMullen highway, near McCoole, was taken to the hospital here by city police after his auto was smashed by the engine of the passenger train. From his hospital bed Bodkin told a NEWS representative here late today that he was driving his car southward across the B&O tracks. Seeing the train bearing down on him, Bodkin said, he climbed out onto the running board of the car and jumped clear, after unsuccessfully trying to put the vehicle into reverse.

The front end of the Ford was demolished as the locomotive crashed into it, and the roadster was slammed against a crossing sign, snapping the shaft of the ten-foot high sign off at the ground. Bodkin said that he did not know whether it was the car or the sign that hit him, but that his first memory was that of lying in his hospital bed. Six stitches were taken in the Marylander's forehead, and treatment for injuries to the left leg and the right side were given him.

Hospital attaches late this evening said that the Marylander was suffering mainly from shock. His condition was not serious, they stated.

Police Arrest Four Men

William Lower, Jr., 22, Bayard, was arrested near the White Raven Inn, on Route 50, last night by State Police Trooper L. W. Kelley and Constable William Adams on charges of violating the state motor laws.

Three passengers in the car were also jailed, they were: William Lower, Senior, 45, father of the driver of the auto; Rosco Renn, 35, and James Rodeheaver, 24.

Miller Reunion To Hear Noted Kent State Professor

Alvin J. Miller To Speak on Paganism of Hitler's Nazis

GRANTSVILLE, Sept. 1 — Prof. Alvin J. Miller, Kent, O., will be the principal speaker on the program at the annual Miller reunion to be held in the Hershberger Grove Monday. His topic will be, "The Paganism of the Nazis That Has Been Used to Displace Christianity in Central Europe."

Mr. Miller, who is a member of the faculty at Kent State University has spent many months in Europe, particularly Germany, and is well versed in his subject.

Since rain spoiled the day last year and forced the cancellation of the program arranged for the occasion, it was decided to use the same program this year. In the event of rain this year the affair will be held at the C. C. C. Camp near West Salisbury.

Farmer Rakes Up Old Gold Piece

While cutting and raking away some weeds in his potato field yesterday, Daniel Klotz spied a small, bright shining object among the grass and loose earth he raked up. He picked it up and found it to be a one dollar gold piece bearing the date 1851. The coin was as bright as new and Mr. Klotz thought perhaps it might have been unearthed when the field was last plowed. Now he is hoping when he digs his potato crop the field will yield something else besides the tubers he planted there.

Grantsville Firemen Douse Blazing Auto

The Grantsville Fire Department was summoned about midnight last night when an automobile caught fire on the Grantsville-Jennings Road, near here. The car, a Plymouth coupe, was owned and driven by Mr. T. G. Pippin, an inspector for the Bristol, Tenn, Lumber company. He and Elmer Snyder, Jennings, were the only occupants and fortunately both escaped injury.

The cause of the fire was not determined. The first intimation they had of it was a large puff of smoke which suddenly arose in front of them. The prompt response of the fire company enabled them to save the car from being totally destroyed, but the interior was badly damaged.

"Alien Influences in U. S. Must Be Curbed", Says Ex-Governor Cornwell

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 1 (AP) —John J. Cornwell, war-time governor of West Virginia, declared tonight not only must alien influences in the country be curbed but faith "in the American way of living must be preserved and strengthened.

"While there are those who believed the Atlantic Ocean is still wide enough to protect us from direct assault," he told delegates to the state convention of the American Legion at a memorial service, "we can not ignore the danger that exists through possible revolutions in and European alliances of countries on the Western hemisphere.

"We must prepare for such eventualities.

"We would be blind indeed if we did not realize that should England be unable to survive we would have to fight for our continued existence, fight economically if we are prepared, physically if we are unprepared.

"Maybe we will have to fight physically no matter how well prepared we may be."

Fifth Columnists Active

Cornwell declared that "in some places and in many instances more official attention has been given to protecting agitators in their American right to say what they want to say than in considering the destructive influence of their language and acts."

"Make no mistake," he added, "they are still among us. They have not changed their spots, these leopards of revolutionary thought and philosophies. They are but lurking in the shadows until the glare of publicity has faded out or until we are involved in war when they will stab our country in the back."

Preparedness Was Frustrated

The former governor, recalling the Legion's campaign for preparedness, said it was frustrated by a great host of sincere, conscientious persons and also by alien groups, hiding behind sham peace movements.

The convention will continue for two more days.

St. Patrick's High To Add One Grade

Senior Grade Will Be Available Next Year, Father Eagen Says

MT. SAVAGE, Sept. 1 — The Rev. Francis J. Egan announced today that another year will be added to the high school department of St. Patrick's school this year, making it a three year high school. Next year, Father Egan stated, the fourth year will be added, affording a complete high school course.

Steps are already being taken to have the school accredited with the State Board of Education. With the proposed elimination of the Mt. Savage high school the establishment of a parochial high school will be especially beneficial to those students who formerly transferred from the two year Catholic high to the local public school.

This will be the first complete Catholic high school established in the community. The first Catholic elementary school, under the jurisdiction of a religious order was established in 1895. The Ursuline Sisters of Louisville, Kentucky, taught in this school. In 1899 these nuns were called to their motherhouse and in 1900 a new school was built.

This school is the present brick building and with its erection the two year high school course was added. This school was put under the supervision of the School Sisters of Notre Dame and has remained in the hands of this order.

Early in the nineteenth century there was a Catholic school taught by lay people under the sponsorship of St. Patrick's church. Classes were taught in the old hall which was located in back of the church.

Farm Supervisors Are Appointed

The Agriculture Conservation Association appointed six men as farm supervisors on the Agricultural Conservation Program for 1940. The supervisors were required to attend a one day training school, August 12, at Parsons. At that time they were given sample farms in the county to check. This was followed on August 19, by a written examination. The schols were conducted by B. L. Brookover and Clyde Buzzard.

John L. Kee, principal clerk announces that the following men were approved by the county and state committees, and will start to work Sept. 2. Hillard Adams — St. George, R. 2; Charlton N. Harman —Davis, R. 1; Richard Hull—Leadmine, R 1; C. F. Phillips — Montrose, R. 3; Lester Raines — Red Creek.

Program of Talks By Union Heads To Be Feature

Popularity Contest, Dance and Athletic Events Also Planned

LONACONING, Sept. 1 — Western Maryland Industrial Union Council will celebrate the observance of Labor Day here tomorrow, when all-day festivities will be held in the Lonaconing baseball park, Detmold district. A parade, speaking program, ball game, athletic event, popularity contest and dance have all been scheduled for the enjoyment of those attending.

I. Duke Avnet, labor attorney, Baltimore and Cumberland, will deliver the main adress at the ball park at 11 a. m. Other prominent speakers will also be heard, including James B. Collings, president of the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council, and James Dundon, president of the Celanese local 1874, who will also preside.

At 4 p. m., the speech of John L. Lewis, President of the Congress of Industrial Organization will be heard. All other events will cease for the duration of the broadcast, which will be heard over the Blue network of the National Broadcasting company and carried by station WTBO Cumberland. The speech will be for a half hour.

To Stage Big Parade

One of the longest parades to have ever been routed over the streets of this city will start at 9:30 a. m., at the Lonaconing Ice Plant, State street. The line of march will then proceed to East Main, to Main, to West Main, and disband at the Lonaconing Baseball Park, where all activities of the day are scheduled.

It is expected that hundreds of C. I. O. unions in this section will take part in the parade, which will be headed by a large representation from the Celanese local. Seventy-six merchants and other business concerns in the county will display floats in the parade, and the line of march will also include bands from Barton, Piedmont, Keyser, Westernport, Frostburg and the Lonaconing City Band. An estimate time of two hours or more has been made for the parade to pass any given spot along the line of march.

With members of the unions, their families and visitor's, tomorrow's crowds will probably reach over several thousand. Besides the Celanese local, the United Mine Workers, United Rubber Workers, brick and clay workers, steel, building trades, laundry and other workers will help to swell the crowd which will be present.

Prizes of $25, $15, $10 and have been offered the three best bands, while a prize of $25 will be paid for the best float in line of march.

Variety of Events

A variety of events have been scheduled for the day besides the parade and speeches.

At 3 p. m. the baseball teams of Local 1874 and the United Mine Workers of Pierce, W. Va., will play for the union championship. The Celanese local defeated the Pierce team in a previous game and the rivalry is keen between the two and other attractions will follow

B. & O. Train Hits Car on Crossing

Howard Bodkins, Sr., Driver of Machine, Is Taken to Hospital

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 1 — A 62-year-old Maryland man was in Potomac Valley hospital here today, under treatment for injuries sustained when westbound B&O passenger train No. 11 struck his model T Ford roadster on the East street grade crossing shortly after 1 p. m. yesterday.

Howard Bodkin, Sr., who lives three miles north of Keyser on McMullen highway, near McCoole, was taken to the hospital here by city police after his auto was smashed by the engine of the passenger train. From his hospital bed Bodkin told a NEWS representative here late today that he was driving his car southward across the B&O tracks. Seeing the train bearing down on him, Bodkin said, he climbed out onto the running board of the car and jumped clear, after unsuccessfully trying to put the vehicle into reverse.

The front end of the Ford was demolished as the locomotive crashed into it, and the roadster was slammed against a crossing sign, snapping the shaft of the ten-foot high sign off at the ground. Bodkin said that he did not know whether it was the car or the sign that hit him, but that his first memory was that of lying in his hospital bed. Six stitches were taken in the Marylander's forehead, and treatment for injuries to the left leg and the right side were given him.

Hospital attaches late this evening said that the Marylander was suffering mainly from shock. His condition was not serious, they stated.

Miller Reunion To Hear Noted Kent State Professor

Alvin J. Miller To Speak on Paganism of Hitler's Nazis

GRANTSVILLE, Sept. 1 — Prof. Alvin J. Miller, Kent, O., will be the principal speaker on the program at the annual Miller reunion to be held in the Hershberger Grove Monday. His topic will be, "The Paganism of the Nazis That Has Been Used to Displace Christianity in Central Europe."

Mr. Miller, who is a member of the faculty at Kent State University has spent many months in Europe, particularly Germany, and is well versed in his subject.

Since rain spoiled the day last year and forced the cancellation of the program arranged for the occasion, it was decided to use the same program this year. In the event of rain this year the affair will be held at the C. C. C. Camp near West Salisbury.

Farmer Rakes Up Old Gold Piece

While cutting and raking away some weeds in his potato field yesterday, Daniel Klotz spied a small, bright shining object among the grass and loose earth he raked up. He picked it up and found it to be a one dollar gold piece bearing the date 1851. The coin was as bright as new and Mr. Klotz thought perhaps it might have been unearthed when the field was last plowed. Now he is hoping when he digs his potato crop the field will yield something else besides the tubers he planted there.

Grantsville Firemen Douse Blazing Auto

The Grantsville Fire Department was summoned about midnight last night when an automobile caught fire on the Grantsville-Jennings Road, near here. The car, a Plymouth coupe, was owned and driven by Mr. T. G. Pippin, an inspector for the Bristol, Tenn. Lumber company. He and Elmer Snyder, Jennings, were the only occupants and fortunately both escaped injury.

The cause of the fire was not determined. The first intimation they had of it was a large puff of smoke which suddenly arose in front of them. The prompt response of the fire company enabled them to save the car from being totally destroyed, but the interior was badly damaged.

"Alien Influences in U. S. Must Be Curbed", Says Ex-Governor Cornwell

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 1 (AP) —John J. Cornwell, war-time governor of West Virginia, declared tonight not only must alien influences in the country be curbed but faith "in the American way of living must be preserved and strengthened.

"While there are those who believed the Atlantic Ocean is still wide enough to protect us from direct assault," he told delegates to the state convention of the American Legion at a memorial service, "we can not ignore the danger that exists through possible revolutions in and European alliances of countries on the Western hemisphere.

"We must prepare for such eventualities.

"We would be blind indeed if we did not realize that should England be unable to survive we would have to fight for our continued existence, fight economically if we are prepared, physically if we are unprepared.

"Maybe we will have to fight physically no matter how well prepared we may be."

Fifth Columnists Active

Cornwell declared that "in some places and in many instances more official attention has been given to protecting agitators in their American right to say what they want to say than in considering the destructive influence of their language and acts."

"Make no mistake," he added, "they are still among us. They have not changed their spots, these leopards of revolutionary thought and philosophies. They are but lurking in the shadows until the glare of publicity has faded out or until we are involved in war when they will stab our country in the back."

Preparedness Was Frustrated

The former governor, recalling the Legion's campaign for preparedness, said it was frustrated by a great host of sincere, conscientious persons and also by alien groups, hiding behind sham peace movements.

The convention will continue for two more days.

St. Patrick's High To Add One Grade

Senior Grade Will Be Available Next Year, Father Eagen Says

MT. SAVAGE, Sept. 1 — The Rev. Francis J. Egan announced today that another year will be added to the high school department of St. Patrick's school this year, making it a three year high school. Next year, Father Egan stated, the fourth year will be added, affording a complete high school course.

Steps are already being taken to have the school accredited with the State Board of Education. With the proposed elimination of the Mt. Savage high school the establishment of a parochial high school will be especially beneficial to those students who formerly transferred from the two year Catholic high to the local public school.

This will be the first complete Catholic high school established in the community. The first Catholic elementary school, under the jurisdiction of a religious order was established in 1895. The Ursuline Sisters of Louisville, Kentucky, taught in this school. In 1899 these nuns were called to their motherhouse and in 1900 a new school was built.

This school is the present brick building and with its erection the two year high school course was added. This school was put under the supervision of the School Sisters of Notre Dame and has remained in the hands of this order.

Early in the nineteenth century there was a Catholic school taught by lay people under the sponsorship of St. Patrick's church. Classes were taught in the old hall which was located in back of the church.

Farm Supervisors Are Appointed

The Agriculture Conservation Association appointed six men as farm supervisors on the Agricultural Conservation Program for 1940. The supervisors were required to attend a one day training school, August 12, at Parsons. At that time they were given sample farms in the county to check. This was followed on August 19, by a written examination. The schols were conducted by B. L. Brookover and Clyde Buzzard.

John L. Kee, principal clerk announces that the following men were approved by the county and state committees, and will start to work Sept. 2. Hillard Adams — St. George, R. 2; Charlton N. Harman —Davis, R. 1; Richard Hull—Leadmine, R 1; C. F. Phillips — Montrose, R. 3; Lester Raines — Red Creek.

Program of Talks By Union Heads To Be Feature

Popularity Contest, Dance and Athletic Events Also Planned

LONACONING, Sept. 1 — Western Maryland Industrial Union Council will celebrate the observance of Labor Day here tomorrow, when all-day festivities will be held in the Lonaconing baseball park, Detmold district. A parade, speaking program, ball game, athletic event, popularity contest and dance have all been scheduled for the enjoyment of those attending.

I. Duke Avnet, labor attorney, Baltimore and Cumberland, will deliver the main adress at the ball park at 11 a. m. Other prominent speakers will also be heard, including James B. Collings, president of the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council, and James Dundon, president of the Celanese local 1874, who will also preside.

At 4 p. m., the speech of John L. Lewis, President of the Congress of Industrial Organization will be heard. All other events will cease for the duration of the broadcast, which will be heard over the Blue network of the National Broadcasting company and carried by station WTBO Cumberland. The speech will be for a half hour.

To Stage Big Parade

One of the longest parades to have ever been routed over the streets of this city will start at 9:30 a. m., at the Lonaconing Ice Plant, State street. The line of march will then proceed to East Main, to Main, to West Main, and disband at the Lonaconing Baseball Park, where all activities of the day are scheduled.

It is expected that hundreds of C. I. O. unions in this section will take part in the parade, which will be headed by a large representation from the Celanese local. Seventy-six merchants and other business concerns in the county will display floats in the parade, and the line of march will also include bands from Barton, Piedmont, Keyser, Westernport, Frostburg and the Lonaconing City Band. An estimate time of two hours or more has been made for the parade to pass any given spot along the line of march.

With members of the unions, their families and visitor's, tomorrow's crowds will probably reach over several thousand. Besides the Celanese local, the United Mine Workers, United Rubber Workers, brick and clay workers, steel, building trades, laundry and other workers will help to swell the crowd which will be present.

Prizes of $25, $15, $10 and have been offered the three best bands, while a prize of $25 will be paid for the best float in line of march.

Variety of Events

A variety of events have been scheduled for the day besides the parade and speeches.

At 3 p. m. the baseball teams of Local 1874 and the United Mine Workers of Pierce, W. Va., will play for the union championship. The Celanese local defeated the Pierce team in a previous game and the rivalry is keen between the two and other attractions will follow

PROCLAMATION OF THE GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND PROPOSING AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE

WHEREAS, at the January session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1939, the following Acts were passed, providing for the submission of said amendments to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection:

Chapter 40—proposing an amendment to Section 17 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part 2—Court of Appeals," providing for appointment by the Court of Appeals of the Clerk of said Court;

Chapter 163 — proposing an amendment to Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, adding thereto two new sections, to be numbered 41-A and 41-B under a new sub-title "Part V-A—People's Courts," and to follow immediately after Section 41 of said Article, providing for the establishment of People's Courts;

Chapter 200 — proposing to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title Part III—Circuit Courts," of the Constitution of this State, providing for an additional Judge in the Seventh Judicial Circuit of Maryland;

Chapter 247 — proposing an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the period that the General Assembly may continue its session and the compensation of the members thereof;

Chapter 371 — proposing to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts," of the Constitution of this State, providing for the residential qualification and method of selection of Associate Judges in the Third Judicial Circuit;

Chapter 381 — proposing an amendment to Section 1, Article II, title "Executive Department," of the State Constitution, to provide that a Governor shall not be eligible to succeed himself for the term directly following that for which he was elected;

Chapter 771 — proposing an amendment to Article III of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, adding thereto one new section, to be numbered 35A and to follow immediately after Section 35 of said Article, providing that nothing in the Constitution shall exempt the salary or compensation of any judge or other public officer from the imposition of a nondiscriminatory tax upon income; in words and figures as follows:

CHAPTER 40

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 17 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part 2—Court of Appeals," providing for appointment by the Court of Appeals of the Clerk of said Court, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 17 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part 2—Court of Appeals," and to follow immediately after Section 16 of said Article, as a new section thereto, to be numbered 17, which, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 17 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

17. There shall be a Clerk of the Court of Appeals, who, after the expiration of the current term of the present incumbent, shall be appointed by and shall hold his office at the pleasure of said Court of Appeals.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That said aforegoing section, hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State, shall be submitted at the next general election to be held in this State in the year 1940, submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment" as now prescribed by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment, as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution.

Approved: March 10, 1939.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, adding thereto two new sections, to be numbered 41-A and 41-B under a new sub-title "Part V-A—People's Courts," and to follow immediately after Section 41 of said Article, providing for the establishment of People's Courts; and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following two new sections, to be numbered 41-A and 41-B under the new sub-title "Part V-A—People's Courts," and to follow immediately after Section 41 of said Article, be and the same are hereby proposed as an amendment to Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, the same, if adopted by the legal and qualified voters of the State as herein provided, to become a part of said Article IV of said Constitution and to be numbered and sub-titled as aforesaid:

PART V-A—PEOPLE'S COURTS.

41-A. There is hereby created a People's Court of Baltimore City. Said Court shall consist originally of a Chief Judge and two Associate Judges; the number of such Judges may thereafter be increased or decreased by the General Assembly by law but no such decrease shall affect the term of any Judge then in office or his right to stand for election for further terms as hereinafter provided. The Judges of said Court shall have the qualifications prescribed by Section 2 of this Article and shall have practiced law in the City of Baltimore for a total period of at least five years; shall hold office subject to the provisions of Sections 3 and 4 of this Article with regard to retirement and removal from office; and shall receive from the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City such compensation as shall be fixed by law by the General Assembly, which shall not be diminished during continuance in office.

The Governor shall appoint to said Court, to take office on the first Monday of May, 1941, one Associate Judge for a term expiring December 31, 1942; one Associate Judge for a term expiring December 31, 1944, and a Chief Judge for a term expiring December 31, 1946; and, upon the creation of any additional office on said Court by increase in the number of Judges pursuant to this Section, shall appoint an Associate Judge for such term, not exceeding eight years and expiring on the thirty-first day of December immediately following a Congressional election, as the law creating such office shall prescribe. If any vacancy occurs during any such original term, the Governor shall appoint a successor to serve for the remainder of such term. After the expiration of said original terms, the terms of office of said Court shall be for eight years from the expiration of the preceding term, and shall be filled as follows:

(1) Any incumbent Judge of said Court shall be eligible, at the Congressional election immediately preceding the expiration of his period of appointment or term, for election or re-election to succeed himself (a) for a full term of eight years, except as provided in (b) hereof; or (b) for the unexpired remainder of the current eight year term, if his appointment will expire before the end of such term. No person other than an incumbent Judge shall be eligible for election to said Court.

(2) Whenever a vacancy shall occur on said Court from any cause the Governor shall appoint to said Court a Judge who shall hold office under such appointment until the thirty-first day of December immediately following the first Congressional election occurring six months or more after the date of his appointment. No Judge of said Court, who has stood for election to succeed himself and not been elected, shall thereafter be appointed to said Court, and no Judge of said Court, who has failed to stand for election when eligible, shall be appointed to succeed himself.

(3) In order to qualify for election or re-election an incumbent Judge shall file with the Supervisors of Elections of Baltimore City not later than thirty days before the date of the applicable election a certificate signed and duly acknowledged, stating the basis of his eligibility and the term or remainder of term for which he is eligible for election. Thereupon, the name of such Judge, together with a statement of the term or remainder of term for which he is eligible, shall be placed upon the ballot to be used in said City in such election, with no party designation whatever and with no opposing candidate, with space provided to permit any voter to cast his vote for or against the continuance in office of such Judge; if the votes cast for the continuance in office of such Judge represent a majority of all the votes cast for or against his continuance in office, such Judge shall hold office for the unexpired remainder of the term or for the full term of eight years, as the case may be.

Unless his office shall have been abolished pursuant to this Section, each Judge of said Court shall continue to hold office after the expiration of his period of appointment or term until a successor shall qualify. As used in this Section, "Congressional election" means any of the biennial elections at which members of the House of Representatives are regularly chosen.

Said Court shall have such jurisdiction (which may be made exclusive as to any class or classes of civil cases in Baltimore City), with such right of appeal, therefrom, and the Chief Judge and Associate Judges thereof shall have such powers and duties, as the General Assembly shall prescribe from time to time by law. The Judges of said Court shall have full power to regulate by rules the administration, procedure and practice of said Court; such rules shall have the force of law until rescinded, changed or modified by said Judges or the General Assembly. Unless otherwise provided by law, (1) all powers granted by this Section or by law to said Court or the Judges thereof as a body may be exercised by a majority of the Judges thereof, and (2) said Court shall not be a Court of Record.

There shall be a Chief Constable of said Court, who shall perform therein the duties prescribed for Clerks of Court by Section 10 of this Article and such other duties as shall be prescribed by law or by rule of said Court. Such Chief Constable shall be appointed, in the manner hereinafter prescribed, by the Judges of said Court; and such Chief Constable shall appoint, in the manner hereinafter prescribed, all original, subsequent and additional constables and clerks employed pursuant to this Section and shall supervise and direct the work of all such constables and clerks. There shall be appointed originally fourteen such constables and sixteen such clerks; the number of either may, on the joint recommendation of said Court and said Chief Constable be increased by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City; no vacancy in the position of any constable or clerk, however arising, shall be filled by said Chief Constable unless the Judges of said Court and said Chief Constable shall expressly find that the filling of such vacancy is necessary for the efficient operation of said Court. The positions of said Chief Constable and of all such constables and clerks shall be positions in the Classified City Service of Baltimore and the provisions of the Charter of said City with respect to said City Service are hereby by this Section made applicable thereto, provided that the Chief Constable at the time this amendment becomes effective shall continue and remain in said position and immediately become a member of said Classified City Service of Baltimore; all such positions shall be classified by the City Service Commission and all appointments, promotions, transfers, reinstatements, and removals with respect to such positions shall be made only in accordance with the provisions, rules and regulations of said Classified City Service in force from time to time. Such Chief Constable and all of such other constables and all such clerks shall receive from the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City such compensation as said Mayor and City Council shall prescribe; such constables and clerks shall perform such duties as may now or hereafter be prescribed by law or rule of Court.

After adoption of this Section no constable shall be appointed by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City pursuant to Section 42 or Section 43 of this Article IV, but constables in office upon the adoption of this Section shall hold office for the remainder of their terms, and the constables first appointed under this Section shall take office at the expiration of such terms.

(4) The General Assembly shall have power by law to establish a People's Court in any county, or any part thereof, incorporated city or town in this State, except Baltimore City, and to prescribe and from time to time to alter (1) the number, qualifications, tenure, and method of selection of the Judges of any such Court, and their powers, duties and compensation, except that the term of office or compensation of any Judge shall not be reduced during his continuance in office; (2) the jurisdiction of any such Court (which may be made exclusive as to any class or classes of civil cases in such county or any part thereof, city or town) and the right of appeal therefrom; (3) the number, qualifications, tenure, method of selection, duties, and compensation of all constables, clerks or other employees for such Court; and (4) all other matters relating to such Court. After adoption of this Section the Governor shall not be required to appoint any particular number of Justices of the Peace in any county or in any of the several election districts of the counties as now provided in Section 42 of the Constitution.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the aforegoing sections hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the election to be held in November, 1940, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of the State of Maryland and at the said General Election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot and upon each ballot there shall be printed the following synopsis of said amendment captioned as follows:

"CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PROVIDING FOR PEOPLE'S COURTS"

"This amendment provides for establishing People's Court in this State by adding two new sections numbered 41-A and 41-B to Article IV of the Constitution. The first section (41-A) establishes a People's Court for Baltimore City and regulates or provides for regulating all matters relating to the Court, the Judges of the Court and the Constables and Clerks. The second section (41-B) authorizes the General Assembly to establish a People's Court in any other county, incorporated city or town of this State and to provide for all matters relating to said Court and the Judges, Constables, Clerks and Employees of said Court"; and below said synopsis shall be printed the words "For People's Courts Amendment," and "Against People's Courts Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article Fourteen.

Approved: March 10, 1939.

AN ACT to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts" of the Constitution of this State, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two houses concurring, that the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts" of the Constitution of this State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section 21 of said Article 4.

21. For each of the said circuits, excepting the eighth, the second, the third (and) the sixth and the seventh, there shall be a chief judge and two associate judges, to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be selected or appointed as herein provided, and for the second circuit, the third circuit, (and) the sixth circuit, and the seventh circuit, there shall be a chief judge and three associate judges to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be elected or appointed as herein provided. And no two of said associate judges, except the third and sixth and seventh circuits shall at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed reside in the same county. If two or more persons shall be candidates for associate judge in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth and seventh circuits, that one only in said county shall be declared elected who has the highest number of votes in the circuit. In case any two candidates for associate judge in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth and seventh circuits, residing in the same county shall have an equal number of votes greater than any other candidates for associate judge in the circuit, it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for one associate judge; but the person residing in any other county of the circuit and who has the highest number of votes in the circuit, in

WHEREAS, at the January session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1939, the following Acts were passed, providing for the submission of said amendments to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection:

Chapter 40—proposing an amendment to Section 17 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part 2—Court of Appeals," providing for appointment by the Court of Appeals of the Clerk of said Court;

Chapter 163 — proposing an amendment to Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, adding thereto two new sections, to be numbered 41-A and 41-B under a new sub-title "Part V-A—People's Courts," and to follow immediately after Section 41 of said Article, providing for the establishment of People's Courts;

Chapter 200 — proposing to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title Part III—Circuit Courts," of the Constitution of this State, providing for an additional Judge in the Seventh Judicial Circuit of Maryland;

Chapter 247 — proposing an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the period that the General Assembly may continue its session and the compensation of the members thereof;

Chapter 371 — proposing to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts," of the Constitution of this State, providing for the residential qualification and method of selection of Associate Judges in the Third Judicial Circuit;

Chapter 381 — proposing an amendment to Section 1, Article II, title "Executive Department," of the State Constitution, to provide that a Governor shall not be eligible to succeed himself for the term directly following that for which he was elected;

Chapter 771 — proposing an amendment to Article III of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, adding thereto one new section, to be numbered 35A and to follow immediately after Section 35 of said Article, providing that nothing in the Constitution shall exempt the salary or compensation of any judge or other public officer from the imposition of a nondiscriminatory tax upon income; in words and figures as follows:

CHAPTER 40

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 17 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part 2—Court of Appeals," providing for appointment by the Court of Appeals of the Clerk of said Court, and providing for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 17 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part 2—Court of Appeals," the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 17 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

17. There shall be a Clerk of the Court of Appeals, who after the expiration of the current term of the present incumbent, shall be appointed by and shall hold his office at the pleasure of said Court of Appeals.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That said aforegoing section, hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State, shall be, at the next general election to be held in this State in the year 1940, submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article Fourteen.

Approved: March 10, 1939.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, adding thereto two new sections, to be numbered 41-A and 41-B under a new sub-title "Part V-A—People's Courts," and to follow immediately after Section 41 of said Article, providing for the establishment of People's Courts; and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following two new sections, to be numbered 41-A and 41-B under the new sub-title "Part V-A—People's Courts," and to follow immediately after Section 41 of said Article, be and the same are hereby proposed as an amendment to Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, the same, if adopted by the legal and qualified voters of the State as herein provided, to become a part of said Article IV of said Constitution and to be numbered and sub-titled as aforesaid:

PART V-A—PEOPLE'S COURTS.

41-A. There is hereby created a People's Court of Baltimore City. Said Court shall consist originally of a Chief Judge and two Associate Judges; the number of such Judges may thereafter be increased or decreased by the General Assembly by law but no such decrease shall affect the term of any Judge then in office or his right to stand for election for further terms as hereinafter provided. The Judges of said Court shall have the qualifications prescribed by Section 2 of this Article and shall have practiced law in the City of Baltimore for a total period of at least five years, shall hold office subject to the provisions of Sections 3 and 4 of this Article with regard to retirement and removal from office; and shall receive from the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City such compensation as shall be fixed by law by the General Assembly, which shall not be diminished during continuance in office.

The Governor shall appoint to said Court, to take office on the first Monday of May, 1941, one Associate Judge for a term expiring December 31, 1942; one Associate Judge for a term expiring December 31, 1944, and a Chief Judge for a term expiring December 31, 1946; and, upon the creation of any additional office on said Court by increase in the number of Judges pursuant to this Section, shall appoint an Associate Judge for such term, not exceeding eight years and expiring on the thirty-first day of December immediately following a Congressional election, as the law creating such office shall prescribe. In any vacancy occurs during any such original term, the Governor shall appoint a successor to serve for the remainder of such term. After the expiration of said original terms, the terms of office of said Court shall be for eight years from the expiration of the preceding term, and shall be filled as follows:

(1) Any incumbent Judge of said Court shall be eligible, at the Congressional election immediately preceding the expiration of his period of appointment or term, for election or re-election to succeed himself (a) for a full term of eight years, except as provided in (b) hereof, or (b) for the unexpired remainder of the current eight year term, if his appointment will expire before the end of such term. No person other than an incumbent Judge shall be eligible for election to said Court.

(2) Whenever a vacancy shall occur on said Court from any cause the Governor shall appoint to said Court a Judge who shall hold office under such appointment until the thirty-first day of December immediately following the first Congressional election occurring six months or more after the date of his appointment. No Judge of said Court, who has stood for election to succeed himself and not been elected, shall thereafter be appointed to said Court, and no Judge of said Court, who has failed to stand for election when eligible, shall be appointed to succeed himself.

(3) In order to qualify for election or re-election an incumbent Judge shall file with the Supervisors of Elections of Baltimore City not later than thirty days before the date of the applicable election a certificate signed and duly acknowledged, stating the basis of his eligibility and the term or remainder of term for which he is eligible for election. Thereupon the name of such Judge, together with a statement of the term or remainder of term for which he is eligible, shall be placed upon the ballot to be used in said city in such election, with no party designation whatever and with no opposing candidate, with space provided to permit any voter to cast his vote for or against the continuance in office of such Judge; if the votes cast for the continuance in office of such Judge represent a majority of all the votes cast for or against his continuance in office, such Judge shall hold office for the unexpired remainder of the term or for the full term of eight years, as the case may be.

Unless his office shall have been abolished pursuant to this Section, each Judge of said Court shall continue to hold office after the expiration of his period of appointment or term until a successor shall qualify. As used in this Section, "Congressional election" means any of the biennial elections at which members of the House of Representatives are regularly chosen.

Said Court shall have such jurisdiction (which may be made exclusive as to any class or classes of civil cases in Baltimore City), with such right of appeal, therefrom, and the Chief Judge and Associate Judges thereof shall have such powers and duties as the General Assembly shall prescribe from time to time by law. The Judges of said Court shall have full power to regulate by rules the administration, procedure and practice of said Court; such rules shall have the force of law until rescinded or modified by said Judges or the General Assembly. Unless otherwise provided by law, (1) all powers granted by this Section or by law to said Court or Judges thereof as a board may be exercised by a majority of the Judges thereof, and (2) said Court shall not be a Court of Record.

There shall be a Chief Constable of said Court, who shall perform therein the duties prescribed for Clerks of Court by Section 10 of this Article and such other duties as shall be prescribed by law or by rule of said Court. Such Chief Constable shall be appointed, in the manner hereinafter prescribed, by the Judges of said Court, and such Chief Constable shall appoint, in the manner hereinafter prescribed, all original, subsequent and additional constables and clerks employed pursuant to this Section, and shall supervise and direct the work of all such constables and clerks. There shall be appointed originally fourteen such constables and sixteen such clerks, the number of either may, on the Judges' recommendation of said Court and said Chief Constable, be increased by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City; no vacancy in the position of any constable or clerk, however arising, shall be filled by said Chief Constable unless the Judges of said Court and said Chief Constable shall expressly find that the filling of such vacancy is necessary for the efficient operation of said Court. The positions of said Chief Constable and of all such constables and clerks shall be positions in the classified City Service of Baltimore and the provisions of the Charter of said City with respect to said City Service are hereby expressly made applicable thereto, provided that the Chief Constable at the time this amendment becomes effective shall continue and remain in said position and immediately become a member of said Classified City Service of Baltimore; all such positions shall be classified by the City Service Commission and all appointments, promotions, transfers, reinstatements and separations with respect to such positions shall be made only in accordance with the provisions, rules and regulations of said Classified City Service in force from time to time. Such Chief Constable and all of such other constables and all such clerks shall receive from the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City such compensation as said Mayor and City Council shall prescribe. Such constables and clerks shall perform such duties as may now or hereafter be prescribed by law or rule of Court.

After adoption of this Section no constable shall be appointed by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City pursuant to Section 42 or Section 43 of this Article IV, but constables in office upon the adoption of this Section shall hold office for the remainder of their terms, and the constables first appointed under this Section shall take office at the expiration of such terms.

41B. The General Assembly shall have power by law to establish a People's Court in any county, or any part thereof, incorporated city or town in this State, except Baltimore City, and to prescribe and from time to time to alter (1) the number, qualifications, tenure, and method of selection of the Judges of any such Court, and their powers, duties and compensation, except that the term of office or compensation of any Judge then in office shall be reduced during his continuance in office; (2) the jurisdiction of any such Court (which may be made exclusive as to any class or classes of civil cases in such county, or any part thereof, city or town) and the right of appeal therefrom; (3) the number, qualifications, tenure, method of selection, duties, and compensation of all constables, clerks or other employees for such Court; and (4) all other matters relating to such Court; but after adoption of this Section the Governor shall not be required to appoint any particular number of Justices of the Peace in any county or in any of the several election districts of the counties as now provided in Section 42 of the Constitution.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the aforegoing sections hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland, to be voted upon at the election to be held in November, 1940, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of the State of Maryland and at the said General Election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot and upon each ballot there shall be printed the following synopsis of said amendment, to-wit, as follows:

"CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PROVIDING FOR PEOPLE'S COURTS"

"This amendment provides for establishing People's Court in this State by adding two new sections numbered 41-A and 41-B to Article IV of the Constitution. The first section (41-A) establishes a People's Court for Baltimore City and regulates or provides for regulating all matters relating to the Court, the Judges of the Court and the Constables and Clerks. The second section (41-B) authorizes the General Assembly to establish a People's Court in any other county, incorporated city or town of this State and to provide for all matters relating to said Court and the Judges, Constables, Clerks and Employees of said Court"; and below said synopsis shall be printed the words "For People's Courts Amendment," and "Against People's Courts Amendment" as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article XIV of the Constitution and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article XIV.

Approved: April 26, 1939.

AN ACT to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts," of the Constitution of this State, providing for an additional Judge in the Seventh Judicial Circuit of Maryland; to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses concurring, that the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts," of the Constitution of this State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section 21 of said Article 4.

21. For each of the said circuits, excepting the eighth, the second, the third (and) the sixth and the seventh, there shall be a chief judge and two associate judges, to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be selected or appointed as herein provided, and for the second circuit, the third circuit, (and) the sixth circuit, and the seventh circuit, there shall be a chief judge and three associate judges to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be elected or appointed as herein provided. And no two of said associate judges, for any of the said circuits, except the third and sixth and seventh circuits shall, at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed, reside in the same county. If two or more persons shall be candidates for associate judge in the same county in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth and seventh circuits, that one only in said county shall be declared elected who has the highest number of votes in the circuit. In case any two candidates for associate judge in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth and seventh circuits, residing in the same county shall have an equal number of votes for the same associate judge; but the person residing in any other county of the circuit and who has the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. The said judges shall hold not less than two terms of the Circuit Court in each of the counties composing their respective circuits, at such times as are now or may hereafter be prescribed to which jurors shall be summoned; and in those counties where only two such terms are held, two other and intermediate terms, to which jurors shall not be summoned; they may alter or fix the times for holding any or all terms, until otherwise prescribed, and shall adopt rules to the end that all business not requiring the interposition of the jury shall be, as far as practicable, disposed of at said intermediate terms. One judge in each of the above circuits, including the second, the third (and) the sixth and seventh circuits, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business; and the said judges or any of them may hold special terms of their courts, whenever in their discretion the business of the several counties renders such terms necessary. The additional associate judge for the third circuit elected in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment hereto-fore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the third circuit.

The additional associate judge for the second circuit herein provided for shall be a resident of Cecil County, shall be appointed by the Governor after the expiration of six (6) months after the adoption of this amendment and shall serve until the first general election for members of the General Assembly that shall be held in said circuit subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, at which election his successor shall be elected by the qualified voters of Caroline, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, and Talbot Counties, constituting the second circuit. The judge so appointed shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit.

The additional associate judge for the sixth circuit herein provided for and elected by the qualified voters of Frederick and Montgomery Counties at the 1938 election in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment hereto-fore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the sixth circuit and his successors shall be appointed and/or elected in accordance with the constitutional provisions relating to judges. The Chief Judge may be elected from either Frederick or Montgomery Counties, but when the Chief Judge is elected from Frederick County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said county and the two remaining associate judges shall be residents of Montgomery County and when the Chief Judge is elected from Montgomery County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said Montgomery County and the remaining two associate judges residents of Frederick County. In case any candidate or candidates for associate judge at any judicial election held in the sixth judicial circuit shall receive sufficient votes to cause such candidate or candidates to be elected, but the election of such candidate or candidates would cause more associate judges than herein permitted to reside in any county of said circuit, then and in that event only that candidate or those candidates, as the case may be, residing in said county in the order of the votes received shall be declared elected whose election would provide the permitted number of associate judges from said county and the candidate or candidates, as the case may be, residing in the other county, and not similarly disqualified, who shall have the next highest number of votes in said election shall be declared elected. If, by reason of such a condition or by reason of an equal vote for two or more candidates a sufficient number of associate judges duly qualified as to residence as above set out should not be elected at any election in said sixth judicial circuit, then it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for such unfilled office or offices.

The additional associate judge for the seventh circuit herein provided for shall be appointed by the Governor immediately after the adoption of this amendment and shall serve until the first general election for members of the General Assembly that shall be held in said circuit subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, at which election his successor shall be elected by the qualified voters of Prince George's, Charles, Calvert and St. Mary's Counties. No member of the General Assembly of 1939, otherwise qualified, shall be ineligible for appointment or election as such associate judge by reason of his membership in the General Assembly. The judge so appointed shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the seventh circuit, and the judge so elected and his successors shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, hold office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation, and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the seventh circuit. No two of the associate judges for the seventh circuit shall at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed reside in the same county, except in Prince George's County, in which county two of said associate judges for the said circuit shall reside at the time of their appointment or election and during the term for which they may have been appointed or elected unless the chief judge of said circuit shall already reside in said county, in which event only one of said associate judges shall reside in Prince George's County and Prince George's County shall at all times have two resident Judges and no more, such Judges to be either the Chief Judge of the Seventh Circuit and one associate Judge or two associate Judges of said Circuit. In case any candidate or candidates for associate judge at any judicial election held in the seventh judicial circuit shall receive sufficient votes to cause such candidate or candidates to be elected, but the election of such candidate or candidates would cause more associate judges than herein permitted to reside in any county of said circuit, then and in that event only that candidate or those candidates, as the case may be, residing in said county in the order of the votes received shall be declared elected whose election would provide the permitted number of associate judges from said county and the candidate or candidates, as the case may be, residing in the other county, and not similarly disqualified, who shall have the next highest number of votes in said election shall be declared elected. If, by reason of such a condition or by reason of an equal vote for two or more candidates a sufficient number of associate judges duly qualified as to residence as above set out should not be elected at any election in said seventh judicial circuit, then it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for such unfilled office or offices.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be, at the next general election to be held in this State in the year 1940, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election, the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution.

Approved: May 11, 1939.

CHAPTER 247

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the period that the General Assembly may continue its session and the compensation of the members thereof; to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

15. The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require, for a period not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of seven hundred and fifty dollars ($750) per annum, payable quarterly, with a deduction of ten dollars per diem for each day of unexcused absence from any session; and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of two hundred and fifty ($250) dollars per annum. When the General Assembly shall be convened by Proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days, but no additional compensation other than mileage and other allowances provided by law shall be paid members of the General Assembly for Special Sessions.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next general election to be held in November, 1940, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," regulating the period that the General Assembly may continue its session and the compensation of the members thereof; to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 15 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

15. The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require, for a period not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of seven hundred and fifty dollars ($750) per annum, payable quarterly, with a deduction of ten dollars per diem for each day of unexcused absence from any session; and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of two hundred and fifty ($250) dollars per annum. When the General Assembly shall be convened by Proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days, but no additional compensation other than mileage and other allowances provided by law shall be paid members of the General Assembly for Special Sessions.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next general election to be held in November, 1940, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution.

AN ACT to amend Section 21 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts," of the Constitution of this State, providing for the residential qualification and method of selection of Associate Judges in the Third Judicial Circuit and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That (three-fifths of all members elected to each of the two Houses concurring) the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 21 of Article 4 of the Constitution of Maryland, title "Judiciary Department," sub-title "Part III—Circuit Courts," the same, if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof as herein provided, to become Section 21 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.

21. For each of the said circuits, excepting the eighth, the second, the third and the sixth, there shall be a chief judge and two associate judges, to be styled judges of the Circuit Court, to be selected or appointed as herein provided. And no two of said associate judges, for any of the said circuits, except the third and sixth circuits shall, at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed, reside in the same county. If two or more persons shall be candidates for associate judge in the same county in any of the circuits, except the third and sixth and seventh circuits, that one only in said county shall be declared elected who has the highest number of votes in the circuit. In case any two candidates for associate judge in any of the circuits, residing in the same county shall have an equal number of votes for the same associate judge; but the person residing in any other county of the circuit and who has the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. The said judges shall hold not less than two terms of the Circuit Court in each of the counties composing their respective circuits, at such times as are now or may hereafter be prescribed to which jurors shall be summoned; and in those counties where only two such terms are held, two other and intermediate terms, to which jurors shall not be summoned; they may alter or fix the times for holding any or all terms, until otherwise prescribed, and shall adopt rules to the end that all business not requiring the interposition of the jury shall be, as far as practicable, disposed of at said intermediate terms. One judge in each of the above circuits, including the second, the third and the sixth circuits, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business; and the said judges or any of them may hold special terms of their courts, whenever in their discretion the business of the several counties renders such terms necessary.

In the Third Circuit, two of said associate Judges shall at all times be bona fide residents of Baltimore County, and one of said Associate Judges of the Circuit Court be a bona fide resident of Harford county, and said Judges shall have been such residents six months prior to their appointment or election.

The additional associate judge for the second circuit herein provided for shall be a resident of Cecil County, shall be appointed by the Governor after the expiration of six (6) months after the adoption of this amendment and shall serve until the first general election for members of the General Assembly that shall be held in said circuit subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, at which election his successor shall be elected by the qualified voters of Caroline, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot Counties, constituting the second circuit. The judge so appointed shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit, and the judge so elected and his successor shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the second circuit.

The additional associate judge for the sixth circuit herein provided for and elected by the qualified voters of Frederick and Montgomery Counties at the 1938 election in accordance with the terms of the Constitutional Amendment heretofore submitted and adopted shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the sixth circuit and his successors shall be appointed and/or elected in accordance with the constitutional provisions relating to judges. The Chief Judge may be elected from either Frederick or Montgomery Counties, but when the Chief Judge is elected from Frederick County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said county and the two remaining associate judges shall be residents of Montgomery County and when the Chief Judge is elected from Montgomery County one of the associate judges shall be a resident of said Montgomery County and the remaining two associate judges residents of Frederick County. In case any candidate or candidates for associate judge at any judicial election held in the sixth judicial circuit shall receive sufficient votes to cause such candidate or candidates to be elected, but the election of such candidate or candidates would cause more associate judges than herein permitted to reside in any county of said circuit, then and in that event only that candidate or those candidates, as the case may be, residing in said county in the order of the votes received shall be declared elected whose election would provide the permitted number of associate judges from said county and the candidate or candidates, as the case may be, residing in the other county, and not similarly disqualified, who shall have the next highest number of votes in said election shall be declared elected. If, by reason of such a condition or by reason of an equal vote for two or more candidates a sufficient number of associate judges duly qualified as to residence as above set out should not be elected at any election in said sixth judicial circuit, then it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for such unfilled office or offices.

The additional associate judge for the seventh circuit herein provided for shall be appointed by the Governor immediately after the adoption of this amendment and shall serve until the first general election for members of the General Assembly that shall be held in said circuit subsequent to the adoption of this amendment, at which election his successor shall be elected by the qualified voters of Prince George's, Charles, Calvert and St. Mary's Counties. No member of the General Assembly of 1939, otherwise qualified, shall be ineligible for appointment or election as such associate judge by reason of his membership in the General Assembly. The judge so appointed shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, receive the same compensation and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the seventh circuit, and the judge so elected and his successors shall be subject to the same constitutional provisions, hold office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation, and have the same powers as are herein provided for the other associate judges in the seventh circuit. No two of the associate judges for the seventh circuit shall at the time of their election or appointment or during the term for which they may have been elected or appointed reside in the same county, except in Prince George's County, in which county two of said associate judges for the said circuit shall reside at the time of their appointment or election and during the term for which they may have been appointed or elected unless the chief judge of said circuit shall already reside in said county, in which event only one of said associate judges shall reside in Prince George's County and Prince George's County shall at all times have two resident Judges and no more, such Judges to be either the Chief Judge of the Seventh Circuit and one associate Judge or two associate Judges of said Circuit. In case any candidate or candidates for associate judge at any judicial election held in the seventh judicial circuit shall receive sufficient votes to cause such candidate or candidates to be elected, but the election of such candidate or candidates would cause more associate judges than herein permitted to reside in any county of said circuit, then and in that event only that candidate or those candidates, as the case may be, residing in said county in the order of the votes received shall be declared elected whose election would provide the permitted number of associate judges from said county and the candidate or candidates, as the case may be, residing in the other county, and not similarly disqualified, who shall have the next highest number of votes in said election shall be declared elected. If, by reason of such a condition or by reason of an equal vote for two or more candidates a sufficient number of associate judges duly qualified as to residence as above set out should not be elected at any election in said seventh judicial circuit, then it shall be the duty of the Governor to order a new election for such unfilled office or offices.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be, at the next general election to be held in this State in the year 1940, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election, the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment as directed by said Article 14 of the Constitution of this State, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article Fourteen.

Approved: April 26, 1939.

PROCLAMATION OF THE GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND PROPOSING AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE.

the administrative work of the Commission and its employees, except in the promulgation of rules and regulations wherein the Commission shall act as a body, and in the trial and determination of cases, as hereinafter provided. The other three members are hereby vested with authority to hear and determine any hearing, trial, inquiry or investigation which the Commission is authorized to hold or undertake; and any one of such other three members can preside alone at any such hearing, trial, inquiry and investigation, and every order and determination made by any one member shall be deemed to be the order or determination of the Commission. The Chairman shall only sit in the trial of cases when, in his judgment, it is necessary to expedite the trial work of the Commission.

5. The present employees of the Commission shall continue to serve in their present positions and shall retain all of their rights under Article 64A of the Annotated Code, title "Merit System." The Chairman of the Commission shall have the power to make any future appointments as are provided for in the Budget, which appointments must be made in accordance with the provisions of said Article 64A. The secretary and other assistants that may be employed shall be entitled to receive their actual necessary expenses while traveling on the business of the Commission. Such expenses shall be itemized and sworn to by the person who incurred the expense, and allowed by the Chairman of the Commission. The Chairman of the Commission shall keep and maintain its main office and such branch offices as he shall deem proper and necessary for the administration of this Article, and shall provide suitable rooms, necessary office furniture, supplies, books, periodicals and maps for the same. All necessary expenses shall be audited and paid out of the appropriation in the State Treasury provided for in this Article. The Commission shall provide itself with a seal for the authentication of its orders, awards and proceedings, upon which shall be inscribed the words "State Industrial Accident Commission, State of Maryland—Official Seal."

Each member of the Commission and each person appointed to office or employment by the Commission shall, before entering upon the duties of his office or employment, take and subscribe the constitutional oath of office.

6. The Secretary of the Commission shall keep and maintain a full and true record of all proceedings of the Commission, of all documents or papers ordered filed by the Commission or by its rules, of decisions or orders made by any member of the Commission and of all decisions or orders made by the Commission or approved and confirmed by it and ordered filed, and he shall be responsible to the Commission for the safe custody and preservation of all such documents at its office. He shall have the power to administer oaths in all parts of the State, so far as the exercise of such power is properly incident to the performance of his duty or that of the Commission. The Chairman of the Commission may designate, from time to time, one of the clerks of the office, appointed by him, to exercise the powers and duties of the Secretary during his absence.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1939.

Approved: May 11, 1939.

WHEREAS, petitions to refer the aforesaid Acts of the General Assembly to the voters of the State of Maryland, for adoption or rejection, have been filed with the Secretary of State in conformity with the provisions of Article XVI of the Constitution of Maryland, entitled "The Referendum," and the said Acts of Assembly will be so submitted to the voters at the election to be held on November 5, 1940.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, HERBERT R. O'CONOR, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, pursuant to the authority and direction contained in Section 5 (a) of Article 16 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that this Proclamation containing a full, true and correct copy of Chapters 353 and 732 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1939, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the Counties of the State where so many may be published and where not more than one may be published then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, in such manner and for such time as is provided in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND AND THE GREAT SEAL OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, DONE AT THE CITY OF ANNAPOLIS, THIS 29TH DAY OF JULY, IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD, ONE THOUSAND NINE HUNDRED AND FORTY.

Oaths Are Paraphrased In Sea Story Picture

All the mouth-filling, ear-splitting Sixteenth century oaths common to both sailors and Knights of the Bath during the raucous period when Queen Elizabeth ruled England, were imitated or paraphrased for use in the dialogue of the Warner Brothers picture, "The Sea Hawk," now showing at the New Liberty theater.

Everybody knows that neither galley-slaves nor plume-wearing nobles said, "Oh, fudge!" or "Pshaw," when annoyed and they know also that the words they probably did use would be frowned upon by the Hays office if incorporated into a motion picture. What was needed, they agreed, were words and phrases that sound hearty and yet would not actually offend the most sensitive ear.

Searching through the Warner reference library for slang terms of more than three hundred years ago, Foulk found same dandies for Director Curtiz when that excitable gentleman demanded more virile language in certain scenes.

Rough-sounding names to call one's friends or foes in 1588 or thereabouts, include 'sheep-biter," a contemptuous expression; "clodpole," meaning a blockhead; "fat chuffs," a rich miser and "knotty-pated," indicating stupidity.

Shirley Temple Film Is Offered at Strand

The story of the film by Edwin Blum and Don Ettlinger is simple enough but it is said to be set up so that it gives Shirley everything that has been withheld from her by the Fox studios during the past years when her box-office rating tumbled from No. One to No. Five.

Story of Oildom Is Told on Screen

Revealing the story of the thrilling drama of oil with a story of action and a star group that includes Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr, "Boom Town" will open at the Maryland theater Thursday.

"Boom Town" is a story of two friends who carry on through reversals and successes even when one marries the sweetheart of the other. The friendship breaks and is renewed when the unmarried friend breaks up an affair between his former sweetheart's husband and an adventuress.

Through this story run scenes of roaring gushers, flaming oil fires whipped out with TNT, blistering fist fights, a head-first dive into a street of mud to escape a rain of bullets, the hero on a bucking mule, a thrilling hold-up, a scrap between two dance hall girls and other fast sequences.

IN FEATURE FILM

Western Feature Is Presented at Embassy

The plot is another tale of the rivalry which exists between sheep ranchers and cowmen. It tells, briefly, the story of Bob Burke and the efforts he makes to ride Apache Basin of the hated and feared Halsey Gang, a band of murderous sheep men who are trying to take over all the land by their nefarious methods. They have kidnapped Tom Martin, have plotted to kill his father and have already killed and wounded numerous others when the picture opens.

It is then that Bob steps in and with the assistance of another outlaw, sympathetically portrayed, goes about cleaning up the Halsey Gang.

The supporting cast includes Claire Rochelle, Ralph Hoopes, Ted Adams, James Whitehead, Gordon Roberts, Earl Douglas, Dave O'Brien, and Reed Howes.

A new Nick Carter adventure "The Phantom Riders", opens tomorrow at the Embassy.

Also showing today and tomorrow is "Too Many Husbands" with Jean Arthur and "The Lone Wolf Meets a Lady."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Distributed by King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been going with a young man from another state for a year. We've been corresponding and he comes to see me quite often. I know I'm in love with him, and when he writes he tells me of his love, but when he visits me he never says a word about his love. He's a quiet sort of boy, 22 years old. I am 23.

I spent a week of my vacation at his home, and he was so good to me while there, even taking me back home. He has a fair job, and goes to school two evenings a week, studying to be an engineer. When he gets his diploma in six months, he expects to get a better position in an engineering plant and will advance rapidly.

What do you think of this case? Why doesn't he speak of his love, when he can write such beautiful letters?

WONDERING.

Some of the great lovers of literature have been like this young man of yours. They wrote beautiful letters, but when it came to "telling their love," they were shy and didn't seem to be able to find the necessary words with which to express themselves.

Don't try to rush this young man. He probably thinks you take his love for granted. And when the better position is forthcoming, he'll doubtless ask you to name the day. Watch your step. Don't hurry him.

Alphabetical Romance

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Just a line to tell you that one of your old-fashioned parties produced the desired results. The one that turned the trick was the "Alphabet Party," where you take a tablespoonful of alphabet noodles and a piece of cardboard and spell out the title of a romance you hope to write.

The boy friend with whom I have been keeping company for two years, and who hadn't said anything special, spelled out with his alphabet letters: "How would you like to be Mrs. B.?" I spelled back "Sure", and the ice was cracked. And now we're the happiest of the happy. Why do you think he hadn't the courage to come out and ask me point-blank before?

RELIEVED.

Delighted that the Alphabet Party worked. But when you ask me why some men are too shy to propose while they hang around a girl for years, you're paying me a tremendous compliment. I don't know, and I don't know anyone who has ever been able to answer that question. Some think like the alphabet party may jolt them out of their ironclad reserve.

I hope other girls with slow-freight suitors will take the hint.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

RUFFING OUT LOSERS

AS USUALLY taught by able instructors, the first type of hand play at a suit contract is that in which trumps are dropped and then high cards are cashed in side suits, usually setting up the long cards of some one suit and on them discarding losers in other suits. The second type is just the reverse. It avoids the early leading of trumps because they are needed to ruff out losing cards of other suits. Frequently such contracts are rendered hopeless if the declarer makes the mistake of leading trumps even once, or if the opponents open with a trump lead.

1. ♠ A 10 5 ♥ 7 ♦ A 6 4 3 2 ♣ 7 4 3 2
2. ♠ A 10 8 4 ♥ Q J 2 ♦ 8 6 4 ♣ 9 7 3
3. ♠ A 10 8 4 3 ♥ 7 5 ♦ 8 6 4 3 ♣ J 6
4. ♠ 5 4 2 ♥ 7 ♦ K Q 7 6 5 4 2 ♣ Q J

South's Hand

♠ K Q J 9 6
♥ A 6 4 3
♣ A 8 5

If the numbered hands above are dummies and South is playing 4-Spades in each case against a lead of the heart K, ruffing principles are important. With No. 1 as dummy, South can count three losers in hearts, two in clubs. But he can get rid of the heart losers by ruffing. He wins the first trick with the heart A, leads the 3 to be ruffed by the spade 5, re-enters his hand with the club A, ruffs the heart 4 with the spade 10, wins the diamond A and returns to his hand with a diamond ruff, then ruffs out the last heart with the spade A. He comes to his own hand with another ruff of a diamond, cashes his three high trumps, then gives up two club tricks, making an overtrick.

With No. 2 as dummy, it must be clear West has made an unorthodox lead of a singleton K, usually considered the height of bad bridge. South, after winning with the heart A, must drop the hostile trumps at once, take the Q and J of hearts, re-enter his hand with the club A and, unless he has had to use up all the dummy's trumps, ruff the fourth heart there, making contract.

With No. 3 as dummy, trumps mustn't be led, even once. If they are and then, when the ruffing is attempted, the opponents each time they can return a trump, there will not be enough in the dummy. South makes his contract if he leads hearts and clubs at every opportunity, to ruff out the losers.

With No. 4, if East has the club K contract can be made, ruffing one club and one heart and discarding one heart on a diamond, leaving South only three losers.

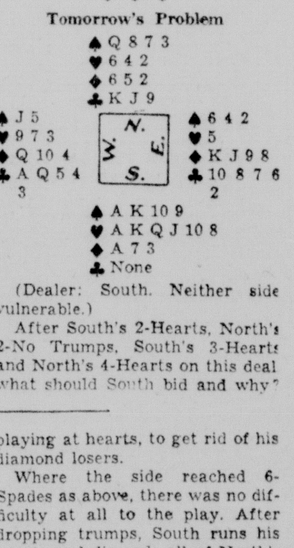
Tomorrow's Problem

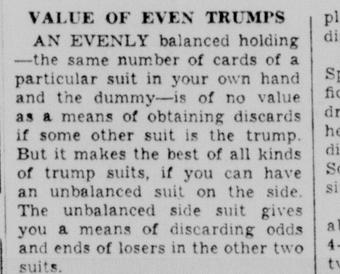


(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

After South's 2-Hearts, North's 2-No Trumps, South's 3-Hearts and North's 4-Hearts on this deal what should South bid and why?

VALUE OF EVEN TRUMPS

AN EVENLY balanced holding—the same number of cards of a particular suit in your own hand and the dummy—is of no value as a means of obtaining discards if some other suit is the trump. But it makes the best of all kinds of trump suits, if you can have an unbalanced suit on the side. The unbalanced side suit gives you a means of discarding odds and ends of losers in the other two suits.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass

That bidding went on at the only table in a duplicate where the slam was successfully negotiated, with the exception of one table where 6-Hearts was the contract and it was made because of the lucky lead of the club A. That lead enabled the declarer to ruff the A and later discard a diamond loser on the club K. But with any other lead, the contract is beaten because South has no way, when playing at hearts, to get rid of his diamond losers.

Where the side reached 6-Spades as above, there was no difficulty at all to the play. After dropping trumps, South runs his hearts and discards all of North's diamonds, then ruffs one of South's losing diamonds with the single trump remaining in dummy.

The funniest bidding went as above to a certain point. South's 4-Spades, after bidding hearts twice was meant to show his 6-4 distribution. But North thought the 4-Spades was a mere ace-showing cue-bid, so returned to hearts.

Peculiarly, if North had tried the crazy bid of 6-No Trumps, to shoot for a top, he probably would have made it, since East would have been likely to lead a club, thereby setting up the club K for the twelfth trick. The only slam made on merit strictly, however, is in spades.

the administrative work of the Commission and its employees, except in the promulgation of rules and regulations wherein the Commission shall act as a body, and in the trial and determination of cases, as hereinafter provided. The other three members are hereby vested with authority to hear and determine any hearing, trial, inquiry or investigation which the Commission is authorized to hold or undertake, and any one of such other three members can preside alone at any such hearing, trial, inquiry and investigation, and every order and determination made by any one member shall be deemed to be the order or determination of the Commission. The Chairman shall only sit in the trial of cases when, in his judgment, it is necessary to expedite the trial work of the Commission.

5. The present employees of the Commission shall continue to serve in their present positions and shall retain all of their rights under Article 64A of the Annotated Code, title "Merit System." The Chairman of the Commission shall have the power to make any future appointments as are provided for in the Budget, which appointments must be made in accordance with the provisions of said Article 64A. The secretary and other assistants that may be employed shall be entitled to receive their actual necessary expenses while traveling on the business of the Commission. Such expenses shall be itemized and sworn to by the person who incurred the expense, and allowed by the Chairman of the Commission. The Chairman of the Commission shall keep and maintain its main office and such branch offices as he shall deem proper and necessary for the administration of this Article, and shall provide suitable rooms, necessary office furniture, supplies, books, periodicals and maps for the same. All necessary expenses shall be audited and paid out of the appropriation in the State Treasury provided for in this Article. The Commission shall provide itself with a seal for the authentication of its orders, awards and proceedings, upon which shall be inscribed the words "State Industrial Accident Commission, State of Maryland—Official Seal."

Each member of the Commission and each person appointed to office or employment by the Commission shall, before entering upon the duties of his office or employment, take and subscribe the constitutional oath of office.

6. The Secretary of the Commission shall keep and maintain a full and true record of all proceedings of the Commission, of all documents or papers ordered filed by the Commission or by its rules, of decisions or orders made by any member of the Commission and of all decisions or orders made by the Commission or approved and confirmed by it and ordered filed, and he shall be responsible to the Commission for the safe custody and preservation of all such documents at its office. He shall have the power to administer oaths in all parts of the State, so far as the exercise of such power is properly incident to the performance of his duty or that of the Commission. The Chairman of the Commission may designate, from time to time, one of the clerks of the office, appointed by him, to exercise the powers and duties of the Secretary during his absence.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1939.

Approved: May 11, 1939.

WHEREAS, petitions to refer the aforesaid Acts of the General Assembly to the voters of the State of Maryland, for adoption or rejection, have been filed with the Secretary of State in conformity with the provisions of Article XVI of the Constitution of Maryland, entitled "The Referendum," and the said Acts of Assembly will be so submitted to the voters at the election to be held on November 5, 1940.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, HERBERT R. O'CONOR, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, pursuant to the authority and direction contained in Section 5 (a) of Article 16 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that this Proclamation containing a full, true and correct copy of Chapters 353 and 732 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1939, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the Counties of the State where so many may be published and where not more than one may be published then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, in such manner and for such time as is provided in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND AND THE GREAT SEAL OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, DONE AT THE CITY OF ANNAPOLIS, THIS 29TH DAY OF JULY, IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD, ONE THOUSAND NINE HUNDRED AND FORTY.

Oaths Are Paraphrased In Sea Story Picture

All the mouth-filling, ear-splitting Sixteenth century oaths common to both sailors and Knights of the Bath during the raucous period when Queen Elizabeth ruled England, were imitated or paraphrased for use in the dialogue of the Warner Brothers picture, "The Sea Hawk," now showing at the New Liberty theater.

Everybody knows that neither galley-slaves nor plume-wearing nobles said, "Oh, fudge!" or "Pshaw," when annoyed and they know also that the words they probably did use would be frowned upon by the Hays office if incorporated into a motion picture. What was needed, they agreed, were words and phrases that sound hearty and yet would not actually offend the most sensitive ear.

Searching through the Warner reference library for slang terms of more than three hundred years ago, Foulk found same dandies for Director Curtiz when that excitable gentleman demanded more virile language in certain scenes.

Rough-sounding names to call one's friends or foes in 1588 or thereabouts, include "sheep-biter," a contemptuous expression; "clodpole," meaning a blockhead; "fat chuffs," a rich miser and "knotty-pated," indicating stupidity.

Shirley Temple Film Is Offered at Strand

The story of the film by Edwin Blum and Don Ettlinger is simple enough but it is said to be set up so that it gives Shirley everything that has been withheld from her by the Fox studios during the past years when her box-office rating tumbled from No. One to No. Five.

Story of Oildom Is Told on Screen

Revealing the story of the thrilling drama of oil with a story of action and a star group that includes Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr, "Boom Town" will open at the Maryland theater Thursday.

"Boom Town" is a story of two friends who carry on through reversals and successes even when one marries the sweetheart of the other. The friendship breaks and is renewed when the unmarried friend breaks up an affair between his former sweetheart's husband and an adventuress.

Through this story run scenes of roaring gushers, flaming oil fires whipped out with TNT, blistering fist fights, a head-first dive into a street of mud to escape a rain of bullets, the hero on a bucking mule, a thrilling hold-up, a scrap between two dance hall girls and other fast sequences.

The plot is another tale of the rivalry which exists between sheep ranchers and cowmen. It tells, briefly, the story of Bob Burke and the efforts he makes to ride Apache Basin of the hated and feared Halsey Gang, a band of murderous sheep men who are trying to take over all the land by their nefarious methods. They have kidnapped Tom Martin, have plotted to kill his father and have already killed and wounded numerous others when the picture opens.

It is then that Bob steps in and with the assistance of another outlaw, sympathetically portrayed, goes about cleaning up the Halsey Gang.

The supporting cast includes Claire Rochelle, Ralph Hoopes, Ted Adams, James Whitehead, Gordon Roberts, Earl Douglas, Dave O'Brien, and Reed Howes.

A new Nick Carter adventure "The Phantom Riders", opens tomorrow at the Embassy.

Also showing today and tomorrow is "Too Many Husbands" with Jean Arthur and "The Lone Wolf Meets a Lady."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Distributed by King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been going with a young man from another state for a year. We've been corresponding and he comes to see me quite often. I know I'm in love with him, and when he writes he tells me of his love, but when he visits me he never says a word about his love. He's a quiet sort of boy, 22 years old. I am 23.

I spent a week of my vacation at his home, and he was so good to me while there, even taking me back home. He has a fair job, and goes to school two evenings a week, studying to be an engineer. When he gets his diploma in six months, he expects to get a better position in an engineering plant and will advance rapidly.

What do you think of this case? Why doesn't he speak of his love, when he can write such beautiful letters?

WONDERING.

Some of the great lovers of literature have been like this young man of yours. They wrote beautiful letters, but when it came to "telling their love," they were shy and didn't seem to be able to find the necessary words with which to express themselves.

Don't try to rush this young man. He probably thinks you take his love for granted. And when the better position is forthcoming, he'll doubtless ask you to name the day. Watch your step. Don't hurry him.

Alphabetical Romance

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Just a line to tell you that one of your old-fashioned parties produced the desired results. The one that turned the trick was the "Alphabet Party," where you take a tablespoonful of alphabet noodles and a piece of cardboard and spell out the title of a romance you hope to write.

The boy friend with whom I have been keeping company for two years, and who hadn't said anything special, spelled out with his alphabet letters: "How would you like to be Mrs. B.?" I spelled back "Sure", and the ice was cracked. And now we're the happiest of the happy. Why do you think he hadn't the courage to come out and ask me point-blank before?

RELIEVED.

Delighted that the Alphabet Party worked. But when you ask me why some men are too shy to propose while they hang around a girl for years, you're paying me a tremendous compliment. I don't know, and I don't know anyone who has ever been able to answer that question. Some think like the alphabet party may jolt them out of their ironclad reserve.

I hope other girls with slow-freight suitors will take the hint.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

RUFFING OUT LOSERS

AS USUALLY taught by able instructors, the first type of hand play at a suit contract is that in which trumps are dropped and then high cards are cashed in side suits, usually setting up the long cards of some one suit and on them discarding losers in other suits. The second type is just the reverse. It avoids the early leading of trumps because they are needed to ruff out losing cards of other suits. Frequently such contracts are rendered hopeless if the declarer makes the mistake of leading trumps even once, or if the opponents open with a trump lead.

1. ♠ A 10 5 ♥ 7 ♦ A 6 4 3 2 ♣ 7 4 3 2
2. ♠ A 10 8 4 ♥ Q J 2 ♦ 8 6 4 ♣ 9 7 3
3. ♠ A 10 8 4 3 ♥ 7 5 ♦ 8 6 4 3 ♣ J 6
4. ♠ 5 4 2 ♥ 7 ♦ K Q 7 6 5 4 2 ♣ Q J

South's Hand

♠ K Q J 9 6 ♥ A 6 4 3 ♦ 9 ♣ A 8 5

If the numbered hands above are dummies and South is playing 4-Spades in each case against a lead of the heart K, ruffing principles are important. With No. 1 as dummy, South can count three losers in hearts, two in clubs. But he can get rid of the heart losers by ruffing. He wins the first trick with the heart A, leads the 3 to be ruffed by the spade 5, re-enters his hand with the club A, ruffs the heart 4 with the spade 10, wins the diamond A and returns to his hand with a diamond ruff, then ruffs out the last heart with the spade A. He comes to his own hand with another ruff of a diamond, cashes his three high trumps, then gives up two club tricks, making an overtrick.

With No. 2 as dummy, it must be clear West has made an unorthodox lead of a singleton K, usually considered the height of bad bridge. South, after winning with the heart A, must drop the hostile trumps at once, take the Q and J of hearts, re-enter his hand with the club A and, unless he has had to use up all the dummy's trumps, ruff the fourth heart there, making contract.

With No. 3 as dummy, trumps mustn't be led, even once. If they are and then, when the ruffing is attempted, the opponents each time they can return a trump, there will not be enough in the dummy. South makes his contract if he leads hearts and clubs at every opportunity, to ruff out the losers.

With No. 4, if East has the club K contract can be made, ruffing one club and one heart and discarding one heart on a diamond, leaving South only three losers.

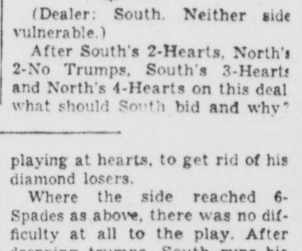
Tomorrow's Problem

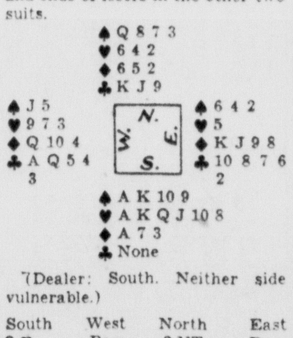


(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

After South's 2-Hearts, North's 2-No Trumps, South's 3-Hearts and North's 4-Hearts on this deal what should South bid and why?

VALUE OF EVEN TRUMPS

AN EVENLY balanced holding—the same number of cards of a particular suit in your own hand and the dummy—is of no value as a means of obtaining discards if some other suit is the trump. But it makes the best of all kinds of trump suits, if you can have an unbalanced suit on the side. The unbalanced side suit gives you a means of discarding odds and ends of losers in the other two suits.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass

That bidding went on at the only table in a duplicate where the slam was successfully negotiated, with the exception of one table where 6-Hearts was the contract and it was made because of the lucky lead of the club A. That lead enabled the declarer to ruff the A and later discard a diamond loser on the club K. But with any other lead, the contract is beaten because South has no way, when playing at hearts, to get rid of his diamond losers.

Where the side reached 6-Spades as above, there was no difficulty at all to the play. After dropping trumps, South runs his hearts and discards all of North's diamonds, then ruffs one of South's losing diamonds with the single trump remaining in dummy.

The funniest bidding went as above to a certain point. South's 4-Spades, after bidding hearts twice was meant to show his 6-4 distribution. But North thought the 4-Spades was a mere ace-showing cue-bid, so returned to hearts.

Peculiarly, if North had tried the crazy bid of 6-No Trumps, to shoot for a top, he probably would have made it, since East would have been likely to lead a club, thereby setting up the club K for the twelfth trick. The only slam made on merit strictly, however, is in spades.

Ruffing and Bonham Turn in Sterling Jobs on Mound

Rolfe's Two Run Homer and Leonard's Heave Sew Up First Game

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—The New York Yankees nudged within one game of second place in the American League today by sweeping a double-header from the Washington Senators 3 to 2 and 3 to 0 on the sterling pitching of Red Ruffing and Rookie Ernie Bonham.

It was the seventh straight victory and 13th in 14 games for the world champions, who also gained half a game on the first place Cleveland Indians to cut the margin between the clubs to 4½ games.

Ruffing bested Dutch Leonard in a pitching duel in the opener with the help of a two-run homer by Red Rolfe in the first inning and the deciding run that Charley Keller scored on a wild pitch in the third.

Bonham allowed only four hits in the nighcap and let but two men get to second.

Now Williams Wants Shorter Field in Right

As it is, Master Williams is plumb discouraged about that Boston right wall which rises up 382 feet from home plate.

"I haven't had any trouble with the Red Sox," Williams volunteered. "I just can't hit enough home runs in a home park that has the longest right-field wall in either league. I want to go some place — any place — where I'll look better."

Williams looked all right at Shibe Park yesterday. He bounced a double and triple off the 331-foot right wall, the latter scoring Doc Cramer to give the Red Sox a 5-to-4 victory over the A's.

In the National League, Williams pointed out, "they'd been home runs. In Boston they'd been only long flies."

Despite his urge to find greener and shorter pastures, Williams asserted he never hoped to be treated better than at Boston.

"Yawkey has been swell," he declared. "I haven't had any trouble with anybody. I get along with everybody on the team — ask any of the boys.

"I'm not stuck on myself. I just am looking out for me," continued the rangy twenty-one-year-old who is now belting the ball at a .345 clip. "I've hit only eighteen home runs this year. I hope to hit twenty-five before the end of the season. That's not enough by about half."

Williams believes club owners pay off for only one thing — the "best" —so:

"I want to be a great ball player —I mean greater than I am. It's only natural that I want to be the best. That's what club owners are paying their money for — they're not paying it for 'team spirit and co-operation.'"

Speaking of Jinxes--

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Dick Dore went to a baseball game at Deer Lodge five years ago. He saw a player named Paul Szakash slide into second base and break his leg.

Recently Dore went to another game at Helena. In the lineup was Paul Szakash and sure enough, he slid into second base and broke his leg.

Backers Never Remember

The horse has a better memory than the elephant, according to race trainers. The horse never forgets unkind treatment.

Connie Mack Calls Kennedy Rookie of Year

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1 (AP)—The outstanding event of the American League this year, says Connie Mack, is the rise of Robert (Bud) Kennedy, young rookie third baseman for the Chicago White Sox.

Others may marvel at the failure of the New York Yankees to be in first place, or wonder what's happened to Connie's own Athletics but the venerable Philadelphia manager prefers to discuss the Windy City youngster's feats.

Mack rates Kennedy above both Roy Mack and Lou Boudreau, great second-base combination of Cleveland. He's "the rookie of the year," said Connie, adding.

"They're both great players, but it's Kennedy for me. He's a fine fielder, can run like a deer and is a hard batter to fool. He ought to be even better next year."

Kennedy passed his nineteenth birthday less than two weeks ago and is perhaps the youngest regular with a leading team. In fifth place, the White Sox are eight and one-half games behind league-leading Cleveland.

Kennedy's batting average is better than .250 and he's around the forty mark in runs driven in. In fielding, he ranks well up in the league.

A native Chicagoan, Kennedy was picked up by a White Sox scout while playing with a junior American Legion team when he was only fifteen.

As for Mack's own team, he's a bit disappointed with their last-place spot, but believes the season will be best financially in five years.

"One thing the fans have been sure of when they came to Shibe Park," he said, "was that they'd see the Athletics put up a good fight. We haven't played one of those 23-to-2 games like the one the Yankees licked us last year and there haven't been five badly pitched games all year."

"Deacon" Parsons Is Out of Charleston Meet

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 1 (AP)—Dick McKee of Miami Beach, Fla., and Gardner Larned of Chicago, seeded first and second, swept through quarter and semi-final opposition today to set the stage for a title match between them in the first Charleston invitational tennis championships.

The 19-year-old McKee, National Public Parks champion, displayed cool precision and perfect timing as he disposed of John Harlan Lewis of Zanesville, O., 6-1, 7-5, then eliminated Landon Buchanan of Saltville, Va., seeded sixth, in the semi-finals 6-4, 6-0.

The tall, light-haired Larned closed out Relos (Deacon) Parsons of Huntington, former West Virginia State closed champion, in the quarter-finals 6-0, 6-4, and then beat Robert Smidl of River Forest, Ill., 6-4, 6-4, to cinch his place in the championship match.

In women's singles semi-finals, Ann Miller of Charleston, Kanawha County champion and seeded third, beat Eleanor Wright of Cincinnati 6-2, 6-3.

She will meet Caroline Friel, Marshall College sophomore of Huntington, who outplayed Betty B. Lee of Charleston 6-4, 6-2.

The finals for both men and women will be held tomorrow.

Indians Hop on White Sox To Win Third Straight 7-4

Three Run Rally in Ninth Responsible for Triumph

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP) — The league-leading Cleveland Indians hopped on their favorite "cousins", the Chicago White Sox today for a third straight victory, 7 to 4, combing the veteran Ted Lyons for 12 hits, including five doubles and two triples.

Joe Dobson's brilliant relief pitching and a three-run ninth inning rally were mainly responsible for the defeat of the Sox. Chicago knocked starting pitcher Al Milnar out of the box with a three-run splurge in the third inning, giving them a 4 to 1 lead. Dobson succeeded Milnar and held the Sox scoreless and yielded one hit until the last inning, when he was removed for a pinch runner.

Kahle Voted Stars' Most Valuable Player

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 1 (AP) — Voted the most valuable player for the Hollywood Baseball Club, of the Pacific Coast League, Bob Kahle, 25-year-old third baseman, from Richmond, Ind., will be tendered a trophy at the Hollywood ball park tomorrow.

Kahle, whose first organized baseball experience came with Fort Wayne, Ind., has batted over .300 for the Stars.

Hurricane Eleven To Drill Tomorrow

The Hurricane A. C. football team, Cumberland's strong negro independent outfit, will practice Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock at Community Park, Coach Glyn Davis announced Saturday.

Bimelech was the only colt in the Belmont field that wore steel shoes in 1940. The others wore aluminum.

Frostburg Legion Crew To Play in NABF Event

A squad of 17 players and Manager Enoch P. Price, who has guided the Frostburg American Legion club to first place in the Bi-State Baseball League race, will leave Thursday evening to represent Western Maryland in the National Amateur Baseball Federation championship tournament opening next Saturday, September 7, at Birmingham, Ala.

This is the fourth season in recent years that Frostburg has either won N.A.B.F. sectional tournaments or met requirements to compete in the national eliminations. Teams representing Frostburg have played in Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Washington, and on each occasion scored victories over strong contenders.

The Frostburg squad will be strengthened for the Birmingham tourney games by players from several other Bi-State League clubs, N.A.B.F. regulations permitting the addition of tossers from the same circuit.

Manager Price, who will have charge of the American Legion party, announced Saturday that his team will practice tomorrow and Wednesday evenings at 6 o'clock at Community Park, Frostburg. Arrangements for the players to meet in Keyser on Thursday evening, when the team will leave over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at 9:15 for Cincinnati, will be made at Wednesday's practice session.

The Frostburg delegation will board a special train carrying other N.A.B.F. contenders at Cincinnati for the remainder of the nearly 90-mile trip to Birmingham. Loyal fans of Frostburg are financing the journey to the deep south and Manager Price feels that this year the Mountain City's entry will make a strong bid for title honors.

"I feel certain we have the strongest club Frostburg has ever sent to this tourney," Manager Price said last night, "and will be disappointed if we don't reach the semi-finals."

The Frostburg party, in addition to Manager Price, will include William Scarpelli, Edward Drew, Daniel Drew, William "Jaggers" Drew, Frank Urbas, John "Abe" Heider, Joe McGinn, Peter Vargo, George Marble, Stanley Stetz, Joseph Geatz, Joe Carbacio, Albert Thomas, Theodore George, Phil Fleming, Ival Lambert and John Lowery.

Detroit Drops Costly Defeat to St. Louis by 8-2

Niggeling Slows Tigers' Pennant Drive with Four Hits

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 1 (AP) — Johnny Niggeling slowed up the Detroit pennant drive today by allowing the Tigers only four hits while his Brownie teammates were lacing out an even dozen safeties for an 8 to 2 victory.

It was a costly defeat for the second-place Tigers, who not only lost ground to Cleveland but saw their lead over the Yankees dwindle from two and one-half games to one.

Seven of the nine men in the St. Louis lineup hit safely, with Walt Judnich clicking off two singles and a double in four trips to the plate.

Yankees Win Two and Move Up Closer

Defeat Senators On Fine Hurling And Timely Hits

Rolfe's Two Run Homer and Leonard's Heave Sew Up First Game

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—The New York Yankees nudged within one game of second place in the American League today by sweeping a double-header from the Washington Senators 3 to 2 and 3 to 0 on the sterling pitching of Red Ruffing and Rookie Ernie Bonham.

It was the seventh straight victory and 13th in 14 games for the world champions, who also gained half a game on the first place Cleveland Indians to cut the margin between the clubs to 4½ games.

Ruffing bested Dutch Leonard in a pitching duel in the opener with the help of a two-run homer by Red Rolfe in the first inning and the deciding run that Charley Keller scored on a wild pitch in the third.

Bonham allowed only four hits in the nighacap and let but two men get to second.

Now Williams Wants Shorter Field in Right

As it is, Master Williams is plumb discouraged about that Boston right wall which rises up 382 feet from home plate.

"I haven't had any trouble with the Red Sox," Williams volunteered. "I just can't hit enough home runs in a home park that has the longest right-field wall in either league. I want to go some place — any place — where I'll look better."

Williams looked all right at Shibe Park yesterday. He bounced a double and triple off the 331-foot right wall, the latter scoring Doc Cramer to give the Red Sox a 5-to-4 victory over the A's.

In the National League, Williams pointed out, "they'd been home runs. In Boston they'd been only long flies."

Despite his urge to find greener and shorter pastures, Williams asserted he never hoped to be treated better than at Boston.

"Yawkey has been swell," he declared. "I haven't had any trouble with anybody. I get along with everybody on the team — ask any of the boys.

"I'm not stuck on myself. I just am looking out for me," continued the rangy twenty-one-year-old who is now belting the ball at a .345 clip. "I've hit only eighteen home runs this year. I hope to hit twenty-five before the end of the season. That's not enough by about half."

Williams believes club owners pay off for only one thing — the "best" —so:

"I want to be a great ball player —I mean greater than I am. It's only natural that I want to be the best. That's what club owners are paying their money for — they're not paying it for 'team spirit and co-operation.'"

Speaking of Jinxes--

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Dick Dore went to a baseball game at Deer Lodge five years ago. He saw a player named Paul Szakash slide into second base and break his leg.

Recently Dore went to another game at Helena. In the lineup was Paul Szakash and sure enough, he slid into second base and broke his leg.

Backers Never Remember

The horse has a better memory than the elephant, according to race trainers. The horse never forgets unkind treatment.

Connie Mack Calls Kennedy Rookie of Year

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1 (AP)—The outstanding event of the American League this year, says Connie Mack, is the rise of Robert (Bud) Kennedy, young rookie third baseman for the Chicago White Sox.

Others may marvel at the failure of the New York Yankees to be in first place, or wonder what's happened to Connie's own Athletics but the venerable Philadelphia manager prefers to discuss the Windy City youngster's feats.

Mack rates Kennedy above both Roy Mack and Lou Boudreau, great second-base combination of Cleveland. He's "the rookie of the year," said Connie, adding:

"They're both great players, but it's Kennedy for me. He's a fine fielder, can run like a deer and is a hard batter to fool. He ought to be even better next year."

Kennedy passed his nineteenth birthday less than two weeks ago and is perhaps the youngest regular with a leading team. In fifth place, the White Sox are eight and one-half games behind league-leading Cleveland.

Kennedy's batting average is better than .250 and he's around the forty mark in runs driven in. In fielding, he ranks well up in the league.

A native Chicagoan, Kennedy was picked up by a White Sox scout while playing with a junior American Legion team when he was only fifteen.

As for Mack's own team, he's a bit disappointed with their last-place spot, but believes the season will be best financially in five years.

"One thing the fans have been sure of when they came to Shibe Park," he said, "was that they'd see the Athletics put up a good fight. We haven't played one of those 23-to-2 games like the one the Yankees licked us last year and there haven't been five badly pitched games all year."

"Deacon" Parsons Is Out of Charleston Meet

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 1 (AP)—Dick McKee of Miami Beach, Fla., and Gardner Larned of Chicago, seeded first and second, swept through quarter and semi-final opposition today to set the stage for a title match between them in the first Charleston invitational tennis championships.

The 19-year-old McKee, National Public Parks champion, displayed cool precision and perfect timing as he disposed of John Harlan Lewis of Zanesville, O., 6-1, 7-5, then eliminated Landon Buchanan of Saltville, Va., seeded sixth, in the semi-finals 6-4, 6-0.

The tall, light-haired Larned closed out Relos (Deacon) Parsons of Huntington, former West Virginia State closed champion, in the quarter-finals 6-0, 6-4, and then beat Robert Smidl of River Forest, Ill., 6-4, 6-4, to cinch his place in the championship match.

In women's singles semi-finals, Ann Miller of Charleston, Kanawha County champion and seeded third, beat Eleanor Wright of Cincinnati 6-2, 6-3.

She will meet Caroline Friel, Marshall College sophomore of Huntington, who outplayed Betty B. Lee of Charleston 6-4, 6-2.

The finals for both men and women will be held tomorrow.

Indians Hop on White Sox To Win Third Straight 7-4

Three Run Rally in Ninth Responsible for Triumph

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP) — The league-leading Cleveland Indians hopped on their favorite "cousins", the Chicago White Sox today for a third straight victory, 7 to 4, combing the veteran Ted Lyons for 12 hits, including five doubles and two triples.

Joe Dobson's brilliant relief pitching and a three-run ninth inning rally were mainly responsible for the defeat of the Sox. Chicago knocked starting pitcher Al Milnar out of the box with a three-run splurge in the third inning, giving them a 4 to 1 lead. Dobson succeeded Milnar and held the Sox scoreless and yielded one hit until the last inning, when he was removed for a pinch runner.

Kahle Voted Stars' Most Valuable Player

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 1 (AP) — Voted the most valuable player for the Hollywood Baseball Club, of the Pacific Coast League, Bob Kahle, 25-year-old third baseman, from Richmond, Ind., will be tendered a trophy at the Hollywood ball park tomorrow.

Kahle, whose first organized baseball experience came with Fort Wayne, Ind., has batted over .300 for the Stars.

Frostburg Legion Crew To Play in NABF Event

A squad of 17 players and Manager Enoch P. Price, who has guided the Frostburg American Legion club to first place in the Bi-State Baseball League race, will leave Thursday evening to represent Western Maryland in the National Amateur Baseball Federation championship tournament opening next Saturday, September 7, at Birmingham, Ala.

This is the fourth season in recent years that Frostburg has either won N.A.B.F. sectional tournaments or met requirements to compete in the national eliminations. Teams representing Frostburg have played in Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Washington, and on each occasion scored victories over strong contenders.

The Frostburg squad will be strengthened for the Birmingham tourney games by players from several other Bi-State League clubs, N.A.B.F. regulations permitting the addition of tossers from the same circuit.

Manager Price, who will have charge of the American Legion party, announced Saturday that his team will practice tomorrow and Wednesday evenings at 6 o'clock at Community Park, Frostburg. Arrangements for the players to meet in Keyser on Thursday evening, when the team will leave over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at 9:15 for Cincinnati, will be made at Wednesday's practice session.

The Frostburg delegation will board a special train carrying other N.A.B.F. contenders at Cincinnati for the remainder o' the nearly 90-mile trip to Birmingham. Loyal fans of Frostburg are financing the journey to the deep south and Manager Price feels that this year the Mountain City's entry will make a strong bid for title honors.

"I feel certain we have the strongest club Frostburg has ever sent to this tourney," Manager Price said last night, "and will be disappointed if we don't reach the semi-finals."

The Frostburg party, in addition to Manager Price, will include William Scarpelli, Edward Drew, Daniel Drew, William "Jaggers" Drew, Frank Urbas, John "Abe" Heider, Joe McGinn, Peter Vargo, George Marble, Stanley Stetz, Joseph Geatz, Joe Carbacio, Albert Thomas, Theodore George, Phil Fleming, Ival Lambert and John Lowery.

Detroit Drops Costly Defeat to St. Louis by 8-2

Niggeling Slows Tigers' Pennant Drive with Four Hits

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 1 (AP) — Johnny Niggeling slowed up the Detroit pennant drive today by allowing the Tigers only four hits while his Brownie teammates were lacing out an even dozen safeties for an 8 to 2 victory.

It was a costly defeat for the second-place Tigers, who not only lost ground to Cleveland but saw their lead over the Yankees dwindle from two and one-half games to one.

Seven of the nine men in the St. Louis lineup hit safely, with Walt Judnich clicking off two singles and a double in four trips to the plate.

Cincinnati Takes 13th Twin Bill of Season

Defeats Chicago By One-Run Edges In Double Header

Cubs' Rally Falls Short in First Game by 6 to 5 Score

Moore Bests French 2-1 in Nightcap Duel of Hurlers

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1 (AP) — A one-run margin in both games of a double header with Chicago gave the league leading Cincinnati Reds their 13th twin triumph of the year today as they defeated the Bruins 6 to 5 and 2 to 1.

The first game was a batters' battle with the Cubs coming up short in the last round after staging a four-run rally in the eighth inning and the nightcap was a hurling duel in which Lloyd (Whitey) Moore bested Larry French.

Clay Bryant sparked the Cubs to their four-run splurge in the eighth of the opener with a safety. Stanley Hack and Billy Herman singled Bryant home and Zeke Bonura doubled them over the plate. Dominic Dallessandro singled to score Bonura.

In the nightcap Moore held the Cubs to four hits in seven and two-thirds innings. Stanley Hack counted the Bruins only marker in the seventh with his third home run of the year.

Anthracite Golf Open Will Start on Friday

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 1 (AP) — With a $1,200 first prize to shoot for—along with a few tons of coal—the nation's top-flight golfers will migrate to Northeastern Pennsylvania this week for the second annual $5,000 anthracite open tournament at the Scranton Country Club.

Coming on the heels of the Professional Golf Association tournament, scheduled to wind up at Hershey, Pa., tomorrow, the starting field Friday includes the two PGA finalists, defending champion Henry Picard and a strong contingent of other professionals and amateurs.

Picard, a year ago, shattered the course record when he beat off a late drive by Sam Snead to post a 273 for the 72 holes over the 6,829-yard layout.

Practice rounds and a driving tournament are scheduled Thursday with the first 18 holes of the 72-hole medal play carded Friday. A second 18-hole round will be played Saturday to reduce the field to 60 pros and 15 amateurs. The survivors will meet over 36 holes Sunday.

Extra inducement for the competitors, in view of the approaching Winter, will be awards of a ton of coal to each day's medalist and the driving champion. The official prize list scales down from $1,200 top to $30 for the professional in 20th place.

Tournament officials said the PGA finalists Snead and Byron Nelson, and semi-finalist Ralph Guldahl have already entered. There is a possibility Jug McSpaden, the other PGA semifinalist, may enter.

You Couldn't Blame 'Em

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooklyn's Dodgers—whose antics in recent years have made baseball history—had nothing on the 1884 St. Louis club of the old American Association.

St. Louis closed the season against the Baltimore Orioles here Oct. 15, 1884, and the Baltimore Sun reported the game in part, as follows:

"The Baltimore club closed the championship season yesterday in glorious style, beating the St. Louis club by 15 to nothing, and only one hand out, when Umpire Valentine called the game in the sixth inning.

"The game was called before the Baltimores had played out their half of the sixth inning, the St. Louis walking in from the field after Maccular scored on a passed ball, and refusing to play any longer."

Pioneer Baseball Farmers Have Gleaned Best Crops

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

By JOHN LARDNER
North American Newspaper Alliance

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—Henry Wallace, Democratic candidate for vice president, did not touch the other night upon one aspect of farming which will have a powerful effect upon the national consciousness in the next few years.

The Yankees and Cardinals are at it again. The two pioneer baseball farmers, the oldest and strongest chain-landlords of the major leagues, have gathered the best crops to themselves this year. By all the portents, we are in for another such period as 1926-7-8, when the Cards and Yanks dominated the game and won five out of a possible total of six pennants between them.

The tipoff, if it is a tipoff and not a bleary delusion on your correspondent's part, lies in the standing of the clubs in the bigger minor leagues, the class A and double-A minors—where the ripest crops are planted, where the major leaguers of the next few seasons are now doing business.

Here are some of those standings, as we lope to press:

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE
First Place—Rochester
Second Place—Newark.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION
First Place—Kansas City.
Second Place—Minneapolis.
Third Place—Columbus.

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE
First Place—Seattle.
Second Place—Los Angeles.

TEXAS LEAGUE
First Place—Houston.
Second Place—San Antonio.

EASTERN LEAGUE
First Place—Binghamton.
Second Place—Scranton.
Third Place—Hartford.

SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION
First Place—Nashville.
Second Place—Atlanta.

Cards Have 2 Leaders

In those six leagues, the six fastest minors in the country, the Cardinals have two leaders, Houston and Rochester, and a third-place club, Columbus. The Yankees have two leaders, Kansas City and Binghamton, and a second-place club, Newark. That constitutes a pretty good spread of the board for the two organizations that led the way in farming and first set up chain-store baseball on a large scale.

The Yankee-Cardinal output will be hard to beat in the next few years. Kansas City has been called the best minor league team in the country. That may or may not be true, but it's a good one. Rochester and Houston, the Cardinal king farms, have strong clubs, with Houston leading its league by some seventeen games and Rochester possessing four pitchers who are coveted throughout baseball.

Seattle, the Coast League leader and one of the best, has no direct affiliation with a major league club. Nashville, leader in the Southern Association, does most of its business with Brooklyn.

Situation Not So Ominous

Thus, we have the makings of a stretch of time which will see New York winning most of the pennants in the American League and St. Louis most of the pennants in the National—as they have been for fifteen years. Since 1925, when farms first began to flourish on a handsome scale, the Yanks have copped eight flags and the Cardinals five.

But the situation is not as ominous as it looks for the rest of the field. Slow to begin, the others—some of them, at least—have spent fast and crept up. If you dig a little deeper into the minor league standings, you find promise of a better balance by 1945.

Brooklyn and the Red Sox are advancing. The Sox have second-place affiliates in the American Association and the Eastern League, which latter unit is growing stronger every year. The St. Louis Browns have a second-place farm in San Antonio. The Hartford club of the Boston Bees is coming along, and three former Hartford workmen, Ross, Rowell and Sisti, have already brightened the Boston future enormously. Detroit, in spite of the punch in the nose it got from Judge last Winter, has a strong and balanced chain of farms.

The farm system, like previous systems in baseball, will even out in the end. Meanwhile, the Yanks and Cardinals are their first test with the mostest men, and will take a lot of knocking down in the years from 1940 to 1945.

Colts Win 6 to 0 but Midland Also Cops Tilt

Cumberland defeated Hyndman 6 to 0 at Hyndman but it did not change the league standing materially since Midland won by forfeit from Westvaco at Westvaco then lost an "exhibition" game to Westvaco 1 to 0 in seven innings.

Phil Fleming shut out the Eagles while scattering four hits and fanning 12 batsmen.

Old Germans Win

Hustling Boston Bees Beat Phils In Double Header

Sweep Three Game Series by 2-1 and 10-0 Scores

BOSTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—The hustling Boston Bees scored a twin triumph, 2-1 and 10-0, over the Philadelphia Phillies today to sweep a three-game series and run their current victory string to five straight.

Jim Tobin limited the cellar dwellers to six hits in the opener equal number in the nightcap.

A five-run first inning against Ike Pearson and Walter Beck ended Phillie hopes of a split in the nightcap.

Ben Warren started the scoring in the opener with a home run over the left field wall. Chet Ross duplicated in the same second inning with a similar stunt to tie the score.

The Bees produced the winning run in the third when Cooney doubled and went to third on Rowell's single. West scored him with a fly.

Eleven games are scheduled this week in the South End Booster Softball League after rain and wet grounds played havoc with the slate last week with only one game going into the records—a 9-2 victory over Candy Kitchen by Liberty Dairy.

Athletic Director Phil Holshey announced he had received a letter of protest from Manager Hartsock of Post's Cardinals, stating that although the umpire had awarded Lacy's Delicatets a forfeit victory over his club, he was within his rights as home manager in calling off the game without his team being present. Hartsock contends the field was unfit for play. Holshey, who said he hasn't received any official report from the umpire, has the matter under advisement. The schedule for the week follows:

Tuesday—Goldens vs. Liberty and Whirlwinds vs. Post's, Penn avenue field, and Candy Kitchen vs. Lacy's, Taylor diamond.

Wednesday—Liberty vs. Lacy and Goldens vs. Candy Kitchen, Penn avenue, and Post's vs. Trozzo's, Taylor.

Thursday—Liberty vs. Goldens and Lacy's vs. Trozzo's, Penn, and Post's vs. Candy Kitchen, Taylor.

Friday—Candy Kitchen vs. Goldens, Penn, and Trozzo's vs. Lacy's, Taylor.

If the Whirlwinds, who have forfeited their last several contests, default Tuesday, they will be compelled to post a new forfeit fee before participating in the next scheduled game or lose succeeding clashes until the money is posted.

Mt. Savage Defeats Cumberland in Tenth; Games on Tap Today

Mt. Savage defeated Cumberland in the tenth inning of their Penn-Mar League game yesterday at Mt. Savage 4 to 3, when after Raymond Anderson who had saved the game in the eighth with a sparkling double play, doubled home the winning run.

Five Battles Today

Today's holiday slate consists of five tussles. The Merchants, host to Eckhart in the playoff of a protested clash at 10 o'clock at North End, will entertain Barton in the afternoon after the Colts-Westvaco Bi-State tussle is completed. Wellersburg will go to Centerville, Bard to Lonaconing and Eckhart to Mt. Savage for afternoon scraps.

Mt. Savage and Wellersburg were to have met Saturday at Wellersburg in the playoff of a 15-15 five-inning tie game but the contest was postponed because of rain. In order to complete the league's 112-game schedule, this contest will be played this morning at 10 o'clock at Mt. Savage.

Snead and Nelson Meet in Finals of PGA Tournament

McSpaden and Guldahl Respective Victims at Hershey

HERSHEY, Pa., Sept. 1 (AP)—Sam Snead and Byron Nelson won their separate ways through to the finals of the Professional Golfers Association championship today and will match swats in the 36-hole title contest tomorrow.

Nelson, the Texas boy who won the National Open championship two years ago and who reached the finals of the P. G. A. last summer nosed out Ralph Guldahl, one up, on the 36th hole under a welcome sun.

Snead, current Canadian Open champ and the same boy who took that notorious eight on the last hole of the open in 1939, swamped Harold (Jug) McSpaden, 5 and 4, as the four survivors completed the matches interrupted by yesterday's rain, which was a gulley-washer.

Snead, three up after the opening 18 holes, took up right where he left off and shot superlative golf to throttle McSpaden finally on the 32nd hole. The jittery mountaineer shot a four-under-par 69 to gain his lead yesterday, and he was three under perfect scores today.

Match Right To End

Nelson had a close thing of it with Guldahl, who won the open title both in 1937 and 1938. They had a match right to the end. They resumed play today with Nelson leading by one hole, and that still was the standing when Guldahl failed in a despairing effort to sink a 20-foot putt for a win on the 36th.

Nelson had rounds of 69 and 71; Guldahl 70 and 71. Gulahl admitted when it ended that he simply had been out-putted on the close, crucial holes. Ralph and Byron are not colorful personalities, but they shoot tight golf.

There was some conjecture on how tomorrow's final would come out, but not a great deal of excitement on the eve of battle.

Those who have contended for several years that Snead, with his 300-yard drives and competent short game, is the best in the land, might find themselves justified tomorrow night. Sam shot a birdie on every hole he won yesterday and today. He was riding the flag with his approaches and sinking his putts.

Nelson was seven under par the last two days. Against Guldahl, one of the recognized best, he went 13 consecutive holes yesterday and today without losing one of them. Nelson wasn't spectacular, but perfection never is after a person grows accustomed to it.

Mason and Dixon Open Starts Today

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 1 (AP) — Virginia Guilfoil warmed up with an 82 today for her quest of a third Mason and Dixon women's golf title starting tomorrow, but the gallery also had eyes for Betty Meckley of Washington, D. C., who toured the course in 80.

Miss Meckley, many times a finalist in the M. and D. but never a champion, turned in the best card of any of the 54 entries who played in 27 mixed foursomes today.

Miss Meckley is a former Washington city and Maryland state champion.

Miss Guilfoil, from Syracuse, N. Y., the titlist in 1937 and again in 1939, was calm and deliberate on the greens and seemed to belie the pre-tournament reports she might be "shaky" on her shotmaking.

Mary Morrison, a protege of Henry Picard from Hershey, Pa., arrived late and in a hurried warm-up registered an 84. Her form and precision, however, convinced many observers that she is not to be dismissed lightly from championship consideration.

Marjorie Harrison of Ausable Forks, N. Y., entered for her first Mason and Dixon, duplicated Miss Guilfoil's card of 82.

Women's par for the course is 79.

Indications tonight were that a field of more than 90 would start qualifying rounds in the eighth annual event. It was predicted medal scores of 91 would be sufficient to qualify for the 32-place championship flight.

Lower flights of 16 each will be organized for the match play starting Tuesday.

Fairacre Cup Golf Tourney Continues

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Sept. 1 (AP) — Jimy Watts of Lynchburg downed George Craig, of Pittsburgh, 3 and 1, today to reach the semi-finals of the 16th annual Fairacre cup golf tournament.

Joining him in the semi-finals were John P. Chenoweth of Kanawha, W. Va., who defeated George Miller of Richmond, 2 and 1, James Gipe of Washington, who trimmed Charles Kent of Richmond, 1 up, and Al Dollins of Covington who downed George Flynn of Pittsburgh, 3 and 2.

Watts will meet Chenoweth and Gipe will play Collins in the morning eighteen tomorow. The final will be held in the afternoon.

Brooklyn Beats Giants Twice by 4-1 and 7-3 Scores

Dodgers Tighten Hold on Second Place by Double Win

BROOKLYN, Sept. 1 (AP) — Brooklyn's battered Dodgers conquered their favorite enemies, the New York Giants, in both ends of a doubleheader today, 4 to 1 and 7 to 3, to tighten their grasp on second place in the National League.

Lee Grissom, raw-boned left-hander whom Brooklyn brought up from Montreal recently, scored his first victory as a Dodger with five-hit pitching in the first game.

In the nightcap Whitlow Wyatt, who had been knocked out in his last three starts, held the Giants in check on seven hits for his 14th triumph of the season.

Idle all last week because of rain and wet grounds, Rocking Chair Softball League clubs will resume operations with three games Tuesday evening on the Fort Hill High and Community Park fields.

Tuesday's games will mark the beginning of the third and final cycle of the second half race, and as the teams start down the home stretch the strong B. and O. Bolt and Forge outfit holds first place with a record of six straight victories.

James Hill, president of the league, announced last night that games washed out last week will be played Thursday, September 19, and Tuesday, September 24. Arrangements are also being made to stage two games every playing date on the two fields at Community Park.

Tuesday's feature engagement will be the battle at Community Park between the Bando Bombers and the second play Junior Association outfit. It will be the first meeting between these rivals, the B. and O. gaining a non-appearance forfeit on one occasion and the other scheduled engagement being postponed.

Crack Auto Drivers Race at Altoona Today

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 1—The leader in the eastern section of the AAA in point scoring, Bill Holland of East Paterson, N. J., will be in the starting field when the Altoona Speedway stages its seven-event program of big time automobile races here Labor Day afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time.

This became assured when Holland's entry was received in the mail yesterday and it gives the field another sensational driver as Holland, in order to shoot to the top in the eastern standing, has had to reckon with such noted speedsters as Indian Joe Chitwood, Mark Light, Amon Kelchner, Duke Nalon, recent winner at Uniontown; Tony Willman, and several others.

Entries for Monday's meet are pouring in beyond expectations. Others who entered today are Ora Bean of Philadelphia, Shorty Drexler, the Louisville, O., mite and Buddy Rusch of Texas. This field indicates that the battle for the $2,000 in prize money is going to be one of the keenest that has ever been witnessed at the Altoona Speedway. The early interest indicates a bumper crowd and facilities have been completed for the handling of an overflow throng. The Speedway has seating facilities for 12,000 and free parking space inside the track for thousands of machines.

Back of the Scenes

In the Yankee clubhouse they were talking about the fastest pitcher. The argument got down to Lefty Grove and Bob Feller. I ran in my nomination—a fellow named Walter Johnson.

"I never batted against Johnson," Bill Dickey said, "but my vote goes for Grove when he was at his best. I can see Feller's fast one, even if I don't hit too well—but I couldn't see Grove's."

"I never saw Johnson work," Joe Gordon said, "and I never saw Grove at his best, at the top. But I'll string with Bob Feller. He is fast enough for me. Sometimes too fast."

I still stick with Johnson. One answer is that Big Barney pitched more shutouts and had more strikeouts than any pitcher in baseball—113 shutouts, if I recall the exact figures. And Johnson had no chance to ease up with a weak-hitting club. Also every hitter in those days knew a fast one was coming, but they still couldn't hit the Big Train.

"I guess Johnson, with that record, gets the call," Dickey said.

Here's another angle few fans figure out. I asked one of the Tiger stars how he accounted for Detroit's sudden rise from a sixth-place pick to a pennant contender, and then the sudden slowing up.

"Nature," he said. "In the spring we were afraid of Dick Bartell's legs and Charlie Gehringer's legs and back. But we happened to get a damp spring which ran into June. We had soft ground to work on until July. This gave both veterans a chance to save their legs. Then the sun baked out all diamonds—and what a difference this makes to older legs."

"This is true enough," Bartell told me. "I was a kid again as long as I had soft ground under my feet. But these hard, baked out diamonds are rough on your legs. I could begin to feel the difference in a few days—sore ligaments, sore feet."

Bartell was one of the main factors in Detroit's early summer charge. Both his spirit and his play were major factors in the Tiger drive. And the same goes for Gehringer, who stands out as one of the great second basemen of all time. When these two began to skid the Tiger infield began to look porous.

"Figure this one out," one of the Yankees said. "We all know the value of big, powerful hands in baseball. Hands like Wagner's and Lajoie's—but one of the best infielders I've seen in a long time has the smallest pair of hands in either league."

"Meaning whom?" we asked.

"Boudreau, the Cleveland shortstop," he answered. "Boudreau has extremely small hands. They are delicate looking. But I don't know of a better shortstop anywhere today. He has been one of the main reasons for Cleveland's success. When he gets either hand on a ball it sticks with him."

"I'll tell you something," one of the Cleveland veterans said. "Old-timers are always talking about the play of the stars who once made the headlines. They talk about a more scientific game. I'd like to see some of these old-timers handle the ball they hit at you today—infield or outfield.

"The game today is twice as fast. This modern ball comes at you like a rifle shot many times. You can't afford to lose a split second. The same is true in the outfield where line drives come whistling by. It takes much better starting speed to handle the new, faster ball, no matter what position you play. Those old-timers were lucky when it came to handling a much slower ball, one that gave you more time, to cover your ground.

"Baseball today is far harder on the nerves. You have to be alert every second a man is at bat. You are tense all the time in any close game. The old-time game may have been more scientific, but the game today is largely a matter of speed and power."

The clubhouse chitchat drifted around to the comparative value of pitching and hitting.

"If you had your choice," I asked one of the veterans, "who would you take—Ruth, Cobb, Wagner and Foxx—or Johnson, Alexander, Feller and Grove—each at his peak?"

"I don't have to wait on that one," he said. "I'd take the four pitchers. Give me those four pitchers and I'll give you any four big hitters you might name."

"What about Derringer and Walters losing nine out of ten recent starts?" I asked.

"What team is leading the National League?" he came back. "And who put them up there—Derringer, Walters and Thompson. Pitching is still the main idea when you are out after a flag."

"That must be right," someone cut in. "Almost everyone rates the Boston Red Sox as the best team in baseball—outside of their pitching. They have the strongest infield and the best outfield. They have the punch.

"But what good is all that when they keep losing games 9 to 7, 10 to 8 or maybe 7 to 5? They have to score seven or eight runs to have a good chance—and they lose some of these. Connie Mack said the Red Sox could win with his pitching staff, and I guess he's right. If you haven't got good pitching you are out of luck."—North American Newspaper Alliance.

College Stars To Get Try against Giant Pro Team

Five Have Signed with Team They Oppose Wednesday

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP) — Five young men who elected to play football professionally after notably successful college careers will be trying for places on the "varsity" when the Eastern College All-Stars meet the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds Wednesday night.

John McLaughry of Brown and Dom Principe of Fordham, both fullbacks, Ed McGee, Temple guard, and John Rogalla and Carl Tomasello, quarterback and end from Scranton University, have a double opportunity ahead of them in the fifth annual fresh air fund charity game.

They're all candidates for regular jobs with the Giants this year and if they should be instrumental in giving the All-Stars their first victory over the pros it would be hard for Coach Steve Owen to turn them down. In addition Owen is looking for replacements for a number of old Giant standbys. Ed Danowski, Dale Durnett, Bull Karcis, Kink Richards, Larry Johnson, Ox Parry and Tarzan White all are gone from last year's squad.

McGee, McLaughry and Rogalla all are listed as probable starters, though there's some doubt about the last. Ed Boell, a crack passer from New York University, held that spot when the All-Stars gave the Long Islands Indians of the American Association a trouncing in their final scrimmage yesterday while Rogalla piloted the less successful second team.

There'll be a good many ambitious "freshmen' on the other side, too, so the game wont be lacking in the old college try. Grenny Lansdell, the crack Southern California back who was one of the standouts in the All-Star-Green Bay game at Chicago last week, has joined the Giants squad. Kay Eakin from Arkansas, a great passer and kicker, is one of the reasons why the Giants are going in for fancy football this year instead of the old rock em-sock em style they used to favor.

Moore Bests French 2-1 in Nightcap Duel of Hurlers

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1 (AP) — A one-run margin in both games of a double header with Chicago gave the league leading Cincinnati Reds their 13th twin triumph of the year today as they defeated the Bruins 6 to 5 and 2 to 1.

The first game was a batters' battle with the Cubs coming up short in the last round after staging a four-run rally in the eighth inning and the nightcap was a hurling duel in which Lloyd (Whitey) Moore bested Larry French.

Clay Bryant sparked the Cubs to their four-run splurge in the eighth of the opener with a safety. Stanley Hack and Billy Herman singled Bryant home and Zeke Bonura doubled them over the plate. Dominic Dallessandro singled to score Bonura.

In the nightcap Moore held the Cubs to four hits in seven and two-thirds innings. Stanley Hack counted the Bruins only marker in the seventh with his third home run of the year.

Anthracite Golf Open Will Start on Friday

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 1 (AP) — With a $1,200 first prize to shoot for—along with a few tons of coal—the nation's top-flight golfers will migrate to Northeastern Pennsylvania this week for the second annual $5,000 anthracite open tournament at the Scranton Country Club.

Coming on the heels of the Professional Golf Association tournament, scheduled to wind up at Hershey, Pa., tomorrow, the starting field Friday includes the two PGA finalists, defending champion Henry Picard and a strong contingent of other professionals and amateurs.

Picard, a year ago, shattered the course record when he beat off a late drive by Sam Snead to post a 273 for the 72 holes over the 6,829-yard layout.

Practice rounds and a driving tournament are scheduled Thursday with the first 18 holes of the 72-hole medal play carded Friday. A second 18-hole round will be played Saturday to reduce the field to 60 pros and 15 amateurs. The survivors will meet over 36 holes Sunday.

Extra inducement for the competitors, in view of the approaching Winter, will be awards of a ton of coal to each day's medalist and the driving champion. The official prize list scales down from $1,200 top to $30 for the professional in 20th place.

Tournament officials said the PGA finalists Snead and Byron Nelson, and semi-finalist Ralph Guldahl have already entered. There is a possibility Jug McSpaden, the other PGA semifinalist, may enter.

You Couldn't Blame 'Em

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooklyn's Dodgers—whose antics in recent years have made baseball history—had nothing on the 1884 St. Louis club of the old American Association.

St. Louis closed the season against the Baltimore Orioles here Oct. 15, 1884, and the Baltimore Sun reported the game in part, as follows:

"The Baltimore club closed the championship season yesterday in glorious style, beating the St. Louis club by 15 to nothing, and only one hand out, when Umpire Valentine called the game in the sixth inning.

"The game was called before the Baltimores had played out their half of the sixth inning, the St. Louis walking in from the field after Maccular scored on a passed ball, and refusing to play any longer."

Pioneer Baseball Farmers Have Gleaned Best Crops

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

North American Newspaper Alliance

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—Henry Wallace, Democratic candidate for vice president, did not touch the other night upon one aspect of farming which will have a powerful effect upon the national consciousness in the next few years.

The Yankees and Cardinals are at it again. The two pioneer baseball farmers, the oldest and strongest chain-landlords of the major leagues, have gathered the best crops to themselves this year. By all the portents, we are in for another such period as 1926-7-8, when the Cards and Yanks dominated the game and won five out of a possible total of six pennants between them.

The tipoff, if it is a tipoff and not a bleary delusion on your correspondent's part, lies in the standing of the clubs in the bigger minor leagues, the class A and double-A minors—where the ripest crops are planted, where the major leaguers of the next few seasons are now doing business.

Here are some of those standings, as we lope to press:

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE
First Place—Rochester
Second Place—Newark.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION
First Place—Kansas City.
Second Place—Minneapolis.
Third Place—Columbus.

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE
First Place—Seattle.
Second Place—Los Angeles.

TEXAS LEAGUE
First Place—Houston.
Second Place—San Antonio.

EASTERN LEAGUE
First Place—Binghamton.
Second Place—Scranton.
Third Place—Hartford.

First Place—Nashville.
Second Place—Atlanta.

Cards Have 2 Leaders

In those six leagues, the six fastest minors in the country, the Cardinals have two leaders, Houston and Rochester, and a third-place club, Columbus. The Yankees have two leaders, Kansas City and Binghamton, and a second-place club, Newark. That constitutes a pretty good spread of the board for the two organizations that led the way in farming and first set up chain-store baseball on a large scale.

The Yankee-Cardinal output will be hard to beat in the next few years. Kansas City has been called the best minor league team in the country. That may or may not be true, but it's a good one. Rochester and Houston, the Cardinal king farms, have strong clubs, with Houston leading its league by some seventeen games and Rochester possessing four pitchers who are coveted throughout baseball.

Seattle, the Coast League leader and one of the best, has no direct affiliation with a major league club. Nashville, leader in the Southern Association, does most of its business with Brooklyn.

Situation Not So Ominous

Thus, we have the makings of a stretch of time which will see New York winning most of the pennants in the American League and St. Louis most of the pennants in the National—as they have been for fifteen years. Since 1925, when farms first began to flourish on a handsome scale, the Yanks have copped eight flags and the Cardinals five.

But the situation is not as ominous as it looks for the rest of the field. Slow to begin, the others—some of them, at least—have spent fast and crept up. If you dig a little deeper into the minor league standings, you find promise of a better balance by 1945.

Brooklyn and the Red Sox are advancing. The Sox have second-place affiliates in the American Association and the Eastern League, which latter unit is growing stronger every year. The St. Louis Browns have a second-place farm in San Antonio. The Hartford club of the Boston Bees is coming along, and three former Hartford workmen, Ross, Rowell and Sisti, have already brightened the Boston future enormously. Detroit, in spite of the punch in the nose it got from Judge last Winter, has a strong and balanced chain of farms.

The farm system, like previous systems in baseball, will even out in the end. Meanwhile, the Yanks and Cardinals are their first test with the mostest men, and will take a lot of knocking down in the years from 1940 to 1945.

Colts Win 6 to 0 but Midland Also Cops Tilt

Cumberland defeated Hyndman 6 to 0 at Hyndman but it did not change the league standing materially since Midland won by forfeit from Westvaco at Westvaco then lost an "exhibition" game to Westvaco 1 to 0 in seven innings.

Phil Fleming shut out the Eagles while scattering four hits and fanning 12 batsmen.

Old Germans Win

Hustling Boston Bees Beat Phils In Double Header

Sweep Three Game Series by 2-1 and 10-0 Scores

BOSTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—The hustling Boston Bees scored a twin triumph, 2-1 and 10-0, over the Philadelphia Phillies today to sweep a three-game series and run their current victory string to five straight.

Jim Tobin limited the cellar dwellers to six hits in the opener equal number in the nightcap.

A five-run first inning against Ike Pearson and Walter Beck ended Phillie hopes of a split in the nightcap.

Ben Warren started the scoring in the opener with a home run over the left field wall. Chet Ross duplicated in the same second inning with a similar stunt to tie the score.

The Bees produced the winning run in the third when Cooney doubled and went to third on Rowell's single. West scored him with a fly.

Eleven games are scheduled this week in the South End Booster Softball League after rain and wet grounds played havoc with the slate last week with only one game going into the records—a 9-2 victory over Candy Kitchen by Liberty Dairy.

Athletic Director Phil Holshey announced he had received a letter of protest from Manager Hartsock of Post's Cardinals, stating that although the umpire had awarded Lacy's Delicatets a forfeit victory over his club, he was within his rights as home manager in calling off the game without his team being present. Hartsock contends the field was unfit for play. Holshey, who said he hasn't received any official report from the umpire, has the matter under advisement. The schedule for the week follows:

Tuesday—Goldens vs. Liberty and Whirlwinds vs. Post's, Penn avenue field, and Candy Kitchen vs. Lacy's, Taylor diamond.

Wednesday—Liberty vs. Lacy and Goldens vs. Candy Kitchen, Penn avenue, and Post's vs. Trozzo's, Taylor.

Thursday—Liberty vs. Goldens and Lacy's vs. Trozzo's, Penn, and Post's vs. Candy Kitchen, Taylor.

Friday—Candy Kitchen vs. Goldens, Penn, and Trozzo's vs. Lacy's, Taylor.

If the Whirlwinds, who have forfeited their last several contests, default Tuesday, they will be compelled to post a new forfeit fee before participating in the next scheduled game or lose succeeding clashes until the money is posted.

Mt. Savage Defeats Cumberland in Tenth; Games on Tap Today

Mt. Savage defeated Cumberland in the tenth inning of their Penn-Mar League game yesterday at Mt. Savage 4 to 3, when after Raymond Anderson who had saved the game in the eighth with a sparkling double play, doubled home the winning run.

Five Battles Today

Today's holiday slate consists of five tussles. The Merchants, host to Eckhart in the playoff of a protested clash at 10 o'clock at North End, will entertain Barton in the afternoon after the Colts-Westvaco Bi-State tussle is completed. Wellersburg will go to Centerville, Bard to Lonaconing and Eckhart to Mt. Savage for afternoon scraps.

Mt. Savage and Wellersburg were to have met Saturday at Wellersburg in the playoff of a 15-15 five-inning tie game but the contest was postponed because of rain. In order to complete the league's 112-game schedule, this contest will be played this morning at 10 o'clock at Mt. Savage.

Snead and Nelson Meet in Finals of PGA Tournament

McSpaden and Guldahl Respective Victims at Hershey

HERSHEY, Pa., Sept. 1 (AP)—Sam Snead and Byron Nelson won their separate ways through to the finals of the Professional Golfers Association championship today and will match swats in the 36-hole title contest tomorrow.

Nelson, the Texas boy who won the National Open championship two years ago and who reached the finals of the P. G. A. last summer nosed out Ralph Guldahl, one up, on the 36th hole under a welcome sun.

Snead, current Canadian Open champ and the same boy who took that notorious eight on the last hole of the open in 1939, swamped Harold (Jug) McSpaden, 5 and 4, as the four survivors completed the matches interrupted by yesterday's rain, which was a gulley-washer.

Snead, three up after the opening 18 holes, took up right where he left off and shot superlative golf to throttle McSpaden finally on the 32nd hole. The jittery mountaineer shot a four-under-par 69 to gain his lead yesterday, and he was three under perfect scores today.

Match Right To End

Nelson had a close thing of it with Guldahl, who won the open title both in 1937 and 1938. They had a match right to the end. They resumed play today with Nelson leading by one hole, and that still was the standing when Guldahl failed in a despairing effort to sink a 20-foot putt for a win on the 36th.

Nelson had rounds of 69 and 71; Guldahl 70 and 71. Gulahl admitted when it ended that he simply had been out-putted on the close, crucial holes. Ralph and Byron are not colorful personalities, but they shoot tight golf.

There was some conjecture on how tomorrow's final would come out, but not a great deal of excitement on the eve of battle.

Those who have contended for several years that Snead, with his 300-yard drives and competent short game, is the best in the land, might find themselves justified tomorrow night. Sam shot a birdie on every hole he won yesterday and today. He was riding the flag with his approaches and sinking his putts.

Nelson was seven under par the last two days. Against Guldahl, one of the recognized best, he went 13 consecutive holes yesterday and today without losing one of them. Nelson wasn't spectacular, but perfection never is after a person grows accustomed to it.

Mason and Dixon Open Starts Today

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 1 (AP) — Virginia Guilfoil warmed up with an 82 today for her quest of a third Mason and Dixon women's golf title starting tomorrow, but the gallery also had eyes for Betty Meckley of Washington, D. C., who toured the course in 80.

Miss Meckley, many times a finalist in the M. and D. but never a champion, turned in the best card of any of the 54 entries who played in 27 mixed foursomes today.

Miss Meckley is a former Washington city and Maryland state champion.

Miss Guilfoil, from Syracuse, N. Y., the titlist in 1937 and again in 1939, was calm and deliberate on the greens and seemed to belie the pre-tournament reports she might be "shaky" on her shotmaking.

Mary Morrison, a protege of Henry Picard from Hershey, Pa., arrived late and in a hurried warm-up registered an 84. Her form and precision, however, convinced many observers that she is not to be dismissed lightly from championship consideration.

Marjorie Harrison of Ausable Forks, N. Y., entered for her first Mason and Dixon, duplicated Miss Guilfoil's card of 82.

Women's par for the course is 79.

Indications tonight were that a field of more than 90 would start qualifying rounds in the eighth annual event. It was predicted medal scores of 91 would be sufficient to qualify for the 32-place championship flight.

Lower flights of 16 each will be organized for the match play starting Tuesday.

Fairacre Cup Golf Tourney Continues

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Sept. 1 (AP) — Jimy Watts of Lynchburg downed George Craig, of Pittsburgh, 3 and 1, today to reach the semi-finals of the 16th annual Fairacre cup golf tournament.

Joining him in the semi-finals were John P. Chenoweth of Kanawha, W. Va., who defeated George Miller of Richmond, 2 and 1, James Gipe of Washington, who trimmed Charles Kent of Richmond, 1 up, and Al Dollins of Covington who downed George Flynn of Pittsburgh, 3 and 2.

Watts will meet Chenoweth and Gipe will play Collins in the morning eighteen tomorow. The final will be held in the afternoon.

Dodgers Tighten Hold on Second Place by Double Win

BROOKLYN, Sept. 1 (AP) — Brooklyn's battered Dodgers conquered their favorite enemies, the New York Giants, in both ends of a doubleheader today, 4 to 1 and 7 to 3, to tighten their grasp on second place in the National League.

Lee Grissom, raw-boned left-hander whom Brooklyn brought up from Montreal recently, scored his first victory as a Dodger with five-hit pitching in the first game.

In the nightcap Whitlow Wyatt, who had been knocked out in his last three starts, held the Giants in check on seven hits for his 14th triumph of the season.

Idle all last week because of rain and wet grounds, Rocking Chair Softball League clubs will resume operations with three games Tuesday evening on the Fort Hill High and Community Park fields.

Tuesday's games will mark the beginning of the third and final cycle of the second half race, and as the teams start down the home stretch the strong B. and O. Bolt and Forge outfit holds first place with a record of six straight victories.

James Hill, president of the league, announced last night that games washed out last week will be played Thursday, September 19, and Tuesday, September 24. Arrangements are also being made to stage two games every playing date on the two fields at Community Park.

Tuesday's feature engagement will be the battle at Community Park between the Bando Bombers and the second play Junior Association outfit. It will be the first meeting between these rivals, the B. and O. gaining a non-appearance forfeit on one occasion and the other scheduled engagement being postponed.

Crack Auto Drivers Race at Altoona Today

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 1—The leader in the eastern section of the AAA in point scoring, Bill Holland of East Paterson, N. J., will be in the starting field when the Altoona Speedway stages its seven-event program of big time automobile races here Labor Day afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time.

This became assured when Holland's entry was received in the mail yesterday and it gives the field another sensational driver as Holland, in order to shoot to the top in the eastern standing, has had to reckon with such noted speedsters as Indian Joe Chitwood, Mark Light, Amon Kelchner, Duke Nalon, recent winner at Uniontown; Tony Willman, and several others.

Entries for Monday's meet are pouring in beyond expectations. Others who entered today are Ora Bean of Philadelphia, Shorty Drexler, the Louisville, O., mite and Buddy Rusch of Texas. This field indicates that the battle for the $2,000 in prize money is going to be one of the keenest that has ever been witnessed at the Altoona Speedway. The early interest indicates a bumper crowd and facilities have been completed for the handling of an overflow throng. The Speedway has seating facilities for 12,000 and free parking space inside the track for thousands of machines.

Back of the Scenes

In the Yankee clubhouse they were talking about the fastest pitcher. The argument got down to Lefty Grove and Bob Feller. I ran in my nomination—a fellow named Walter Johnson.

"I never batted against Johnson," Bill Dickey said, "but my vote goes for Grove when he was at his best. I can see Feller's fast one, even if I don't hit too well—but I couldn't see Grove's."

"I never saw Johnson work," Joe Gordon said, "and I never saw Grove at his best, at the top. But I'll string with Bob Feller. He is fast enough for me. Sometimes too fast."

I still stick with Johnson. One answer is that Big Barney pitched more shutouts and had more strikeouts than any pitcher in baseball—113 shutouts, if I recall the exact figures. And Johnson had no chance to ease up with a weak-hitting club. Also every hitter in those days knew a fast one was coming, but they still couldn't hit the Big Train.

"I guess Johnson, with that record, gets the call," Dickey said.

Here's another angle few fans figure out. I asked one of the Tiger stars how he accounted for Detroit's sudden rise from a sixth-place pick to a pennant contender, and then the sudden slowing up.

"Nature," he said. "In the spring we were afraid of Dick Bartell's legs and Charlie Gehringer's legs and back. But we happened to get a damp spring which ran into June. We had soft ground to work on until July. This gave both veterans a chance to save their legs. Then the sun baked out all diamonds—and what a difference this makes to older legs."

"This is true enough," Bartell told me. "I was a kid again as long as I had soft ground under my feet. But these hard, baked out diamonds are rough on your legs. I could begin to feel the difference in a few days—sore ligaments, sore feet."

Bartell was one of the main factors in Detroit's early summer charge. Both his spirit and his play were major factors in the Tiger drive. And the same goes for Gehringer, who stands out as one of the great second basemen of all time. When these two began to skid the Tiger infield began to look porous.

"Figure this one out," one of the Yankees said. "We all know the value of big, powerful hands in baseball. Hands like Wagner's and Lajoie's—but one of the best infielders I've seen in a long time has the smallest pair of hands in either league."

"Meaning whom?" we asked.

"Boudreau, the Cleveland shortstop," he answered. "Boudreau has extremely small hands. They are delicate looking. But I don't know of a better shortstop anywhere today. He has been one of the main reasons for Cleveland's success. When he gets either hand on a ball it sticks with him."

"I'll tell you something," one of the Cleveland veterans said. "Old-timers are always talking about the play of the stars who once made the headlines. They talk about a more scientific game. I'd like to see some of these old-timers handle the ball they hit at you today—infield or outfield.

"The game today is twice as fast. This modern ball comes at you like a rifle shot many times. You can't afford to lose a split second. The same is true in the outfield where line drives come whistling by. It takes much better starting speed to handle the new, faster ball, no matter what position you play. Those old-timers were lucky when it came to handling a much slower ball, one that gave you more time to cover your ground.

"Baseball today is far harder on the nerves. You have to be alert every second a man is at bat. You are tense all the time in any close game. The old-time game may have been more scientific, but the game today is largely a matter of speed and power."

The clubhouse chitchat drifted around to the comparative value of pitching and hitting.

"If you had your choice," I asked one of the veterans, "who would you take—Ruth, Cobb, Wagner and Foxx—or Johnson, Alexander, Feller and Grove—each at his peak?"

"I don't have to wait on that one," he said. "I'd take the four pitchers. Give me those four pitchers and I'll give you any four big hitters you might name."

"What about Derringer and Walters losing nine out of ten recent starts?" I asked.

"What team is leading the National League?" he came back. "And who put them up there—Derringer, Walters and Thompson. Pitching is still the main idea when you are out after a flag."

"That must be right," someone cut in. "Almost everyone rates the Boston Red Sox as the best taem in baseball—outside of their pitching. They have the strongest infield and the best outfield. They have the punch.

"But what good is all that when they keep losing games 9 to 7, 10 to 8 or maybe 7 to 5? They have to score seven or eight runs to have a good chance—and they lose some of these. Connie Mack said the Red Sox could win with his pitching staff, and I guess he's right. 'If you haven't got good pitching you are out of luck.'"—North American Newspaper Alliance.

Williamson Clinches Mountain State Flag

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Sept. 1 (AP) —Williamson clinched the pennant for the full session of the Mountain State League today by shutting out Huntington, 7 to 0. Nineteen-year-old Wayne Bruce limited the Aces to two hits, and struck out 16 men.

College Stars To Get Try against Giant Pro Team

Five Have Signed with Team They Oppose Wednesday

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP) — Five young men who elected to play football professionally after notably successful college careers will be trying for places on the "varsity" when the Eastern College All-Stars meet the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds Wednesday night.

John McLaughry of Brown and Dom Principe of Fordham, both fullbacks, Ed McGee, Temple guard, and John Rogalla and Carl Tomasello, quarterback and end from Scranton University, have a double opportunity ahead of them in the fifth annual fresh air fund charity game.

They're all candidates for regular jobs with the Giants this year and if they should be instrumental in giving the All-Stars their first victory over the pros it would be hard for Coach Steve Owen to turn them down. In addition Owen is looking for replacements for a number of old Giant standbys. Ed Danowski, Dale Durnett, Bull Karcis, Kink Richards, Larry Johnson, Ox Parry and Tarzan White all are gone from last year's squad.

McGee, McLaughry and Rogalla all are listed as probable starters, though there's some doubt about the last. Ed Boell, a crack passer from New York University, held that spot when the All-Stars gave the Long Islands Indians of the American Association a trouncing in their final scrimmage yesterday while Rogalla piloted the less successful second team.

There'll be a good many ambitious "freshmen" on the other side, too, so the game wont be lacking in the old college try. Grenny Lansdell, the crack Southern California back who was one of the standouts in the All-Star-Green Bay game at Chicago last week, has joined the Giants squad. Kay Eakin from Arkansas, a great passer and kicker, is one of the reasons why the Giants are going in for fancy football this year instead of the old rock em-sock em style they used to favor.

Cobbler's Body Found in Weeds Back of Silk Mill

Wife Identifies James R. Lewis, 40, World War Veteran

A 40-year-old Cumberland cobbler was found dead yesterday at 4 p. m., back of the old silk mill on Gay street. Death was attributed to natural causes.

The victim, James R. Lewis, of 248 North Centre street, a World War veteran, was found lying face down in a patch of weeds near the railroad tracks. Police went to investigate when called by H. B. Rice, of Oldtown road.

Dr. Linne H. Corson, deputy medical examiner, was called and ordered the body removed to the Hafer funeral home.

Police To Investigate

Dr. Corson examined the body for any marks or bruises and found none. He deferred rendering a verdict until police concluded an investigation.

Lewis was clad in a blue-striped work shirt, blue work trousers, white socks and black oxford shoes. Four boxes of matches, a cigarette lighter and cigarette papers were found in his trouser pockets.

Lieut. James E. Van, Detectives Frank Gaffney and Robert E. Flynn, and Officers John Powers and John Smallwood examined the victim at the Hafer home.

Both Powers and Smallwood identified the man although neither would say he was positive.

Wife Identifies Body

Lieut. Van went to the Lewis home and brought the victim's wife to the funeral home. Mrs. Lewis immediately identified the man as her husband.

Mrs. Lewis said her husband left their home on North Centre street early this morning and did not return.

Dr. Corson issued a verdict of death due to natural causes.

Boulevard Hotel Has New Manager

Robert Muse, of Virginia, Named Successor to Bruce C. Cook

Robert Muse, of Winchester, Va., has taken over the management of the Boulevard hotel, replacing Bruce C. Cook, who retired after having served as manager and assistant manager for five years.

Mrs. Muse, wife of the new manager, becomes housekeeper of the hotel, supplanting Mrs. Alpha E. Payne, who severed her connection with the hotel Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Muse have had experience in public work and in recent years had charge of the Green Lantern restaurant and tourist camp at Capon Bridge, W. Va.

The new manager and his wife took over their duties at the Boulevard yesterday.

Decision in Freno Case Awaits Outcome Of Wolfe's Injuries

A three weeks' old assault case was aired Saturday in trial magistrate's court, but the decision was deferred pending the outcome of the injuries suffered by the attackee.

Joseph Freno, 465 Warren street, was arraigned on a charge of assaulting J. Donald Wolfe, 25, of 630 Shriver avenue, August 12. Wolfe had both jaws and a cheekbone broken and several teeth knocked out by his assailant.

Several nights prior to the assault, Wolfe's wife and another young woman were dancing together at a roadhouse near Frostburg when a friend of Freno, from Akron, Ohio, attempted to "cut in", investigation officers said. An argument between Wolfe and Freno followed.

According to testimony, Freno waited outside of a Greene street American store, of which Wolfe is manager, until he closed the place at 5 p. m., and then attacked him.

Freno was released under $1,000 bond pending a decision in the case. His attorney was Edward J. Ryan.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris and County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle prosecuted Freno.

William J. Cubbage, Veteran Policeman, Dies in Hospital

Former City Detective Succumbs Following Brief Illness

William J. Cubbage, 56, of 629 Lincoln street, veteran city policeman, died Saturday afternoon at Memorial hospital where he was admitted Wednesday night. A blood vessel on the right side of his head burst early last Monday morning.

The Cumberland police force, except for officers on duty, will attend the funeral services in a body Tuesday afternoon at his home. Mr. Cubbage was a member of the department for thirty years, being one of the first detectives on the force.

A native of Keyser, W. Va., Mr. Cubbage was a son of the late Benjamin Franklin and Susan F. Cubbage. He was appointed detective on the city force by Commissioner Herbert Lee Blye more than ten years ago.

Mr. Cubbage was a member of Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles; Lodge No. 60, Knights of Pythias, and the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association. He was active in arranging annual dances for police and firemen and helped to organize the Gephart Playground association.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Esther R. Loy Cubbage; three sons, Charles E., Vernon and Kenneth Cubbage, and a daughter, Miss Norma Cubbage, all of Cumberland; and four sisters, Mrs. Ruth Cavey, of Frostburg; Mrs. Lula Buskirk, this city; Mrs. Mollie Sowers, of Cokeville, Pa., and Mrs. Bessie Bennet, of Cleveland, Ohio.

W. F. Appell Succumbs

W. F. Appell, 1108 Washington avenue, Martinsburg, W. Va., brother of Robert H. Appell, 120 Virginia avenue, died Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Mabel Babst Dies

Mrs. Mabel Babst, 53, died last night at Memorial hospital where she had been a patient since Jan. 5.

Mrs. Babst was a native of Defiance, Pa., and a daughter of the late Charles and Elizabeth Babst.

Surviving are a brother, William Babst, 713 Bedford street, with whom she resided, and a sister, Miss Jessie Babst, of Defiance.

The body was taken to Defiance. Burial wil be made in Hopewell, Pa.

Mrs. Fiorita Succumbs

Mrs. Rosella Bridges Fiorita, 28, wife of Raymond Fiorita, of Sunnyside, near Mt. Savage, died Saturday at Allegany hospital where she was admitted four months ago.

Born at Barrellville, Mrs. Fiorita was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bridges, of Barrellville.

Surviving, besides her husband and parents, are a son, Lawrence Franklin Fiorita; four brothers, Albert Bridges, of Sunnyside; Clardon, Leo and Cecil Bridges, of Barrell-

Refugee Children Offered Homes in Allegany County

Maryland Children's Aid Society Interviews Applicants Here

Miss Beatrice Malone, of the Maryland Children's Aid society, was in Cumberland several days last week, authorized to interview those families, in this district, who have made application to care for refugee children from England.

These children include not only English children but also those who had been fortunate enough to have been evacuated from the continent to England during the early days of the war.

There have been four applications in Allegany county, one each at LaVale, Ellerslie, Barton and Westernport.

Qualifications that will have to be met by those persons who are willing to care for one or more of these children, have been outlined by the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor and issued to the Child-Care agencies. The Maryland Children's Aid society will take charge in Maryland.

Miss Malone is checking the standards of foster-care which can be provided. Her work is to investigate the community in which the family makes its home, which must be able to provide good schools, good medical care, and opportunity for church attendance and religious instruction. The home must offer safety, proper light, heat and ventilation. The family itself must provide proper care and be financially able to provide adequately for their guest, for whose well being they assume entire responsibility. These children are wards of the Crown and it must be understood that they may not be adopted.

The Maryland Children's Aid society will keep in touch with the families for any supervision needed.

This work is being done to acquaint the committees, with the number of homes available, so they may provide, through the State department, the ships with safe convoy to bring the children to America.

Any person willing to accept a child-guest in their home may make application by writing to the Maryland Division of the United States Committee for the Care of European Children, Equitable building, Baltimore, Md.

3,500 Persons Attend Final Concert Here By Arion Band

Cumberland's farewell band concert of the 1940 season attracted a crowd of 3,500 persons to Constitution park last night to hear the Arion Band, of Frostburg, under the direction of R. Hilary Lancaster.

The concert lasting an hour and a half, consisted of fifteen band and vocal selections.

Generous applause greeted all of the numbers and Prof. Arthur Thomas had the audience join him in singing encores to "My Wild Irish Rose" and "God Bless America". His third selection was "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

One of the encores offered by the band was "The Brave Rifles," a march dedicated to the Sixty-Second U. S. Cavalry, stationed at Fort Myer, Va., and requested by Jacob Wolfe, of Shriver avenue, adjutant of the veterans' organization, who was too ill to attend. Mr. Wolfe supplied the band with copies of the march music. The second encore by the band was "Down by the Ohio."

Forty-seven members comprised the band. The concert had been postponed a week on account of rain.

Suffers Injury

Mrs. Frances Harvey, 626 North Centre street, suffered a lacerated right hand Saturday night while opening a tin can. She was treated at Allegany hospital and discharged.

Beekeepers and Pigeon Fanciers To Vie for Awards at State Fair

Charles Smith and Son, John Lindner, Peter Klavuhn Are Exhibitors

Charles A. Smith, of LaVale, and his father, Charles Smith, of 437 Walnut street, yesterday shipped 106 pigeons, including the entire "Tumbler Family" to the state's largest fair while John Lindner, of Bedford road, and Peter Klavuhn, of Yale street, leading premium winners at the 1940 Cumberland Fair, will vie for awards in the bee culture department at Timonium.

The Smiths captured a majority of the pigeon premiums at the Cumberland Fair and between them carried off $400 in cash awards.

Judging in the poultry and pigeon show will be conducted today.

Lindner Seeks Premiums

John Lindner, who will lexhibit boxed honey, extracted honey in jars and beeswax at the state fair, was the No. 1 exhibitof in the bee-culture department at Fairgo last month. He won four out of a possible six first places, finished as runner-up twice and received $46 out of $95 offered in cash premiums. Klauvhn also ranked high among the premium winners.

Lindner, regarded as the outstanding amateur bee-keeper in Allegany county, has 115 colonies of bees at his Bedford road place and his annual output is two and a half tons of honey. His exhibit includes flower pots and saucers and large and small candlesticks made of beeswax. A former state prize winner, Lindner is exhibiting at Timonium for the second time. He also plans to show at the Hagerstown and Frederick fairs.

Twenty-four Allegany countians will have their Cumberland Fair prize-winning exhibits in competition at the state fair, according to Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent.

Miller Exhibits Entered

Heading the two dozen from this county is Miss Loretta Miller, of Lake Gordon, leading premium winner at Fairgo. Miss Miller, who received fifty-six premiums, amounting to $70.50 in cash, will have four of her prize-winning exhibits displayed in the Food Preservation Department of the 4-H Show.

Washington Swimmers Win Queen City Meet

Receive Police Boys' Club Trophy; Mickey Chambers Tops Scorers; Mrs. Kight Suffers Injury

Scoring a total of forty-three points to capture first place in the team competition, the Washington Golf and Country Club yesterday was awarded the gold trophy donated by the Cumberland Police Boys' Club in the first annual Queen City Championship Swimming and Diving Meet, held at Constitution Park pool, under the sponsorship of the Park Pool Board.

The trophy, donated to the team scoring the greatest number of points in the meet, was presented to Captain William Wright, of the capital city team, by M. F. Prendergast, sports editor of the Cumberland News, and representative of the South Atlantic Association of the A.A.U., which sanctioned the contests. The championship team is captained by Harry P. Godwin.

Shoreham Is Runner-Up

Runner-up honors went to the Shoreham A.C., of Washington, D. C., with 31 points. Other teams finished in the following order: Baltimore Y.M.C.A., 30 points; Washington Airport, 25 points; Baltimore Knights of Columbus, 23 points and the Cumberland Aquatic Club, 21 points.

Individual high scoring honors were captured by Miss Mickey Chambers, of the Baltimore Y.M.H.A., who amassed a total of thirty tallies. Miss Chambers, incidentally, was the lone entrant from the Baltimore swimming club.

The meet of twenty-four events, directed by William H. Buchholtz, pool superintendent, assisted by Sergt. W. B. Lovenstein, of the Cumberland Police Department, attracted a crowd of approximately 1,500 persons. There were about 100 participants in the program.

Medals donated by fifty Cumberland merchants and business men were awarded for first second and third places in the men's and women's individual events and members of the winning relay team; silver medals for first places and bronze medals for second places in junior events and bronze medals for first place winners in midget contests.

Mrs. Kight Injured

The only accident to mar the meet occurred in the women's diving event in which Mrs. Marjorie Lowery Kight, a member of the Cumberland Aquatic Club, struck her nose on the low board while attempting a front flip somersault. She was taken to Memorial hospital where attaches reported that her injuries consisted of lacerations of the nose. At first it was feared that Mrs. Kight had suffered a fractured nose.

Officers for the meet were Kenneth Mowen, referee; Wellington B. Lovenstein, starter; Charles Metz, III, clerk of the course; Herman Ball, first place judge; Fred Leydig, second place judge; Charles E. Metz, II, third place judge; M. V. Dodderer and Charles Mowen, timers; Chauncey Ashley, Harry Stark and Elza Nave, diving judges, and William Brady, official scorer.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, as chairman of the committee on Agricultural Resources and Production of the Maryland Council of Defense and Resources (hows that for a title?) has tossed a boquet at Henry W. Price, of this city.

The gesture is made in connection with a publicity release issued by Dr. Byrd in which he states that he will call his committee together shortly for the purpose of organizing the work and submitting a preliminary report.

"We are fortunate in having on the committee, Mr. Henry W. Price, of Cumberland, a man of sound judgment and wide business experience," Dr. Byrd states.

The committee chief is also gratified over the fact that it has on its membership P. C. Turner, president of the Maryland Farm Bureau, who, he notes, "is thoroughly informed on agricultural matters and has already furnished the council with useful data."

"It will be our hope to make a valuable contribution to Maryland's activities in the defense program," Dr. Byrd states.

"While our first meeting will not be conclusive, "it will no doubt be possible to produce fruitful results in that we can make available to the Defense Council accurate figures on the present agricultural production of the state and can even go further and show how far this production meets state needs and how far it falls short—in brief whether there is a surplus or deficit."

"The work of the committee," Dr. Byrd says, "will be to assemble facts and figures and then endeavor to interpret their relationship to the social, economic and industrial life for the state in so far as they relate to the defense program. All this, of course, cannot be accomplished at our first meeting but we shall lay plans for promptly carrying out our objectives."

Pointing out that automobile deaths continue at an appalling figure, the chamber of commerce is asking members to support the forthcoming Safety Week program to be sponsored by the Western Maryland Automobile Club.

The auto club members will meet Wednesday night to complete plans for the campaign, which starts the week of September 16.

Elgin To Name 1,500 Stations For Auto Tests

Annual Checkup for Defects Will Start October 1 and End November 15

Inspection stations for the annual checkup of motor vehicles required by the automobile laws are being selected for the campaign beginning October 1, W. Lee Elgin, comissioner of motor vehicles, announces.

The commissioner asserted that the rise in accidents is due in some measure to faulty mechanism and that rigid inspections and removal of unsafe vehicles from the highways will help to correct this condition.

About 1,500 garages and automobile service stations will be available for the inspection period which ends November 15. Mr. Elgin said positively that there will be no extension of time.

Declaring that the breaking of king bolts was found to have caused a large number of accidents, the commissioner said that they would be inspected along with brakes, lights, steering gears, tires, horn, windshield wipers, windshield glass and other parts having a definite bearing on safety.

The commissioner has asked Governor Herbert R. O'Conor for the co-operation of the Maryland Traffic Safety Committee in the campaign.

Democratic Committee Meeting Last Night

At the regular meeting of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee last night at the Windsor hotel, it was announced that a letter had been received from the national chairman "offering any support that the county state central committee wishes relative to the coming election." The chairman was instructed to contact the national committee, offering full co-operation.

The county committee went on record, it was stated, to make definite plans for the coming fall election.

Slippery Roads Blamed for Two Auto Accidents

Nine Persons Injured in Series of Crashes over Week-End

Rain and slippery roads were blamed for two of three automobile accidents in which nine persons were injured, none seriously, in and near Cumberland over the week-end.

Miss Alice Brode, 21, of Frostburg, was admitted to Allegany hospital early yesterday morning after the car in which she was riding collided with another machine on Greene street. She suffered lacerations about the face and right eye.

Charles F. Swarner, 628 Lincoln street, driver of the car occupied by Miss Brode, was injured about the left knee. He was treated at the hospital and discharged.

Driver of the other car, Harry R. Small, 1445 Otis Place, N. W., Washington, D. C., escaped injury, but his wife, Lou Ellen, was cut about the face and nose. She received treatment at the hospital and was released.

Both Drivers Arrested

Officers J. H. Newhouse and F. O. Daum, who investigated, placed charges of reckless driving against Swarner and Small. Both were released under $10 bond pending a hearing tomorrow in trial magistrates court.

Mrs. Mina Millward, 38, of Detroit, Mich., suffered severe cuts and bruises about her face and leg Saturday afternoon when the car driven by her husband, John A. Millward, 40, crashed against a guard rail and car on Polish mountain, sixteen miles east of here.

Mrs. Millward and her husband, who was cut about the head, were brought to Memorial hospital. She was admitted and discharged yesterday. Her husband was released after being treated.

State Trooper B. C. Mason said Millward's machine skidded on the slippery highway during a heavy rainstorm, struck the guard rail and then hit the car of Capt. Jay W. Dasche, of the Green Ridge CCC Camp, who was ascending the mountain. Capt. Dasche was not hurt.

Members of Family Hurt

Four members of a West Virginia family were injured early Saturday morning when their car skidded on the slippery road at a sharp curve in LaVale and crashed against the bridge spanning Braddock run.

Zigmund Milkulski, 26, of Monongah, driver of the car, said he lost control when his machine skidded on the wet road and struck the bridge abutement while heading toward Cumberland. He was cut about the face.

His mother, Mrs. Catherine Milkulski, 52, suffered an injured left wrist and cuts and bruises about the face. His sisters, Martha, 22, and Celia, 31, were also cut and bruised about the face.

All were treated at Allegany hospital and discharged.

Trooper Mason, who investigated, said the party was motoring to New Jersey for the Labor Day week-end when the mishap occurred.

The narrow bridge, near the former Clark distillery, has been the scene of many automobile accidents and several persons have been killed.

Police Hope for Peaceful Day As Jail Is Filled

Today, Labor Day, is a legal holiday and police apparently want to take it easy with the rest of the country.

The force went to town over the week-end and filled the city jail by arresting twenty-three men on charges of being drunk. Three of the men jailed were also charged with loitering and two others with disorderly conduct.

Several other men were apprehended for being disorderly, while two were marked "hold for investigation".

Standing room only prevails at the jail.

4-H CHAMPION—Winner of fifty-four premiums in the Girls' 4-H Show of the 1940 Cumberland Fair, Miss Loretta Miller, daughter of Mrs. Enona Miller, of Lake Gordon, will seek more awards this week when she enters four of her prize-winning exhibits in the Maryland State Fair which opens today at Timonium. All of Miss Miller's exhibits will be placed on display in the 4-H Food Preservation Department of the state fair. Miss Miller is a graduate of Fort Hill high school, Class of 1939.

Restrainer against Carnival Denied By Circuit Court

Moorefield Moose Claim Show Broke Contract; Threatens To Sue

Members of Moorefield Moose Lodge No. 358 are pretty sore over the carnival they declare up and walked out on them on the eve of their "Giant Labor Day Celebration."

But the organization's attempt to prevent the appearance of the show any place in Maryland didn't get very far in Circuit Court Saturday.

The Moorefield lodge claims the Miller Brothers Shows agreed to appear in their community today. The Moose members advertised the show far and wide.

Last week the management of the show sent word that the carnival would go to Frederick this week instead of Moorefield. This burned the Moose members up.

They got in touch with Attorney Simon F. Reilly who filed a petition in Circuit Court asking that the Miller show be restrained from appearing anywhere in Maryland until the Moorefield engagement is filled. The petition was directed against Morris Miller who in turn engaged Attorney Edward J. Ryan.

Ryan filed a demurrer to the petion which was sustained by Associate Judge William A. Huster.

Council for the Moorefield lodge then obtained a number of attachments against the carnival equipment and lodge officials claim a damage suit will be filed against the Miller firm if the show fails to appear in Moorefield today.

Cumberland DeMolays Attend State Conclave On Eastern Shore

Fifteen officers and members of Cumberland Chapter, Order of DeMolay, have gone to Cambridge to attend the eighth annual Maryland State Conclave which opened yesterday at which time Mayor Irving Jackson delivered the address of welcome.

The Cumberland delegation included George Barnard, master councilor; William Armbruster, secretary, Harold Messman, Donald Rockwell, William Hanks, George Beckwith, Charles Carney, George Dayton and Henry Cline.

Senator George L. Radcliffe will speak at a banquet scheduled tonight and at the dance to be held in the Cambridge armory "Miss DeMolay of Maryland" will be chosen. Young women representing the various chapters will vie for the honor. Miss Shirley Driscoll will represent Cumberland chapter.

Approximately 200 DeMolays from Maryland, Pennsylvania and Washington, D. C., are attending the conclave.

Big July Payroll Third Largest In Five Years, Chamber Reports

Wages Received Nearly Half Million More than in July, 1939

The July payroll in Cumberland, $1,972,705, is the highest figure reached since Dec., 1939, when it was exceeded by $11,000, the monthly report of the Chamber of Commerce revealed Saturday.

The July payroll has been topped only twice since the chamber started keeping its business records in 1935, Secretary H. W. Smith announced.

The employment in July totaled 14,578, showing a decrease of 79 compared with June of the same year, whereas the payroll of July was $265,732 more than for the month of June, 1940.

Compared with July, 1939, the payroll shows an increase of $499,028 with 1242 more persons employed.

"This substantially increased monthly payroll is due partially to the fact that July, 1940, contained five pay days in some plants as against four in the same month of 1939," Mr. Smith said.

"It seems apparent that this increase in activity has been well maintained during the month of August," the chamber secretary added.

Comparative statistics released by the chamber represent seventeen major industries. They are:

Employed

July, 1940	14,578
July, 1939	13,336
June, 1940	14,657

Payroll

July, 1940	$1,972,705
July, 1939	$1,473,676
June, 1940	$1,706,973

Postal receipts in July amounted to $14,934.96, an increase of $563 compared with June. Postal savings deposits for July amounted to $8,883 showing a decrease of $1307 compared with June. Postal savings bonds totaled $14,700 for July, $300 below the June figure.

Juvenile Judge Urges Parolees Join Boys' Club

Quartet Involved in Series of Robberies Ordered To Repay Merchants

Arrested last Monday evening on charges of breaking and entering a number of stores, a bakery, storage house and gas station, four North Mechanic street boys Saturday were paroled in Juvenile court on condition that they repay merchants for stolen goods and that they take out memberships in the Cumberland Police Boys' Club.

Judge Elizabeth R. Menefee said that it was the first time any of the boys had been brought before the court and leniency was shown because it was their initial offense.

The juvenile court head urged that each of the boys join the Police Boys' Club.

Boys' Admit Theft

Arrested a week ago by Detective Robert E. Flynn and Officers W. E. Crabtree and James E. Kelley, the four youngsters, ranging in age from twelve to fifteen years, admitted that they had burglarized six places of business in the northern section of the city.

Police started the roundup after receiving a telephone call from Mr. Hager, 835 North Mechanic street, who reported that two boys attempted to break into his fruit market but were scared away when he put in his appearance.

Among the places the boys admitted entering, according to police, were Bowman's grocery, Dillinger's gas station, Ort's bakery, Wolfe's slaughter house, Wisman's grocery and Gerson's storage.

Loot Is Varied

The loot included meat, cigarettes, cigars, candy, bread, cake, oranges and nine quilts.

Police said the boys admitted taking a pane of glass out of the White Flash gas station but were unable to make entry. The boys also said that they tried to enter the Trieber Electric Company, North Mechanic street, but were unable to gain admittance after they had clambered to the roof of the establishment, police reported.

Condon To Attend Police Meeting

State Association Session Scheduled Next Week in Ocean City

Cumberland will be represented by Officer James J. Condon, of the police department, at the third quarterly meeting of the Maryland Police Association, scheduled for September 9 and 10 at Ocean City, Washington hotel, Ocean City, Md.

Monday afternoon will be devoted to registration, and in the evening there will be a gathering in the social hall.

Tuesday morning is set apart for a business meeting, to be followed by luncheon and addresses by speakers of note. Among the invited guests are Governor O'Conor, Mayor Howard Jackson, of Baltimore, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and other honorary members of the association, of which Chief Constable J. Hanson Hooper, of the Baltimore Peoples court, is president.

William Connell, a member of the Cumberland police department, and vice-president of the state association, will be unable to attend.

Niece of Local Woman Wins Title of "Radio Queen of the South"

Mrs. I. L. Harper, 213 Washington street, has received word that her niece Miss Edythe Wray, of The Terrace, Barton Heights, Richmond, Va., has won the title of "Radio Queen of the South" in a competition at Miami Beach.

Miss Wray, who is a contestant, was the winner in the Richmond News Leader-WRNL Talent contest conducted during July and August. More than sixty young women between the ages of sixteen and twenty-five competed. The grand award was a trip to Miami Beach, Fla., and extensive entertainment as guests of the Miami Beach Hotel Association, co-sponsors of the contest with the News Leader and WRNL.

At Miami Beach, Miss Wray competed with nine other young women from as many other Southern cities for the title "Radio Queen of the South." Her youth and enthusiastic personality took Miami by storm. Though the youngest contestant to reach Miami, Miss Wray won the title and a trip on the Clipper to Havana, Cuba, where she sang over several of the Havana wave stations, and in addition will be given a week's contract to appear at one of Miami's most exclusive night clubs.

Accompanying Miss Wray to Miami and Havana, was her mother, Mrs. H. T. Engleman. They left for return to Richmond today.

Cobbler's Body Found in Weeds Back of Silk Mill

Wife Identifies James R. Lewis, 40, World War Veteran

A 40-year-old Cumberland cobbler was found dead yesterday at 4 p. m., back of the old silk mill on Gay street. Death was attributed to natural causes.

The victim, James R. Lewis, of 248 North Centre street, a World War veteran, was found lying face down in a patch of weeds near the railroad tracks. Police went to investigate when called by H. B. Rice, of Oldtown road.

Dr. Linne H. Corson, deputy medical examiner, was called and ordered the body removed to the Hafer funeral home.

Police To Investigate

Dr. Corson examined the body for any marks or bruises and found none. He deferred rendering a verdict until police concluded an investigation.

Lewis was clad in a blue-striped work shirt, blue work trousers, white socks and black oxford shoes. Four boxes of matches, a cigarette lighter and cigarette papers were found in his trouser pockets.

Lieut. James E. Van, Detectives Frank Gaffney and Robert E. Flynn, and Officers John Powers and John Smallwood examined the victim at the Hafer home.

Both Powers and Smallwood identified the man although neither would say he was positive.

Wife Identifies Body

Lieut. Van went to the Lewis home and brought the victim's wife to the funeral home. Mrs. Lewis immediately identified the man as her husband.

Mrs. Lewis said her husband left their home on North Centre street early this morning and did not return.

Dr. Corson issued a verdict of death due to natural causes.

Boulevard Hotel Has New Manager

Robert Muse, of Virginia, Named Successor to Bruce C. Cook

Robert Muse, of Winchester, Va., has taken over the management of the Boulevard hotel, replacing Bruce C. Cook, who retired after having served as manager and assistant manager for five years.

Mrs. Muse, wife of the new manager, becomes housekeeper of the hotel, supplanting Mrs. Alpha E. Payne, who severed her connection with the hotel Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Muse have had experience in public work and in recent years had charge of the Green Lantern restaurant and tourist camp at Capon Bridge, W. Va.

The new manager and his wife took over their duties at the Boulevard yesterday.

Decision in Freno Case Awaits Outcome Of Wolfe's Injuries

A three weeks' old assault case was aired Saturday in trial magistrate's court, but the decision was deferred pending the outcome of the injuries suffered by the attackee.

Joseph Freno, 465 Warren street, was arraigned on a charge of assaulting J. Donald Wolfe, 25, of 630 Shriver avenue, August 12. Wolfe had both jaws and a cheekbone broken and several teeth knocked out by his assailant.

Several nights prior to the assault, Wolfe's wife and another young woman were dancing together at a roadhouse near Frostburg when a friend of Freno, from Akron, Ohio, attempted to "cut in". Investigation officers said. An argument between Wolfe and Freno followed.

According to testimony, Freno waited outside of a Greene street American store, of which Wolfe is manager, until he closed the place at 5 p. m., and then attacked him.

Freno was released under $1,000 bond pending a decision in the case. His attorney was Edward J. Ryan.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris and County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle prosecuted Freno.

Maryland Children's Aid Society Interviews Applicants Here

Miss Beatrice Malone, of the Maryland Children's Aid society, was in Cumberland several days last week, authorized to interview those families, in this district, who have made application to care for refugee children from England.

These children include not only English children but also those who had been fortunate enough to have been evacuated from the continent to England during the early days of the war.

There have been four applications in Allegany county, one each at LaVale, Ellerslie, Barton and Westernport.

Qualifications that will have to be met by those persons who are willing to care for one or more of these children, have been outlined by the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor and issued to the Child-Care agencies. The Maryland Children's Aid society will take charge in Maryland.

Miss Malone is checking the standards of foster-care which can be provided. Her work is to investigate the community in which the family makes its home, which must be able to provide good schools, good medical care, and opportunity for church attendance and religious instruction. The home must offer safety, proper light, heat and ventilation. The family itself must provide proper care and be financially able to provide adequately for their guest, for whose well being they assume entire responsibility. These children are wards of the Crown and it must be understood that they may not be adopted.

The Maryland Children's Aid society will keep in touch with the families for any supervision needed.

This work is being done to acquaint the committees, with the number of homes available, so they may provide, through the State department, the ships with safe convoy to bring the children to America.

Any person willing to accept a child-guest in their home may make application by writing to the Maryland Division of the United States Committee for the Care of European Children, Equitable building, Baltimore, Md.

3,500 Persons Attend Final Concert Here By Arion Band

Cumberland's farewell band concert of the 1940 season attracted a crowd of 3,500 persons to Constitution park last night to hear the Arion Band, of Frostburg, under the direction of R. Hilary Lancaster.

The concert lasting an hour and a half, consisted of fifteen band and vocal selections.

Generous applause greeted all of the numbers and Prof. Arthur Thomas had the audience join him in singing encores to "My Wild Irish Rose" and "God Bless America". His third selection was "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

One of the encores offered by the band was "The Brave Rifles," a march dedicated to the Sixty-Second U. S. Cavalry, stationed at Fort Myer, Va., and requested by Jacob Wolfe, of Shriver avenue, adjutant of the veterans' organization, who was too ill to attend. Mr. Wolfe supplied the band with copies of the march music. The second encore by the band was "Down by the Ohio."

Forty-seven members comprised the band. The concert had been postponed a week on account of rain.

Suffers Injury

Mrs. Frances Harvey, 626 North Centre street, suffered a lacerated right hand Saturday night while opening a tin can. She was treated at Allegany hospital and discharged.

Beekeepers and Pigeon Fanciers To Vie for Awards at State Fair

Charles Smith and Son, John Lindner, Peter Klavuhn Are Exhibitors

Allegany county's leading pigeon fanciers and beekeepers are listed among the Western Marylanders exhibiting at the Maryland State Fair at Timonium this week.

Charles A. Smith, of LaVale, and his father, Charles Smith, of 437 Walnut street, yesterday shipped 106 pigeons, including the entire "Tumbler Family" to the state's largest fair while John Lindner, of Bedford road, and Peter Klavuhn, of Yale street, leading premium winners at the 1940 Cumberland Fair, will vie for awards in the bee culture department at Timonium.

The Smiths captured a majority of the pigeon premiums at the Cumberland Fair and between them carried off $400 in cash awards.

Lindner Seeks Premiums

John Lindner, who will exhibit boxed honey, extracted honey in jars and beeswax at the state fair, was the No. 1 exhibitof in the bee-culture department at Fairgo last month. He won four out of a possible six first places, finished as runner-up twice and received $46 out of $95 offered in cash premiums. Klauvhn also ranked high among the premium winners.

Lindner, regarded as the outstanding amateur bee-keeper in Allegany county, has 115 colonies of bees at his Bedford road place and his annual output is two and a half tons of honey. His exhibit includes flower pots and saucers and large and small candlesticks made of beeswax. A former state prize winner, Lindner is exhibiting at Timonium for the second time. He also plans to show at the Hagerstown and Frederick fairs.

Twenty-four Allegany countians will have their Cumberland Fair prize-winning exhibits in competition at the state fair, according to Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent.

Miller Exhibits Entered

Heading the two dozen from this county is Miss Loretta Miller, of Lake Gordon, leading premium winner at Fairgo. Miss Miller, who received fifty-six premiums, amounting to $70.50 in cash, will have four of her prize-winning exhibits displayed in the Food Preservation Department of the 4-H Show.

Washington Swimmers Win Queen City Meet

Receive Police Boys' Club Trophy; Mickey Chambers Tops Scorers; Mrs. Kight Suffers Injury

Scoring a total of forty-three points to capture first place in the team competition, the Washington Golf and Country Club yesterday was awarded the gold trophy donated by the Cumberland Police Boys' Club in the first annual Queen City Championship Swimming and Diving Meet, held at Constitution Park pool, under the sponsorship of the Park Pool Board.

The trophy, donated to the team scoring the greatest number of points in the meet, was presented to Captain William Wright, of the capital city team, by M. F. Prendergast, sports editor of the Cumberland News, and representative of the South Atlantic Association of the A.A.U., which sanctioned the contests. The championship team is captained by Harry P. Godwin.

Shoreham Is Runner-Up

Runner-up honors went to the Shoreham A.C., of Washington, D. C., with 31 points. Other teams finished in the following order: Baltimore Y.M.C.A., 30 points; Washington Airport, 25 points; Baltimore Knights of Columbus, 23 points and the Cumberland Aquatic Club, 21 points.

Individual high scoring honors were captured by Miss Mickey Chambers, of the Baltimore Y.M.H.A., who amassed a total of thirty tallies. Miss Chambers, incidentally, was the lone entrant from the Baltimore swimming club.

The meet of twenty-four events, directed by William H. Buchholtz, pool superintendent, assisted by Sergt. W. B. Lovenstein, of the Cumberland Police Department, attracted a crowd of approximately 1,500 persons. There were about 100 participants in the program.

Medals donated by fifty Cumberland merchants and business men were awarded for first second and third places in the men's and women's individual events and members of the winning relay team; silver medals for first places and bronze medals for second places in junior events and bronze medals for first place winners in midget contests.

Mrs. Kight Injured

The only accident to mar the meet occurred in the women's diving event in which Mrs. Marjorie Lowery Kight, a member of the Cumberland Aquatic Club, struck her nose on the low board while attempting a front flip somersault. She was taken to Memorial hospital where attaches reported that her injuries consisted of lacerations of the nose. At first it was feared that Mrs. Kight had suffered a fractured nose.

Officers for the meet were Kenneth Mowen, referee; Wellington B. Lovenstein, starter; Charles Metz, III, clerk of the course; Herman Ball, first place judge; Fred Leydig, second place judge; Charles E. Metz, II, third place judge; M. V. Dodderer and Charles Mowen, timers; Chauncey Ashley, Harry Stark and Elza Nave, diving judges, and William Brady, official scorer.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, as chairman of the committee on Agricultural Resources and Production of the Maryland Council of Defense and Resources (hows that for a title?) has tossed a boquet at Henry W. Price, of this city.

The gesture is made in connection with a publicity release issued by Dr. Byrd in which he states that he will call his committee together shortly for the purpose of organizing the work and submitting a preliminary report.

"We are fortunate in having on the committee, Mr. Henry W. Price, of Cumberland, a man of sound judgment and wide business experience," Dr. Byrd states.

The committee chief is also gratified over the fact that it has on its membership P. C. Turner, president of the Maryland Farm Bureau, who, he notes, "is thoroughly informed on agricultural matters and has already furnished the council with useful data."

"It will be our hope to make a valuable contribution to Maryland's activities in the defense program," Dr. Byrd states.

"While our first meeting will not be conclusive, "it will no doubt be possible to produce fruitful results in that we can make available to the Defense Council accurate figures on the present agricultural production of the state and can even go further and show how far this production meets state needs and how far it falls short—in brief whether there is a surplus or deficit."

"The work of the committee," Dr. Byrd says, "will be to assemble facts and figures and then endeavor to interpret their relationship to the social, economic and industrial life for the state in so far as they relate to the defense program. All this, of course, cannot be accomplished at our first meeting but we shall lay plans for promptly carrying out our objectives."

Pointing out that automobile deaths continue at an appalling figure, the chamber of commerce is asking members to support the forthcoming Safety Week program to be sponsored by the Western Maryland Automobile Club.

The auto club members will meet Wednesday night to complete plans for the campaign, which starts the week of September 16.

Elgin To Name 1,500 Stations For Auto Tests

Annual Checkup for Defects Will Start October 1 and End November 15

Inspection stations for the annual checkup of motor vehicles required by the automobile laws are being selected for the campaign beginning October 1, W. Lee Elgin, comissioner of motor vehicles, announces.

The commissioner asserted that the rise in accidents is due in some measure to faulty mechanism and that rigid inspections and removal of unsafe vehicles from the highways will help to correct this condition.

About 1,500 garages and automobile service stations will be available for the inspection period which ends November 15. Mr. Elgin said positively that there will be no extension of time.

Declaring that the breaking of king bolts was found to have caused a large number of accidents, the commissioner said that they would be inspected along with brakes, lights, steering gears, tires, horn, windshield wipers, windshield glass and other parts having a definite bearing on safety.

The commissioner has asked Governor Herbert R. O'Conor for the co-operation of the Maryland Traffic Safety Committee in the campaign.

Democratic Committee Meeting Last Night

At the regular meeting of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee last night at the Windsor hotel, it was announced that a letter had been received from the national chairman "offering any support that the county state central committee wishes relative to the coming election." The chairman was instructed to contact the national committee, offering full co-operation.

The county committee went on record, it was stated, to make definite plans for the coming fall election.

Slippery Roads Blamed for Two Auto Accidents

Nine Persons Injured in Series of Crashes over Week-End

Rain and slippery roads were blamed for two of three automobile accidents in which nine persons were injured, none seriously, in and near Cumberland over the week-end.

Miss Alice Brode, 21, of Frostburg, was admitted to Allegany hospital early yesterday morning after the car in which she was riding collided with another machine on Greene street. She suffered lacerations about the face and right eye.

Charles F. Swarner, 628 Lincoln street, driver of the car occupied by Miss Brode, was injured about the left knee. He was treated at the hospital and discharged.

Driver of the other car, Harry R. Small, 1445 Otis Place, N. W., Washington, D. C., escaped injury, but his wife, Lou Ellen, was cut about the face and nose. She received treatment at the hospital and was released.

Both Drivers Arrested

Officers J. H. Newhouse and F. O. Daum, who investigated, placed charges of reckless driving against Swarner and Small. Both were released under $10 bond pending a hearing tomorrow in trial magistrates court.

Mrs. Mina Millward, 38, of Detroit, Mich., suffered severe cuts and bruises about her face and leg Saturday afternoon when the car driven by her husband, John A. Millward, 40, crashed against a guard rail and car on Polish mountain, sixteen miles east of here.

Mrs. Millward and her husband, who was cut about the head, were brought to Memorial hospital. She was admitted and discharged yesterday. Her husband was released after being treated.

State Trooper B. C. Mason said Millward's machine skidded on the slippery highway during a heavy rainstorm, struck the guard rail and then hit the car of Capt. Jay W. Dasche, of the Green Ridge CCC Camp, who was ascending the mountain. Capt. Dasche was not hurt.

Members of Family Hurt

Four members of a West Virginia family were injured early Saturday morning when their car skidded on the slippery road at a sharp curve in LaVale and crashed against the bridge spanning Braddock run.

Zigmund Milkulski, 26, of Monongah, driver of the car, said he lost control when his machine skidded on the wet road and struck the bridge abutement while heading toward Cumberland. He was cut about the face.

His mother, Mrs. Catherine Milkulski, 52, suffered an injured left wrist and cuts and bruises about the face. His sisters, Martha, 22, and Celia, 31, were also cut and bruised about the face.

All were treated at Allegany hospital and discharged.

Trooper Mason, who investigated, said the party was motoring to New Jersey for the Labor Day week-end when the mishap occurred.

The narrow bridge, near the former Clark distillery, has been the scene of many automobile accidents and several persons have been killed.

Police Hope for Peaceful Day As Jail Is Filled

Today, Labor Day, is a legal holiday and police apparently want to take it easy with the rest of the country.

The force went to town over the week-end and filled the city jail by arresting twenty-three men on charges of being drunk. Three of the men jailed were also charged with loitering and two others with disorderly conduct.

Several other men were apprehended for being disorderly, while two were marked "hold for investigation".

Standing room only prevails at the jail.

4-H CHAMPION—Winner of fifty-four premiums in the Girls' 4-H Show of the 1940 Cumberland Fair, Miss Loretta Miller, daughter of Mrs. Enona Miller, of Lake Gordon, will seek more awards this week when she enters four of her prize-winning exhibits in the Maryland State Fair which opens today at Timonium. All of Miss Miller's exhibits will be placed on display in the 4-H Food Preservation Department of the state fair. Miss Miller is a graduate of Fort Hill high school, Class of 1939.

Restrainer against Carnival Denied By Circuit Court

Moorefield Moose Claim Show Broke Contract; Threatens To Sue

Members of Moorefield Moose Lodge No. 358 are pretty sore over the carnival they declare up and walked out on them on the eve of their "Giant Labor Day Celebration."

But the organization's attempt to prevent the appearance of the show any place in Maryland didn't get very far in Circuit Court Saturday.

The Moorefield lodge claims the Miller Brothers Shows agreed to appear in their community today. The Moose members advertised the show far and wide.

Last week the management of the show sent word that the carnival would go to Frederick this week instead of Moorefield. This burned the Moose members up.

They got in touch with Attorney Simon F. Reilly who filed a petition in Circuit Court asking that the Miller show be restrained from appearing anywhere in Maryland until the Moorefield engagement is filled. The petition was directed against Morris Miller who in turn engaged Attorney Edward J. Ryan.

Ryan filed a demurrer to the petion which was sustained by Associate Judge William A. Huster.

Council for the Moorefield lodge then obtained a number of attachments against the carnival equipment and lodge officials claim a damage suit will be filed against the Miller firm if the show fails to appear in Moorefield today.

Cumberland DeMolays Attend State Conclave On Eastern Shore

Fifteen officers and members of Cumberland Chapter, Order of DeMolay, have gone to Cambridge to attend the eighth annual Maryland State Conclave which opened yesterday at which time Mayor Irving Jackson delivered the address of welcome.

The Cumberland delegation included George Barnard, master councilor; William Armbruster, secretary, Harold Messman, Donald Rockwell, William Hanks, George Beckwith, Charles Carney, George Dayton and Henry Cline.

Senator George L. Radcliffe will speak at a banquet scheduled tonight and at the dance to be held in the Cambridge armory "Miss DeMolay of Maryland" will be chosen. Young women representing the various chapters will vie for the honor. Miss Shirley Driscoll will represent Cumberland chapter.

Approximately 200 DeMolays from Maryland, Pennsylvania and Washington, D. C., are attending the conclave.

Big July Payroll Third Largest In Five Years, Chamber Reports

Wages Received Nearly Half Million More than in July, 1939

The July payroll in Cumberland, $1,972,705, is the highest figure reached since Dec., 1939, when it was exceeded by $11,000, the monthly report of the Chamber of Commerce revealed Saturday.

The July payroll has been topped only twice since the chamber started keeping its business records in 1935, Secretary H. W. Smith announced.

The employment in July totaled 14,578, showing a decrease of 79 compared with June of the same year, whereas the payroll of July was $265,732 more than for the month of June, 1940.

Compared with July, 1939, the payroll shows an increase of $499,028 with 1242 more persons employed.

"This substantially increased monthly payroll is due partially to the fact that July, 1940, contained five pay days in some plants as against four in the same month of 1939," Mr. Smith said.

"It seems apparent that this increase in activity has been well maintained during the month of August," the chamber secretary added.

Employed
July, 1940	14,578
July, 1939	13,336
June, 1940	14,657
Payroll
July, 1940	$1,972,705
July, 1939	$1,473,676
June, 1940	$1,706,973

Juvenile Judge Urges Parolees Join Boys' Club

Quartet Involved in Series of Robberies Ordered To Repay Merchants

Arrested last Monday evening on charges of breaking and entering a number of stores, a bakery, storage house and gas station, four North Mechanic street boys Saturday were paroled in Juvenile court on condition that they repay merchants for stolen goods and that they take out memberships in the Cumberland Police Boys' Club.

Judge Elizabeth R. Menefee said that it was the first time any of the boys had been brought before the court and leniency was shown because it was their initial offense.

The juvenile court head urged that each of the boys join the Police Boys' Club.

Boys' Admit Theft

Arrested a week ago by Detective Robert E. Flynn and Officers W. E. Crabtree and James E. Kelley, the four youngsters, ranging in age from twelve to fifteen years, admitted that they had burglarized six places of business in the northern section of the city.

Police started the roundup after receiving a telephone call from Mr. Hager, 835 North Mechanic street, who reported that two boys attempted to break into his fruit market but were scared away when he put in his appearance.

Among the places the boys admitted entering, according to police, were Bowman's grocery, Dillinger's gas station, Ort's bakery, Wolfe's slaughter house, Wisman's grocery and Gerson's storage.

Loot Is Varied

The loot included meat, cigarettes, cigars, candy, bread, cake, oranges and nine quilts.

Police said the boys admitted to taking a pane of glass out of the White Flash gas station but were unable to make entry. The boys also said that they tried to enter the Trieber Electric Company, North Mechanic street, but were unable to gain admittance after they had clambered to the roof of the establishment, police reported.

Condon To Attend Police Meeting

State Association Session Scheduled Next Week in Ocean City

Cumberland will be represented by Officer James J. Condon, of the police department, at the third quarterly meeting of the Maryland Police Association, scheduled for September 9 and 10 at George Washington hotel, Ocean City, Md.

Monday afternoon will be devoted to registration, and in the evening there will be a gathering in the social hall.

Tuesday morning is set apart for a business meeting, to be followed by luncheon and addresses by speakers of note. Among the invited guests are Governor O'Conor, Mayor Howard Jackson, of Baltimore, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and other honorary members of the association, of which Chief Constable J. Hanson Hooper, of the Baltimore Peoples court, is president.

William Connell, a member of the Cumberland police department, and vice-president of the state association, will be unable to attend.

Niece of Local Woman Wins Title of "Radio Queen of the South"

Mrs. I. L. Harper, 213 Washington street, has received word that her niece Miss Edythe Wray, 2115 The Terrace, Barton Heights, Richmond, Va., has won the title of "Radio Queen of the South" in competition at Miami Beach, Fla.

Miss Wray, who is a contralto, was the winner in the Richmond News Leader-WRNL Talent contest, conducted during July and August. More than sixty young women between the ages of sixteen and twenty-five competed. The grand award was a trip to Miami Beach, Fla., and extensive entertainment as guests of the Miami Beach Hotel Association, co-sponsors of the contest with the News Leader and WRNL.

At Miami Beach, Miss Wray competed with nine other young women from as many other Southern cities for the title "Radio Queen of the South." Her youth and enthusiastic personality took Miami by storm. Though the youngest contestant to reach Miami, Miss Wray won the title and a trip on the Clipper to Havana, Cuba, where she sang over several of the short wave stations, and in addition will be given a week's contract to sing at one of Miami's most exclusive night clubs.

Miss Wray has unusual poise for a young woman of her age, being just seventeen, and delighted the crowd when as winner she presented one of her trophies to the runner-up.

Accompanying Miss Wray, to Miami and Havana, was her cousin, Mrs. H. T. Engleman. They will return to Richmond today.

Miss Wray will be a senior at John Marshall high school next year. During the past year she was sponsor of Company C at the school, and took active part in the school's musical life.
